JFK to Farmers: Accept Controls or Aid Cut

Will Slice $5 Billion In 4 Years

Program Hardest Since Back in 30s

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sent a tough new farm program to Congress today which would give the nation's farmers this choice: accept much tighter production controls on surplus products or face a cut-off of most federal price supports and other aid.

Kennedy said in a special message that his proposals are designed to slice an estimated $5 billion off farm programs over the next four years. The programs otherwise would cost more than $12 billion during that period.

Income Boost Is Goal

Additional aims are to boost farm income and reduce costly farm surpluses now in government hands, he said.

Farmers growing wheat, corn, oats, barley and sorghum grains would lose all price supports if they did not go along with acreage allotments and marketing quotas set under the new program. In addition, the government would reserve the right to dump huge amounts of these surplus grains on the markets. Under most conditions this would depress prices.

Dairymen Included

Marketing quotas would be set on all dairymen for the first time if the program is approved.

The new Kennedy program is the toughest proposed by a president since federal controls were introduced into agriculture in the 1930s.

In the past farmers were asked to cut production of surplus items or perhaps lose some of their price supports. Now it's a case of cut surplus production or get practically no aid.

The more rigid controls highlighted what Kennedy described as his "A B C D" farm program for the 1960s — abundance, balance, conservation and development.

Needs Figure In

He said the program is built around maximum use of the nation's food abundance while balancing future production with needs, conserving farm resources and developing low-income rural areas.

The tigher controls would be applied, in the beginning, to the three big surplus products—wheat, feed grains and dairy products. They would require approval by at least two-thirds of the producers voting in three separate referendums.

Outline Given

Briefly, here are the programs proposed for these products:

Wheat—Reductions of possibly as much as 20 per cent in the years immediately ahead in acreage allotments and marketing quotas from the 1961 level. Growers will ge a somewhat higher price support for grain used for food in the domestic market and a lower one for wheat sold for export. All wheat now is under the same support level.

Should the program be rejected, the government would withdraw all supports and reserve the right to dump up to 200 million bushels of its surplus grain on

OAS Votes 20-0 for Speedy Ouster Of Cuba; Fidel's Delegates Absent

Go-Slow Nations Abstained From Earlier Ballot

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Inter-American foreign ministers formally adopted a final report today on their resolutions against Cuban communism, including a vote for ouster of Fidel Castro's Red regime by the Organization of American States.

Cubans were absent from the plenary meeting and the report was approved 20-0. President Osvaldo Dorticos and his aides were holding a news conference elsewhere as representatives of the rest of the nations in the OAS convened.

Rusk Musters Votes

Though Secretary of State Dean Rusk's bid for unanimity on the ouster issue failed earlier today, the United States had mustered the necessary two-thirds majority for the vote directing the Castro regime's speedy expulsion from the councils of the inter-American family.

'Go Slow' Jars U.S.

The biggest and most powerful nations in Latin America jarred the United States by refusing to vote for the expulsion "without delay" of the Castro government from the Organization of American States and its various agencies. The vote was 14-1, with Cuba voting no and the go-slow bloc of Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Bolivia and Ecuador abstaining.

Pact Called Near For Paris, Rebels Cease-Fire Plan

PARIS (AP)— France's capital buzzed today with reports that President Charles de Gaulle's government and the Algerian rebels are near agreement — or have reached one—on a cease-fire and independence in the war-torn Northern African territory.

The Geneva correspondent of the Belgian radio, quoting an authoritative North African source, said complete agreement on an Algerian settlement had been reached at a secret meeting in Vevey, Switzerland.

De Gaulle May Give Word

Paris newspapers Tuesday night carried prominent stories that an agreement was near, and various sources in Paris had the impression crucial developments on Algeria would come this week.

There was no official confirmation of the various peace agreement reports, and none was expected from French officials before Monday night. If agreement has been reached, President de Gaulle presumably will announce it in a radio-TV speech scheduled then.

Several developments gave substance to the reports of an impending climax in the Algerian drama.

The French army rolled strong detachments of troops and ar-

Feb. 13 Earliest Now for Glenn's Orbital Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —John H. Glenn Jr. now must wait at least 13 more days for his historic date with the heavens because of troubles with the Atlas rocket which is to loft him into orbit around the earth.

The problem turned up Tuesday during a fueling test of the Atlas, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the oft-postponed launching was off until Tuesday, Feb. 13 at the earliest.

Surging Need Reported for Recreation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special commission reported today that a surging need for more outdoor recreation in America must be met by imagination, large-scale action and "money—lots of it."

But the Outdoor Recreation Resources and Review Commission left it to President Kennedy and Congress, and to state and local governments, to figure out price tags and what specific areas should be acquired or improved.

The 15-man commission, headed by Laurance S. Rockefeller, New York, did say that "the first task is to provide recreation for the metropolitan regions, which have the biggest population and demand for recreation and the least space for it."

Action Urged Now

In urging immediate acquisition of ocean and lake shores, it said that: "Highest priority should be given to acquisition of areas located closest to major population centers and other areas that are immediately threatened. The need is critical—opportunity to place these areas in public ownership is fading each year as other uses encroach."

Basically, the commission said, there is plenty of land and water acreage for recreation, but most of it "is where the people are not."

Rockefeller told a news briefing that it was on purpose that "we haven't come up with either acres or dollars." The commission's idea, he said, was to discuss the principles and tools and leave it to others to determine how they can be used best.

Sure of Bills

No plans have been developed, he told a questioner, for following through on the report in the legislative field. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., a commission member, said he was sure bills would be introduced to carry out many of the recommendations.

By direction of Congress, the commission has been spending three years and $2.5 million peering into the problem of outdoor fun as it will develop over 40 years—up to the year 2000.

It put more than 50 recommendations on paper. Some probably will be echoed in a vast conservation program, stressing recreation which Kennedy is expected to put before Congress in a special message Feb. 21.

Rocky's Budget Message in Brief

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Here are highlights of Gov. Rockefeller's budget message to the legislature:

In this, my fourth budget message. . .it is gratifying to be able to present a financial plan which carries forward and sound fiscal and management policies established during the last three years. . .it provides the fourth consecutive year of pay-as-you-go state financing in New York State.

We are holding the line on taxes. No new or increased levies are recommended.

We expect 1962 to be a good year. . .average weekly wages of manufacturing production workers are expected to rise to $95 and we expect 150,000 or more new jobs for a total of at least 7,450,000 (m) employed in this state.

Personal income tax revenue is estimated at $1,035,000,000 (b) in 1962-63, an increase of $45 million over 1961-62.

It is a source of great personal satisfaction to me that our state is in firm, financial condition to meet its responsibilities and that our children will not have to pay our debts.

Spending for Education Will Run Over $1.1 Billion, Message Says

Governor Close on $135,000 Surplus, No New or Increased Levies Proposed

BANKER ARRESTED — August J. Lippi, a director and former president of the First National Bank of Exeter, Pa., leaves federal courthouse in Washington. He was arrested by FBI agents in connection with an investigation of the bank's accounts. (AP Wirephoto)

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller pointed today to sharply rising costs of education as one of the state's "most pressing problems" as he sent to the Legislature a record state budget of $2.6 billion. More than half of a $231-million increase will go to schools.

A rising tide of enrollments from kindergarten through the State University is exerting the greatest single pressure on state spending and will continue to do so indefinitely, the budget showed. Spending for education was set at more than $1.1 billion, nearly 43 per cent of the total for the new year.

Rockefeller budgeted a razor-thin surplus of $135,000 for the fiscal year beginning April 1.

Thus, the lawmakers will either have to cut the budget in some areas or raise taxes if they contemplate spending other than the amount the governor proposed.

Rockefeller up for re-election this year, served notice that, as far as he was concerned, "we are holding the line on taxes."

"No new or increased levies are recommended," he declared.

At the same time, the governor made no mention of tax relief, as was granted last year.

Many Skip Session

The 740-page budget, an inch-and-a-half thick, was sent by messenger to a Legislature shy of many of its members.

Clerks in the Senate and Assembly were designated to read condensed versions of the Rockefeller budget message. Rockefeller did not plan to appear in person and many lawmakers decided to skip the session today.

The budget provides for a razor-thin surplus of $135,000 in the fiscal year beginning April 1, which includes a state election in which Rockefeller will run for a new, four-year term.

"We are holding the line on taxes," Rockefeller declared in his budget message. "No new or increased levies are recommended." Neither did he mention tax relief, such as the 10 per cent rebate on personal income tax granted last year.

No Major Spending Programs

The budget contained no major new spending programs. Most of the increases proposed are slated for established programs enacted in previous years—state aid to schools, expansion of the State University, highway-building.

Rockefeller employed some fiscal gymnastics in keeping his spending program out of the red.

A potential gap of $90 million to be realized by advancing payment dates of corporation and bank-tax installments, $41 million in partial repayment of a state loan to the Thruway Authority and $9 million from advancing payment dates of cigarette taxes.

Big Gamble Involved

The budget involves a Rockefeller gamble that a booming economy will produce enough additional revenues by 1963 to overcome any future lags between income and spending.

Otherwise, new taxes would be necessary to close any gaps, in the absence of such one-time income as the Thruway repayment.

The governor estimated total income at $2,591,000,000, of which $2,550,000,000 will come from taxes and the $41 million from the Thruway loan.

While actual appropriations will exceed that amount, the full amount of the money appropriated will not be spent by the end of the fiscal year March 31, 1963.

As a result, actual spending now is expected to conform to income at $2,591,000,000.

However, additional spending ordinarily is authorized by the Legislature after it passes the main budget.

More for Education

The governor's budget provides an appropriation of $1,113,000,000 for education, an increase of $139 million over spending this year.

Public welfare, highways, highway-safety, health and mental health appropriations will require a total of more than $1 billion.

The state will raise the money to finance the budget through income-tax collections estimated at $1,035,000,000, business taxes of $542 million and a wide range of levies on sources ranging from horse races to inheritances.

Major Spending Listed

These and major spending increases proposed by the governor:

Chichester Area Has Six Below, -23 in Boonville

A comparatively mild January gave New York State a real cold shoulder today as temperatures plummeted to as low as 23 below zero in one section.

The icy cold air mass from Canada was felt in the Kingston Area and more of the same is on tap for tonight and early Thursday.

Kingston's official low for the night, according to the city engineer's office, was five above zero at 7:30 a. m. Elsewhere, it was colder, reports indicated.

Willow Records -5

Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro reported the mercury dipped to six below in his Chichester area. Willow recorded five below and Hurley posted minus four. It was two below in Bearsville, just zero at the Kingston Water Supply station at Lake Hill.

Police headquarters in the villages of Ellenville and Saugerties recorded zero readings and the state police sub-station at Leeds, Greene County, had a similar bone-chilling reading.

From West Shokan came reports of two above and four above zero. It was four above in downtown Kingston while the uptown section of the city had six above.

Twenty or more below zero was common early today in the Adiron-

Shorter Week Is Plan for Police, 658 Force Boost

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller proposed today a shorter work week for a State Police force he wants to be bigger, more comfortable and equipped to draw revolvers faster.

The governor's budget message to the Legislature recommended that the State Police work week be cut from 60 hours to 40 and requested an appropriation of $21,229,087 for the 1962-63 fiscal year. This is $4.1 million more than the current year.

Rockefeller asked that the personnel be increased by 658, including 50 civilians, to 2,528; that the pay be boosted 5 per cent and that light-weight summer uniforms be provided.

For Quicker Draw

New equipment proposed for the state troopers includes shorter holsters that would permit quicker draw of newly issued revolvers with 4-inch barrels. The old issue has 6-inch barrels.

Reorganization of the state police, begun a year ago, "has resulted in a modern, hard-hitting organization which is in a better position to cope with problems of highway safety and crime," the governor said.

Needed on Highways

The governor said that, to make more effective use of manpower, 30 uniformed men had been shifted to field police duty and been replaced at desks by civilian employes.

But, he said, an increase in highway mileage and traffic, the assignment of more two-man patrols, and the continued stress on highway safety had created a need for more police personnel.

City Fire Loss Is $180,908 For 1961, Chief Brett Notes

Four two-alarm fires, including that which blazed through the Livingston & LeFever building, 25 Cornell Street, and nearby structures last Nov. 1, as noted in Fire Chief James M. Brett's annual report to the fire board Tuesday night, brought the city's 1961 fire loss total $136,146.28 above that in 1960.

Total loss for the year on buildings and contents was $180,908.98 as compared to $44,762.70 in 1960. The latter was $21,481 over that of 1959 when the loss was exceptionally low.

The three other second-alarm calls among the 486 total for various purposes during the year were: Jan. 18, Utility Platers, 36 St. James Street; Jan. 27, Frank's Restaurant, 586 Broadway, and Sept. 13, Sav-On Stores, Inc., 702 Broadway.

The fire loss on buildings alone was $95,896.48 and insurance on buildings was reported at $601,400. The loss on contents was $85,012 with the insurance at $327,250. The total insurance on buildings and contents was $928,650, and the fire loss per capita was fixed at $6.10.

Total insurance on buildings and contents involved in 1960 fires was reported at $1,921,050 and the per capita loss was reported at $1.53. The 1959 per capita loss was 70 cents.

Chief Brett noted that the 1961 fire loss total is incomplete "due to the department's not receiving reports from insurance agents to whom questionnaires were mailed."

Report on Alarms

A total of 56 bell alarms were reported for 1961. Of these 31 were for fires, six were caused by fluctuation of water pressure in buildings and 19 were false alarms. The department received 292 telephone alarms, 23 of which were false. Listed also were 74 emergency calls other than for fires, and 41 verbal reports.

Inspections numbered 367 and investigations and complaints involved 158 calls. The report noted 58 fires to which the department was not called. Fire loss on these was listed at $5,161.02 and insurance on buildings and contents involved was reported at $490,100.

Equipment Used

Equipment used at fires included 19,950 feet of 1½-inch hose, 30,350 feet of 2½-inch hose, 2,044 feet of ladder raised, and 100 salvage covers spread. Pressurized water extinguishers, Indian tanks and brooms were also used on fires.

Damage resulting of the Livingston & LeFever fire alone was estimated at upwards of $100,000. Nearly 100 firemen, including volunteers fought the blaze, which began in the afternoon of Nov. 1, continued for some 10 hours, during which several firemen were injured.

Rayburn Seat Is Won by Roberts In Texas Voting

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Ray Roberts, a merchant and president pro tem of the Texas Senate, has won the U.S. House seat of his political mentor, the late Sam Rayburn.

The 48-year-old Democrat, jubilant almost to the point of tears, said he was succeeding "the greatest man who ever lived." He promptly telephoned Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, long a political associate, and arranged a victory meeting in Washington Monday.

Roberts defeated Robert C. (Bob) Slagle in Tuesday's runoff election in Texas' 4th congressional district, represented by Rayburn for 48 years.

When the vote count ended Tuesday night Roberts held an insurmountable lead of 16,047 to 13,302 and Slagle had conceded.

Both Roberts and Slagle were proteges of Rayburn and both described themselves as supporters of the Kennedy administration, although Roberts was regarded as more conservative.

Portugal Gets Stiff U.N. Rebuke for Angola Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly slapped Portugal again Tuesday night with landslide approval of an Asian-African demand for an end to repression in Angola and an immediate start toward independence for that West African colony.

The assembly approved the resolution by a 99-2 vote with one abstention. The stinging rebuke to Portugal aroused speculation if dictator Antonio Salazar would out his threat to quit the world body Portugal joined six years ago.

Only Spain and South Africa voted against the Asian-African resolution, which was approved after more than two weeks of debate marked by heated denunciations of Portugal's policies. France was the sole abstainer.

The only consolation for Portugal was the defeat of a much tougher Communist proposal to condemn Salazar's colonial policy and call on the Security Council for punitive action. This resolution was defeated 26-43 with 32 abstentions.

The Security Council scheduled debate Thursday afternoon on the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. The council may agree to hear a speech by Sir Zafrulla Khan, Pakistan's chief delegate, but it then is expected to adjourn the debate until after the Indian elections in February so India's usual spokesman, Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, can be present.

Workers Approve Plans for Union

The National Labor Relations Board conducted a certification election at the Century Cement Manufacturing Co. Inc. plants at Rosendale and Tilison Tuesday when 36 votes were polled for the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers AFL-CIO.

Earl Benjamin, international representative of the UCLGW, said votes were cast for the Operating Engineers Local 825 A. B. and C., and 12 votes for no union. Two votes were challenged, Benjamin said.

The union representative said the Cement Workers Union will hold a meeting of the workers and elect officers and prepare a contract to be negotiated with the company.

Area Democratic Women Schedule Winter Meeting

"Democrats — County and Town — Their Mutual Responsibilities" will be the subject discussed at the winter meeting of the Ulster County Democratic Women's Division at Democratic Headquarters, Main Street, Rosendale, 8 p. m. on Wednesday, Feb. 7.

B. Sears Hunter, chairman of the Orange County Democratic Committee, will discuss the importance to the success of the Democratic Party of active and efficient organization of each unit of the party, election district, city, town, and county.

Hunter's talk will be followed by a panel discussion of how the county and town organizations can help each other. Discussion from the floor will be an important part of the program.

Hunter is especially well qualified to discuss organization in the Democratic Party and the mutual responsibilities of each unit. He has served as a committeeman in his native Town of Blooming Grove, and from 1954-59 was chairman of the town committee. He has been treasurer of the Orange County Democratic Committee, state committeeman from the first Assembly District, and since early 1961 chairman of the county committee. In 1957 he was the Democratic candidate for district attorney.

Admitted to the Bar in N. Y. State in 1939, he has law offices in Newburgh. He is married and has five children and lives on the farm in Blooming Grove which has been in his family for over 150 years.

At the close of the meeting refreshments will be served by members of the executive committee.

All Democratic women of the County, whether members of the Women's Division or not, are invited to attend this meeting. Men may also attend as guests. "The program planned is expected to be of great help to the success of Democratic work in the important election ahead,' said Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr, president of the Women's Division.

Buffalo Fire Damages Stores, Bowling Alley

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A fire caused extensive damage to seven stores and a bowling alley Tuesday night in a business block on the city's West side.

No one was reported injured.

Firemen battled the flames in four-degree temperatures.

The fire was belie ed to have started in a second-floor bowling alley, firemen said. The block on Grant Street also housed a dry cleaning establishment, a food market, a shoe store, a fruit store, a coin laundry, an auto store and a vacant shop.

The estimate of damage was not immediately determined.

New Yorkers In Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y., says there's nothing like a telephone call from a constituent to whittle a man down to size.

O'Brien said he once got a call from an Albany resident who complained that his furnace had broken down and he had no place to turn. Would the congressman please do something?

The Albany Democrat said he asked the constituent whether the latter had reported the trouble to a city inspector.

"I didn't want to go that high," the constituent replied.

Halfway Club

O'Brien, incidentally, is in the forefront of a move to form a "3½ club" in Congress. It would be made up of former newspaper, radio and television newsmen who are or were congressmen. More than 150 would be eligible.

"It's halfway between the third and the fourth estate," O'Brien quipped. He noted that President Kennedy would be eligible for membership.

O'Brien and Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., a former Chicago newspaperman, hope to organize the club this year and hold their first annual dinner next year, if they are returned to Congress.

The plan calls for the congressmen to stage skits during their dinner, O'Brien said, to mock their leaders and newspapermen. The parts would be interchangeable just in case a club member had the misfortune to receive his involuntary retirement in the next election.

"If you're looking for ham actors, what better place to go," O'Brien said of Congress. "In fact we'll need very little makeup." About 55 present members of Congress would be eligible for club membership, O'Brien said.

In addition to O'Brien, a former newspaperman in Albany, other New Yorkers who would be eligible for membership are Reps. Samuel S. Stratton, Democrat, and Edwin B. Dooley and Seymour Halpern, both Republicans.

$17.45 for Rocky Fund

Gov. Rockefeller of New York already has a pledge of support—complete with $17.45 as a campaign contribution—if he wants to seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Donald H. Dalton, a Washington lawyer and chairman of the Draft Rockefeller for President Club in the Washington aea during 1960, said he's ready to "rally around the flag again" to work for Rockefeller's election in 1964.

He wrote the New York governor to advise him that the group had $17.45 in its bank account after the 1960 political fireworks died.

The House Government Operations Committee says federal property in New York is worth $1,843,662,000, mofe than in any other state except Alaska, California, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington state.

The 222,852 acres and 10,818 federal buildings are divided among 744 federal installations, the committee said.

BEHIND THE STATISTICS

Diseases of the heart and circulation comprise the greatest health problem of the United States. The weight of evidence to support this conclusion is too great to be disputed.

The statistics toll like some grim tocsin: About 10 million persons in the United States, including half a million children, suffer from heart and circulatory disease; such diseases are the cause of more than half of all deaths in the nation; among Americans in the productive age group of 45 to 64, half of all deaths result from diseases of the heart and blood vessels; these diseases cost industry more than a billion dollars annually in lost man-hours of production.

There are encouraging facts about heart disease, too. Though the exact causes of the principal heart and circulatory disorders have not yet been discovered, steady progress is being made through research. High blood pressure is no longer uncontrollable. Ways of preventing rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease have been evolved. Effective treatment of stroke is now possible in many cases; most victims of heart attack now recover, even to the extent of returning to work.

Two vital points emerge from the statistical picture. The first is that this is not essentially a matter of statistics at all—that individual human beings, individual human suffering, are involved. The second point is that every American has it within his power to help shift the balance from the grim figures of disability and death to the side of progress toward better treatment and cure. The Heart Fund campaign during February richly deserves the support of all of us.

Stan Musial thinks this will be his last year as a ballplayer but says he still loves baseball. At $70,000 a year, we can see why.

Back in the mid-1930s, it was fashionable for population experts to say the United States was a mature nation whose numbers were gradually leveling off.

If any of those forecasters are still around, they must be pretty chastened fellows.

The Census Bureau has just revised its predictions again, saying we are growing faster than was thought and may add another 30 million people by 1970, for a total near 215 million.

The boy's don't have time for reflections about "national maturity" and the like any more. They're too busy revising last year's forecasts.

The good old days were no warmer, but at least we weren't told every half hour how cold it was.

It is estimated that 4,300,000 cars will be junked during the year. Reckless drivers will account for a lot of them.

PORTUGAL'S WEAKNESS

An exaggerated idea of his own strength has got many a man into trouble. The same goes for nations. So it is with Portugal. Her weaknesses have been recently exposed by the revolt of her African possession of Angola, and in her inability to protect her centuries-long outpost Goa, against conquest by India. Premier Salazar, the Portuguese dictator, was obviously unprepared for either happening.

Now he is facing discontent at home. His policy of inaction and indifference to social betterment has proved inadequate. Signs of unrest were manifested back in 1959, when the spectacular piratical seizure of the vessel Santa Maria told the world that many Portuguese wanted a change of government.

Now Portugal's colonial administration is coming up before the United Nations. Salazar, resenting this bitterly, threatens to leave the U. N. and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. That would only make matters worse for him. England, Portugal's ally for seven centuries, shrinks from defending the Portuguese record.

Salazar might as well realize that his is a small country, and one not presently in very good repute in the family of nations. He should pull in his horns and concentrate on improving conditions at home.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

HIS NAME IS UNCLE SAM

One of the truly great editorials of all time appeared in the "New York Sun" in reply to a child, Virginia, who wanted to know whether there is a Santa Klaus. The truth of the matter, of course, is that there is a Santa Klaus, but he dwells only in the heart of the generous. He has no form, no style, no nationality, no particular religion. He is the embodiment of love.

Now along comes Robert G. Smith who wants to know if there is an Uncle Sam. He writes to ask:

"My name is not Virginia and I'm considerably more than nine years old but I, too, have a momentous question regarding a well-known character:

"Is there an Uncle Sam?

"You know who I mean — the tall, rugged, white-haired figure in red-and-white-striped trousers, blue coat and star-spangled hat — traditional symbol of the American Way of Life.

"Is he still around? Or is he hiding out in the Green Mountains of Vermont? Or some other place like that?

"Some say Uncle Sam is a back number. They say Uncle Sugar Daddy is now top man in Washington — doling out his assorted 'goodies' to his many nephews and nieces, his country cousins and foreign relations.

"They say patriotism is strictly for the birds — the vanishing Bald Eagle that is. . . .

"I suppose it's the old-fashioned Connecticut Yankee in me, or maybe my four years in the Navy during World War II, but I'm kinda hard to convince.

"Disturbed by the obvious lack of any national book of patriotic inspiration, and remembering that where there is no vision the people perish, I compiled ONE NATION UNDER GOD as 'An Anthology for Americans,' with the earnest hope and prayer it would be hailed with gladness as just what the country needs for times like these. . . ."

Of course, there is an Uncle Sam. He is a simple fellow who has built a great country with his own hands. His ancestors crossed an ocean to find an alien shore here. Everybody who ever came here had to cross a frightening ocean.

In the old days, Uncle Sam's ancestors found Indians and forests and wild beasts; today, those who come find large cities, with good roads to connect them, with railroads and airplanes. In the old days, each man built his home and his schoolhouse and his church by his own sinews and sweat; today he moves into a house of the most modern devices.

In the old days, Uncle Sam had to find a place for himself, where he could farm for food and clothing, where his wife could cook and spin and sew; today, his wife finds what she requires in a supermarket, while he earns a wage and builds a family.

In the old days, Uncle Sam crossed mountains and rivers and valleys, carrying his goods and folks with geat hardship until he found a place for himself, risking limb and life to conquer a continent and make it a glorious granary; today, he finds ample facilities to take him from place to place and wherever he goes there are mines and mills and factories and stores to provide work, and wherever he goes there are schools and colleges and technological institutes for those who require such facilities and have the ambition to use them.

And there are churches, too. There are prayer houses for all varieties of religion, each man either following freely in the ways of his ancestors, or choosing his own way, or none at all. Freedom of choice is the doctrine that guides our people and those who would limit freedom are regarded as hateful creatures, not true descendants of Uncle Sam.

Is there an Uncle Sam?

More than 50 races of man have found a free life here, freedom of opportunity, freedom of choice, freedom of movement, freedom to work, freedom to read and write and speak. And to give glory to it all, for each there is freedom to worship God, each man as he chooses, whether Jew, or Christian, or Moslem, or whatever.

Is there an Uncle Sam?

How can one doubt it?

Yes, Uncle Sam is in the hearts of those who believe that freedom and equality are qualities which come to us from God and will survive all the errors of stupid and selfish men and women.

'Athletic Heart' Is Tops On List of Medical Myths

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I would like once again to draw your attention to that hardy medical myth, "the athletic heart." Like all fairy tales, it continues to be told and retold from generation to generation.

Without seeking any further explanation, the "athletic heart" is blamed for any and every attack that occurs to a participant in a sports contest of any sort. And to any and every attack that occurs to an athlete without regard to what he may have been doing at the time of his difficulty.

What should be, but won't be, the last nail in the coffin of this medical myth has been furnished by Drs. Curren and White of the Massachusetts General Hospital. With the cooperation of Mrs. Clarence DeMar, these famous cardiologists examined the heart of Mr. DeMar, who was popularly known in the world of amateur athletics as "Mr. Marathon."

During the course of his life, DeMar, who had been told in his youth that he had a "weak heart," participated in 1,000 long distance races, including 100 marathons of 25 miles or more more.

The first of DeMar's long distance runs of record took place in 1909 when he was 21. In that race, a cross-country event, he finished fourth and was awarded his letter a the University of Vermont where he ran as an undergraduate. The last of his races was a 15 kilometer "marathon" (about 10 miles) that he ran at the age of 69 at Bath, Me. And, in the intervening 48 years, he ran 34 marathons and, in seven of them, was winner.

In the last of these marathons, that he ran at the age of 66, he finished 78th in a field of 133 qualified runners.

Nor is that all. In addition to working as farm manager, proofreader and teacher, he ran two evenings a week, took a degree in fine arts at Harvard in 1915 and his master's degree in education at Boston University in 1932.

And, in 1912, he represented us in the Olympic games but failed to finish due, in his opinion, to a vegeterian diet that was inflicted on him by the trainers and officials of the team.

Yet withal, including an operation for an intestinal cancer some two years before his death, his heart and its coronary vessels revealed no changes other than those that might have been found if he'd lived his 69 years commuting between bedroom and dining room. "Athletic heart" indeed!

"You, Too?"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the face of all the gloomy predictions that President Kennedy won't get this or that item of his program approved by Congress, it is well to remember how long it takes to get any new idea written into law.

The old rule of thumb has been that, "It takes a generation to get a reform through Congress."

IT TOOK 50 YEARS to get permanent income tax legislation. First approved as a temporary, emergency measure in the Civil War, an income tax law was re-enacted in 1894, only to be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Only by ratification of the 16th amendment in 1913 was Congress given authority to lay and collect taxes on income, "from whatever source derived."

Women's suffrage, advocated in 1850, did not become law in America until the 19th amendment to the Constitution was ratified in 1920—70 years later.

MANY OF THE OTHER reform movements of Woodrow Wilson's "new freedoms" era lay dormant from 1921 to 1933 in what Dr. George Galloway, author of the new "History of the House of Representatives" calls "the age of acquisition and enjoment," the great period of prohibition.

But the country was left in the depths of a depression when the New Deal came along. That made passage of Franklin D. Roosevelt's reform programs a simple, hurry-up matter in the first 100 days of his administration.

Since that time the legislative wheels have ground a little faster. But in took from 1940 to 1946 to get the LaFollette-Monroney program adopted for reorganization of Congress

The Atomic Energy Act and the Full Employment Act were also passed in 1946 to meet needs arising from the war. And the next year saw passage of the Marshall Plan, Truman Doctrine and reorganization of the United States armed services into a single Department of Defense.

Creation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1958 is another example of Congress acting rapidly to meet some new situation. But under normal peacetime conditions there is no such urgency.

DOMESTIC CRISES THAT NECESSITATE immediate passage of President Kennedy's new programs, outlined in his messages to the new Congress, are not so apparent.

The high priority items on this list include:

An increase in postage rates to make the Post Office Department pay its own way. Authority to reduce income tax rates temporarily as an offset to recession. Complete reorganization of Department of Agriculture price support, conservation and land use laws to bring supply and demand in better balance. A new foreign trade plan with authority to negotiate tariff cuts across the board instead of on an item-by-item basis.

But none of those things are really new.

Postage rate increases offer the simplest case in point. Ever since the war and probably before, both Republican and Democratic presidents have recommended that the postal deficit be eliminated.

Until the recent House vote which sent a revenue bill worth about $700 million to the Senate, Congress refused to buy any attempted solution to the postal deficit.

A FLEXIBLE TAX RATE SYSTEM has been proposed for years—among others, by Dr. Galloway in a 1941 book, "Planning for America." That the farm programs have been in need of overhaul has been obvious since the end of the Korean war, while surpluses have piled up to the $9 billion level.

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements legislation has been fought over when it has come up for renewal every third year since original passage in 1934.

Creation of an International Trade Organization was first proposed along with the United Nations Charter in 1945, and again by President Truman in 1948. Congress would have none of it either time.

But now, faced by the challenge of the European Common Market, the idea of greater international trade co-operation comes up for another round.

Time may have helped make all these ideas more acceptable.

Reds Seen Playing Down Cold War for Time Being

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe it's time to look at the Berlin "crisis" in a different perspective than "sudden war." For there are signs that Nikita Khrushchev has decided to put the problem on ice indefinitely.

This means there will be no acute stage for the present, and yet no settlement of any of the basic issues either. The controversy may go on for years just as it is. While there is no agreement to disagree, the effect is just the same as if both sides had decided to let sleeping dogs lie.

Such a formula seems to have been adopted in many places around the world by the Soviet Union. It doesn't mean that the Communists have retreated from their demands or objectives or that they cannot be expected to resume at any moment their crisis-making tactics. But it does indicate that the last thing the Kremlin wants is a show of force that will provoke the use of force.

Besides, the Soviets have plenty of places in which to continue their harassments in the cold war. They have put on ice some issues that can be taken out at any minute and warmed up, and they have others that are being cooked up.

Quiet on Quemoy

A survey of the world scene indicates that the Communists have allowed the Quemoy-Matsu situation in the Far East to freeze, but it can be heated up at any moment that it seems opportune for the Communists to start another crisis.

In Geneva, after hundreds of sessions, the conference on the subject of a nuclear-test ban has for the time being adjourned, but there is no certainty it will not be resumed whenever the spirit moves the Moscow government or some propaganda advantage to the Communists appears in the offing.

Most people may have forgotten that a "negotiation" over the return of American prisoners by the Peiping government, which has involved hundreds of meetings at Warsaw between Chinese and United States ambassadors, has been on ice for several years now.

Unsettling West

Then there are the protracted talks between the representatives of the UN and the Communists in Korea. The armistice agreement of 1953 has never been followed up by a treaty of peace. A state of war exists, but no fighting.

The palaver about Laos looks like a marathon affair, too. The Viet Nam area may be the scene of some guerilla operations which are probably a part of the strategy of keeping the whole question unsettled and a source of anxiety to the West.

The Communists never enter into these stalemates without having achieved a strong military position from which they can resume their offensive. In East Berlin, for example, by building their wall they have succeeded in stopping the exodus of East German citizens and they also have struck a body blow at West Berlin's economic situation. Naturally, the Communists would like to see this form of torture continued indefinitely. It tends to accentuate differences between East and West Germany and to postpone any idea of reunification. This is, of course, a basic aim of the Communists.

Wants No Crises

So there's no special advantage to the Russians in bringing the Berlin situation to an acute stage when most of their objectives are being attained by indirection. Whether the West should or shouldn't have permitted the wall to be built or now should demand that it be torn down will be debated academically. But the truth is the West is in no mood, either, to create any more crises than it has on its hands already.

As for the Communists, they have plenty of troubled waters into which they can cast their bait. They are more or less entangled in the Algiers problem and also in various parts of Africa, though at the moment they are not doing so well in the Congo. Their stooge, Lumumba, was killed, and Gizenga, his successor, seems to have lost ground. The African nations themselves are getting a bit suspicious of Russian maneuvers and are becoming a bit more interested in an African counterpart of the "Alliance for Progress."

For the time being, Premier Khrushchev has taken the heat off Finland, as he believes he has gotten what he wanted in the Presidential election in that country. There remains the whole Latin-American problem which Moscow is watching carefully. It worries Castro somewhat that the Communist government isn't aiding him openly and fighting harder for him in the Latin-American area generally, but he, too, will find that Moscow operates slowly as well as selfishly.

Meanwhile, the West isn't altogether dormant. The United States has been articulate at the inter-American meeting at Punta del Este and may someday mobilize Latin-American countries under an anti-Communist banner. All this takes time and patience.

So, on the whole, the world is for the moment devoid of a war crisis and probably will keep on drifting this way without an acute stage being reached for many years, if at all. For the Russians also have domestic problems and no country anywhere seems to have become imbued with any desire to commit suicide in a nuclear war.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I see more and more frequent mention of the modern Ku Klux Klan of the early 1920's as a force which terrorized many of our people, possibly a majority. This is an exaggeration. The Klan apparently arose in Georgia soon after the First War.

H. L. Mencken, then on the rise in Baltimore and New York, was the best vituperationist of the campaign which, on his part, was objective, remote and safe. If any normal mission had required him to go to Columbus, Ga., for instance, he would have gone there as joyously as he went to Boston Common to autograph some publication of his which had offended the statutory verbotens imposed by Irish and the Puritan Protestants of the time. But he was not a leg-man and he absorbed his understanding of the Klan through his pores, but with fair accuracy at that.

By his wit and impudence he became the most influential national force against the KKK except the New York World. But other papers of local scope showed bravery and force and were single-handed heroes of a good fight. Herbert Bayard Swope, then editor of the World, sent good, city-side reporters into the South on initiative missions against the Klan. The Memphis Commercial-Appeal waged war which was personally dangerous to individuals and got a corporate nosegay from the Pulitzer people. M. E. Foster, of the Houston Press, patrolled a lurid skyline against bigots who were no less dangerous because they were secretive. And so did little Sidney Whipple, of the Scripps-Howard outfit who was shipped out to run the Denver Express and revelled in trouble. The press as a whole and many individual corporations, editors and reporters took chances on economic and personal reprisal and came through very decently. I do not recall that anyone was lynched or tarred and feathered but anyone might have been.

The Houston Klux were especially ornery, being tough Texans of the braggart tradition which has since brought embarrassment to the superior population of a superior American state. But Meefo, as they called Mr. Foster there, lived up to the frontier ethics. Like Whipple, he came through to face down the enemy in broad day.

The Klux were identified with the Anti-Saloon League and Bishop James Cannon's Methodist political force. They had the common cause of Prohibition. Many Protestant ministers gave aid and comfort to the Klan and obviously some of their religious adherents agreed with them. It was basically a white Protestant movement. Catholics were ineligible as being adherents of an alien potentate, the Pope of Rome. Catholics in the South never went in fear of the Klan but I have read lately where others take heroism to themselves because they did not hide under the bed.

I find pleasure in my recollection of the conduct of Mike McTigue and Joe Jacobs, both of New York when they went to Columbus, Ga., to lay their title of light-heavyweight champion on the line against Willie Stribling, a handsome local boy about 19 then and a good fighter. They took down their own referee, Harry Ertle, of Jersey City. The night before the fight a Committee of the Klux warned Ertle that they wanted very, very fair play. They took Jacobs to a window and pointed to two trees, one a slim, willowy thing, the other rather substantial and invited Joe and Mike to take their pick—now, in case of need next day. Joe generously chose the little tree because Mike was 40 pounds heavier. Mike said he wouldn't be needing no tree.

The fight went to a decision and there has always been confusion about Mr. Ertle's verdict. The locals said he gave it to Stribling but paused at the ropes on the way out and raised Mike's hand. Commotion ensued and the Northern boys hit the highway in the blackness hauling on their clothing at high speed. When they had crossed some state line, Joe telegraphed the New York sports editors that Mike had won the decision. A return match ensued in Newark and McTigue tied up Stribling for eight rounds and left no doubt. He was one of the greatest boxers of all time but no hitter.

Jacobs audacity reached a proud climax when he mocked a crowd of Nazis in Hamburg as manager of Max Schmeling. When the band performed the Nazis' anthem, the Horst Wessel song, the crowd stood at attention all except Jacobs, the New York Jew.

His picture is still in the files. He wore a chair-leg cigar in his face and a beret with a red pompom like a beefsteak tomato.

U. S. Catastrophes In 1961 Accounted For 1,250 Deaths

NEW YORK—Catastrophes (accidents which kill five or more persons) were responsible for abopt 1,250 deaths in the continental United States, during 1961, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians report. The toll was about 250 less than in 1960.

The principal factor in the decrease, the statisticians said, was the smaller number of fatal injuries in major catastrophes accidents in which at least 25 persons are killed.

About 260 lives were lost last year in major catastrophes, whereas approximately 450 lives were taken in comparable accidents during 1960.

Of the five major catastrophes in 1961, three involved civil aviation. One of them—the worst of the year—killed 78 persons when a scheduled plane plunged into a field near Chicago on September 1. Another claimed 77 lives on November 8 when a chartered aircraft crashed near Richmond, Va. In the third aviation catastrope a scheduled plane crashed in Chicago on September 17, taking 37 lives.

The remaining two major catastrophes of the year were natural disasters. Hurricane Carla caused nearly 50 deaths in the Southwest and Midwest in September, and floods which struck the Midwest last May claimed 25 lives.

Thirty per cent of the deaths in accidents taking five or more lives last year resulted from motor vehicle accidents, the statisticians said. Fires and explosions—many of them in the home — ranked second with about one-fourth of the catastrophe death toll. And civil aviation was responsible for one-fifth of the fatal injuries sustained in catastrophes in 1961.

Civil aviation catastrophes and those involving motor vehicles, and fires and explosions were responsible for an appreciably smaller death toll in 1961 than in 1960. Natural catastrophes contributed a considerably greater number of fatalities than in the year before.

NEW YORK (AP) —This is steel's time in the spotlight. Steelmen are happy over the climbing production and the better earnings now being reported. But many are a bit fidgety about the amount of public attention their industry is getting.

It's nice to be a basic industry—some even call it THE basic industry—and know you're that important. It's a bit troubling to be made the example of what should be done and can be done about the wage-price spiral and even the trend of the economy in general.

Labor Cautioned

Many are casting steel in that role this year. The main reason is that the Kennedy administration puts prime significance on the terms which steel workers and management will negotiate in the upcoming wage talks—and on how soon the talks can be concluded.

Washington wants no rise in steel prices and cautions labor against demands that might cause such a rise.

Other reasons are that climbing steel production now can be interpreted two ways. It means that the economy is starting a healthy growth trend from the level set when the recovery wiped out the last recession.

If the increased production is largely due to stockpiling against the chance of a strike, the overproduction now, followed by underproduction while buyers live off their inventories later, could upset the general economy.

Orders in Good Volume

Some steel mills say their customers aren't building up stocks as much as was expected. Most mills say orders are still coming in very good volume.

The orders are high enough to assure most major steel users all they'll need for the first half of the year at least, according to the metalworking weekly, The Iron Age.

It adds that steel capacity seems adequate to take care of any more orders likely from those wishing to make sure of a supply during the summer. The steel wage contracts expire June 30, so that any work stoppage would come after that.

Whatever the reasons for the upsurge in orders and in production, the figures themselves gladden the hearts of the steel mill managers.

In the last nine weeks steel output has advanced steadily, with the single exception of Christmas week when holidays were in order.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the beginning of broadcasting, speech purists have been mourning the constant attrition of our language from the mouths of the performers.

All of us have noted the extemporaneous speech of the jolly masters of ceremonies whose occupational problem seems to be "I-me" confusion ("It's so nice of you to visit the show and I").

One newspaper changes the title of the ABC show, "Who Do You Trust?" to "Whom do you Trust" when it turns up in its news columns—as opposed to its program listings.

Even though it's a vintage sales pitch, many sensitive viewers still flinch when a smoke is alleged to taste "like a cigarette should."

Tony Randall, actor and lover of the English language, is among those disturbed about the trend.

"Time was when actors considered it part of their jobs to preserve good speech," said Randall sadly.

"Today," he continued sternly, "the man who is considered a good actor is likely to speak worse than the average man—and mumble, in addition."

Randall, who speaks out and enunciates clearly, will be visible and making pear-shaped sounds next Monday night in NBC's 90-minute special, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

"I play the nephew," he said. "You remember, the only sane member of the family."

Jack Paar's guest next Monday night will be former vice president Richard M. Nixon—a return. Presumably, other candidates in the California gubernatorial race will thus become eligible for equal time.

Herbert Brodkin, producer of CBS' consistently interesting series, "The Denfeders" is broadening his executive base: a series of hour-long thrillers called "Espionage" to be made in England and partly financed by NBC.

Jack Benny's daughter, Joan, will turn up in a sketch on her father's show Sunday—a belated return. She was on the show once before, in 1954.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—Lena Horne, guest star.

February Term of County Court Will Open Monday

The February term of Ulster County court will open Monday, Feb. 5, at 2 p. m. at which time County Judge Raymond J. Mino will call the civil calendar followed by the call of the criminal calendar.

Trial jurors summoned to serve at the February term will report at 11 a. m. at which time excuses will be heard.

The February term of County Court will be in two parts, County Judge Raymond J. Mino holding the Part 1 sessions and Surrogate Judge Francis X. Tucker holding Part 2 where cases in which Judge Mino is disqualified will be disposed of. County Judge Mino, a prior district attorney, cannot sit in cases in which he participated while serving as the county's prosecuting officer.

There are three criminal matters on Judge Tucker's calendar and 85 criminal cases on the calendar of County Judge Mino.

The three cases on Judge Tucker's calendar are:

The People vs. William F. Smith and Dominick DeMicco, conspiracy and first degree grand larceny charges, and The People vs. Patrick A. Nezich, reckless driving.

Included on the criminal calendar for February is the second degree manslaughter charge against Mrs. Peggy Jean Battles, 22-year-old Marlboro mother of four, who is indicted for the death of her nine-week-old son who allegedly died from malnutrition.

The infant boy was taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, last October and was pronounced dead on arrival. Mrs. Battles told State Police she found the boy cold in his bed and took him to the hospital from her home on Van Vliet Road, Marlboro.

Dutchess County Medical Examiner Chester Golding said death was due to malnutrition and dehydration. Two of defendant's other children resided with her and another with her mother.

On the civil calendar which will be called on the opening day by Judge Mino are 11 cases which were carried over from the day calendar at the last term of court.

Protests New Party

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)-South Viet Nam's anti-Communist government has protested to the three-nation control commission against the recent formation by Communist North Viet Nam of a "Marxist-Leninist" party in South Viet Nam.

The new party is known as the Viet Nam People's Revolutionary party. Communist announcements indicate they plan to use the new party as the nucleus of a "neutralist" rebel government on South Viet Nam territory.

OAS Votes

The consensus at this hemispheric foreign ministers' conference was that the six nations had given the Kennedy administration's Latin-American policy a severe blow. The six contended that there presently exists no legal basis for expulsion of an OAS member and wanted to delay until such a legal basis could be created by amendment of the OAS treaty.

Blow Is Softened

The blow was softened somewhat when the United States' Latin-American allies solidly adopted a ringing declaration that Cuba's Marxist-Leninist government is incompatible with the inter-American system and Cuba's alignment with the Soviet bloc breaks hemispheric unity.

The foreign ministers, with the exception of Cuba, also lined up unanimously with the United States on three other resolutions that provided:

1. The most stinging denunciation of Communist intrusion in the Western world ever adopted by any inter-American body.

2. The expulsion of Cuba from the Inter-American Defense Board. This was little more than a formality since the Castro government has been barred from the board's sensitive deliberations for the last 10 months.

Endorse JFK's Alliance

3. A ringing endorsement of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program. The Latin Americans called the program the foundation for their nations' economic and social development on a self-help basis and the best weapon with which to combat communism and Castroite influences.

An embargo on arms trade between Cuba and the OAS members was carried 16-1, with Cuba voting no and Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Bolivia abstaining. The resolution also directs the OAS Council to study the possibility of extending the embargo to other articles, especially those considered of strategic importance.

A resolution calling for defense against international communism was approved 19-1, with Cuba voting against and Bolivia abstaining. The resolution asks the OAS "to maintain all vigilance necessary" to prevent aggression, subversion or other dangers to peace and security and directs the OAS to create a special consultation committee to aid those nations which request assistance on security problems.

The foreign ministers set formal signing of the resolutions and conference declarations at a closing session tonight.

May Meet in 10 Days

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he expected the OAS Council to meet within 10 days to two weeks to begin implementing the resolution.

A spokesman for Brazil, leader of the go-slow bloc, said he believed the council by the same two-thirds vote would suspend Cuba from participation in OAS affairs until a special Inter-American conference can be held to decide a legal procedure for Cuba's expulsion.

Rusk hailed the unanimity of action on other resolutions before the conference and particularly on the condemnation of Cuban communism. But some observers felt that the failure of the 20 nations to agree on Cuba's ouster from the OAS revealed a deep rift in the hemisphere.

Debt Over $298 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The national debt has risen above $298 billion for the first time.

The Treasury said today that the debt, as of last Friday, amounted to $298,049,359,273. The temporary debt limit of $298 billion was not violated, however, because some $438 million of the debt is not subject to the ceiling.

A year ago, the debt stood at $291 billion.

President Kennedy has proposed lifting the temporary debt limit to $308 billion.

We The Women

It's Not Worth the Effort Trying to Appear Younger

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A woman has to do more than cover up the gray in her hair to convince others she is younger than she is. She also has to:

Avoid sitting down at a cocktail party—even if her feet are killing her.

Forego the pleasure of recalling anything that would give her age away. Things like: "That song was popular when I was a freshman in college."

Avoid such remarks as "such and such just doesn't seem worth the trouble any more."

Strive for animation even when it's an effort.

Always manage to have a current enthusiasm to talk about.

Stay away from the sidelines—and keep herself in the spotlight.

Be vague, not only about her own age, but the ages of those who obviously are her contemporaries.

Avoid, like the plague, such remarks as "at my age" or "when I was younger."

Never mention that a style is too young for her or would look silly "at my age."

Keep her slang up to date—or not use any slang.

Never admit preferring quiet evenings at home to going out every night.

Never say "at our age" to any woman who is younger than she is.

Be enthusiastic about anything new.

Never, never talk about "the good old days."

In fact, there is so much that a woman who wants to seem younger than she is has to keep in mind all the time that it hardly seems worth the trouble—especially when the pretense rarely fools anyone, anyway.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: I am a housewife with two children grade school age. I will be going back to work in an office in a little over a month from now. This is my first job since my marriage. (I live in a large city, as you see from my letter.) But I feel very out of touch with fashion as a result of being at home all these years. (I've had very little need for good clothes.) Please give me some idea of what clothes I should buy at the very start. —Mrs. S. P.

Dear Mrs. S. P.: I took your problem to David Crystal, a designer who does clothes for young women just like you. He says:

"To start, you might decide to get a basic wardrobe which would include a three-piece costume suit with contrasting overblouse. If gray or taupe are good colors for you, have it in one of these.

"Another fashion that won't show its mileage no matter how often it's worn is a marvelously new linen dress with matching jacket that is guaranteed washable. You can wear the dress, then have a complete costume when you wear it with the jacket.

"Arnel jersey in a dress with a permanently pleated skirt would be another good choice. This will wash and drip dry; you can wear it and wear it. Such a dress with its own sweater companion would give you another complete outfit. A skirt with color-co-ordinated blouse and sweater would be another wardrobe plus for us.

"And, since fashion means a complete look, you will also need carefully chosen shoes, gloves, bags, jewelry and hats. All of this means just a beginning. Good luck!"

Dear Gaile: I still have a lot of those "Jackie Kennedy" unwaisted fashions which are perfectly good. But now that the waistline is back for spring, what do you suggest I do with them? I buy good clothes and take care of them so it seems wasteful to get rid of them and buy new things. Still, if they're out of style, perhaps I should get some new clothes. What do you think?—Mrs. J. G. B.

Dear Mrs. J. G. B.: I put this question to designer Mollie Parnis; I think you'll find her answer extremely helpful. She says:

"Fashion is a very personal thing. The best way to maintain a wardrobe is to add to it in the very same sense that you would add to any collection. This does not mean throwing out everything else you own. Some women on the yearly best-dressed list own and wear fashions they've had for anywhere from 5 to 10 years.

"It's true that the new clothes ARE closer to the body with an emphasis on the waistline. So, of course, you will want some of these new fashions. But if your old favorites are comfortable, becoming and you're fond of them, by all means, keep them and wear them, too."

$580.4 Million Asked

Welfare Budget Up $41 Million in NY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The outlay by the federal, state and local governments for public welfare in New York State in the coming fiscal year will go up $41 million, Gov. Rockefeller estimated today.

The federal government will supply slightly more than half of the increase—$21 million. The remainder will come from state and local tax coffers.

The total cost of welfare in 1962-63 is estimated at $580.4 million, Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller's budget showed a slight decrease in the amount the state appropriated for welfare for the current fiscal year, compared with that proposed today for the coming year.

His budget advisers, however, explained that some of this year's appropriation was not spent and therefore was applied to the coming year, resulting in an apparent decrease.

Actually, welfare formulas require that the state and local governments share costs on a 50-50 basis and therefore local costs could not increase without state costs doing so at the same rate, the advisers said.

One of the new costs this year is the medical assistance for the aged program launched by the federal government and joined by the state last year.

The program is expected to cost $68.6 million this year and $101.6 million the next.

The governor proposed no new welfare programs in his budget.

Welfare has been especially controversial in New York State in recent months because of Newburgh's efforts to cut its welfare expenses with a 13-point program. Twelve of the points have been declared illegal.

Program Confusing

$5 Million Set For Shelters in Schools of State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller apparently expects few school districts to build fallout shelters soon, despite the major program passed at a special session of the Legislature last fall.

The budget Rockefeller sent to the Legislature today provides only $5 million for construction of shelters in the coming fiscal year. The bulk of the money is intended for construction of shelters in state buildings, not local schools, the budget division said.

The program passed at the special session authorized the expenditure of $100 million in state assistance to schools, colleges and universities that constructed fallout shelters for their pupils and teachers.

Since that time, however, the Kennedy administration has proposed a shelter program.

Rockefeller is said to believe that no New York State school districts will undertake construction of shelters until the district is sure of what aid will be provided by the federal government.

In a statewide survey of school districts earlier this month, however, The Associated Press found opposition and confusion to be the chief reactions of Upstate educators to the state shelter program.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Leading state Democrats gather here today to scan Pennsylvania's political picture as it now looks in the light of the 1962 elections.

Gov. Lawrence told his news conference Tuesday that he will join the policy makers in a meeting "to discuss the situation."

Democratic State Committee Chairman Otis B. Morse later announced that the meeting was called to "explore all aspects of the 1962 Democratic statewide election campaign." Besides Lawrence, others invited to attend included:

Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh; U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark; Lieut. Gov. John Morgan Davis; Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia and U.S. Rep. William J. Green.

Thus far, the Democrats have no publicly declared candidate for the gubernatorial campaign. And Lawrence, in keeping with his past policy, declined to discuss any possibilities.

In other news conference developments:

State Police — The governor charged that Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom was trying to make "hay" but wound up with a "dud" in charges he leveled against State Police Commissioner Frank G. McCartney.

Lawrence read a report out of Philadelphia which quoted an FBI agent as saying the bureau at no time has "ever distrusted the Pennsylvania State Police.' '

Traffic Safety—The governor reported Pennsylvania set a new low of 387 pedestrian fatalities in 1961, while the state's traffic fatality rate dropped to a post World War II low.

The traffic fatality rate of 3.7 per 100 million miles of travel was the lowest of any of the major states. The actual deaths totalled 1,486 — including pedestrians— compared to 1,609 the previous year.

Three Kentucky IBM Engineers Share in $30,000

Three IBM engineers at the Lexington, Ky., plant shared in a $30,000 cash award Tuesday night at New York City for their invention which helped make possible development of a revolutionary electric typewriter.

The award was presented to Ronald D. Dodge, Leon E. Palmer and George A. Walker by Thomas J. Watson Jr., chairman of the IBM board of directors. They jointly developed a wear compensator for the new "selectric" typewriter. The device insures continuous precise positioning of the typing element in the machine by making automatic adjustments as wear counts over long periods of time.

Another award, for $10,000 for an invention involving computer magnetic tape systems, was shared by five engineers and two other engineers were awarded $5,000 apiece for individual inventions leading to important advances in data processing equipment technology.

$30 Million Over '61

Governor Proposes $384 Million for Highway Program

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—An accelerated $384-million highway - construction program and an intensified highway - safety campaign were recommended today by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor's budget proposed spending $30 million more in the 1962-63 fiscal year than in the previous year.

The governor emphasized that the largest highway-construction program in state history "has been done on a pay-as-you-go basis."

He recommended $1 million to finance two safety projects—replacement of the present white pavement barrier lines with yellow lines to indicate no-passing zones and modification, over a three-year period, of existing traffic signals to conform to national standards, which require a minimum of two signal faces on each approach to a controlled intersection.

The governor's recommended appropriation of $12,848,596 for the Motor Vehicle Department was $232,344 less than last year.

The governor also requested $7.2 million for snow removal in 1962-63. In the past, the cost of snow removal had been paid partly from deficiency appropriations.

YMCA News

Nearly 200 Attend Family Nite Event

The Family Nite party held at the YMCA Saturday night, had an attendance of 161 adults and children on the occasion of National YMCA Week, it was announced by secretary Louis H. Schafer.

The party included regular boy members and their families. Welcome was delivered by Willis Locke, a board member in the absence of President Chester A. Baltz Jr.

Steve Orozco, physical director introduced some of the members of the Leader's Club, who gave a demonstration of the Trampolet and Vaulting Box. This equipment is new in the gymnasium and this was the first demonstration. The Judo Class gave a demonstration on the art of self defense. This group has had only eight classes and made a fine showing.

Leon I. Van Heusen, youth secretary gave a description of the newly organized program to start this spring, called the "Unit Plan." Besides working with regular members, this program will be extended to First and Second Grade boys in the 6 and 7-year-old bracket. This will be a new departure as the lowest age for Y boy members has been 8 years.

The main gym was used for parents and boys in games, relays and general fun. Many went swimming in the pool under the supervision of James Rundle.

The small fry were shown comedy movies and received popcorn. This was handled by Jan Van Heusen. Other parents visited the craft shop and inspected some of the fine craft work of the boys division. Refreshments were served by members of the parents committee.

Board members and committeemen present were: Willis Locke, William S. Keyser, Robert Murray Jr., Bernard J. Mizel, Harold H. Baltz, Ernest Lombardi, Harry Mahood and Secretary Schafer.

School was taught by "piecework" a hundred years ago in Indiana. A teacher's fee ranged from 50 cents to $1.75 per pupil. At a time when $5 a month plus board was considered good teacher pay elsewhere, a teacher who was a real "hustler" at rounding up pupils and an equally good bill collector made $20 a month in Indiana.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I own a book called Regulations for the Navy of the United States, dated 1864. For instance one item, No. 387, reads in part: "Steam is not used at all when service can be equally or nearly, as well performed without it; secondly, that sail is never dispensed with when it can be employed to advantage to assist the steam, and thirdly, that full steam power is never empolyed, unless in chase, or absolutely necessary, the cause for which must be reported to the department in writing."

It seems in those days they had to save money. Now I guess they shoot the works. Another item, No. 389, reads in part: "To prevent accidents by spontaneous combustion, he is to order the greatest care be observed that coals are not taken on board when wet, and when on board they are kept as dry as possible. When a fresh supply is received, the commanding officer is to direct that those remaining in the coal-bunkers be as far as practicable, so stowed as to be used first."

No. 497 reads in part for the chief engineer: "We will provide a supply of oatmeal, to be issued to the firemen and coal heavers, without charge, at such times and in such quantities as the commanding officer may direct."

I have spoken to navy men about oatmeal in the drinking water on ship board. It seems that years ago, it was used, and those who did not like to drink the milky oatmeal water became ill. I have often heard it said, "If you eat oatmeal, you get as strong as a horse."

History is like a good mystery story. I have been trying to run down the oatmeal story for some time. In fact, it is said, that if a horse has had too much oats, and he does not get enough exercise, he will break down the barn, and it takes a good rider to hold him. Cooked oatmeal is for winter eating, I have been told by old timers.

I have a book called The Proud Possessors from the Kingston City Library. It was recommended to me by Mrs. H. Lown of Orchard Street, because Charles Lang Freer, her relative by marirage is written up in this book. Mrs. Lown's mother-in-law's cousin was Charles L. Freer, who gave the famous Freer Gallery to Washington, D. C. and is known the world over for its Oriental and Biblical treasures.

In this book, on page 49, covering the story of Isabell Stewart Gardner, whose money also brought famous treasures to this country, gives the story of her building Fenway Court in Boston. She would come there early in the morning and bring her lunch like a workman, and "contribute her ten cents for oatmeal to purify the drinking water." This building was begun in 1900. So perhaps Aline B. Saarinen explains the mystery of oatmeal in her book The Proud Possessors. She received the Guggenheim fellowship in 1957 for the completion of The Proud Possessors.

From time to time, in our own drinking water, there is a strong taste and odor of chlorine. It is supposed to make our water safe for drinking, but it often reminds me of the smell and taste of swimming pool water. Pets refuse to drink it at times, perhaps the answer is to sprinkle oatmeal in it. Although just what happens when oatmeal and chlorine meet, only a chemist can explain.

Science at Work In World Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The odds of death by solar storm for space travelers, new space eyes planned for world weathermen, and frustrations in a cat's life are subjects for science at work:

Odds Against Death

Every so often flares erupt randomly, on the surface of the sun and unleash a storm of radiation into space. On earth we're protected from most of it by the shielding of the earth's atmosphere. In space there is no protection.

For space travelers, this could be a hazard. But now Boeing Aircraft scientists, after a long study of solar storms, figure the odds against a death-dealing dose of this radiation in the course of a week-long space mission would be 120-1.

This is without shielding. The hazard of death would be even lower if spaceships were designed to use the equipment and fuel tanks as protection against the solar radiation.

Weather Eyes

The Tiros satellites already are sharpening the foresight of weathermen for large areas of the earth.

With their television cameras trained on the clouds that scud over the earth, the satellites have spotted hurricanes forming, clued weathermen in Australia to the end of a long heat wave, and helped pinpoint violent tropical storms.

Four more Tiros satellites will be launched, and in 1962 the first Nimbus satellite will be sent into orbit over the North and South poles. With this orbit, the Nimbus will be able to see clouds at every point on earth as the globe rotates slowly under it.

Finally, two Nimbus satellites may patrol at once, providing worldwide data every six hours.

A Cat's Life

Having trouble adjusting? Do things change too rapidly for you? Don't feel bad, your pet cat may have the same trouble.

Veterinarians investigating the mental health of pets find that cats do indeed become frustrated, largely from having to live in city environments or otherwise conform to human standards.

Low Intelligence

Biologists say that insects cannot rival man in intelligence because of their limited size. A brain mechanism allowing flexible behavior requires an enormous amount of electrons and no insect has reached a size large enough to provide the minimum.

Union Official Is Innocent of T-H Law Violation

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A federal district court jury has found Apalachin delegate James V. Laduca innocent of violating the Taft-Hartley law.

The jury returned its verdict Tuesday night after a six-hour deliberation.

Laduca was charged with accepting $10,853 in illegal fees between Nov. 1, 1955 and Dec. 27, 1957 from the Richford Operating Corp., owner of the Richford Hotel in Buffalo, and its president, Issie Morganstern of Rochester.

Similar charges against the corporation and Morganstern were erased by the verdict of innocent.

The government charged that Laduca was acting as a promotion man for the hotel while he was serving as financial secretary-treasurer for Local 66, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union.

Just Interested in Planes

Takes Long Way Home From Mass

CHICAGO (AP)— Rickie Oprondek, 10, a model airplane builder and an altar boy, left home Sunday morning carrying $4 and a prayer book to attend Mass.

He got home from Mass, by way of San Francisco and a round-trip jet flight on Tuesday night.

While police and his distraught parents sought the missing boy, he was found in San Francisco.

He got to the Golden Gate city, he said, by sneaking aboard an American Airlines jet passenger plane Sunday night.

"I didn't want to go nowhere," he said. "I wanted to see how it (the jet plane) looked. And it started. I didn't know the plane was going to take off.'

Rickie said after the plane took off he wanted to tell the stewardess he was a stowaway. "But I was too scared," he explained.

He spent two days in San Francisco, most of the time wandering around International Airport looking at airplanes and asking airline personnel questions about flights.

Airport employes noticed the boy was alone and alerted police. Police established his identity by the name in the prayer book he had in his coat. Then they got in touch with his parents through American Airline officials.

They quickly put him aboard a jet and sent him back to Chicago.

The boy was greeted at O'Hare International Airport by his father, John, 54, a machinst, and his mother, Mary, 52.

Detectives from the youth detail also were at the airport to question the boy. They said he told them he had slept on couches in the San Francisco Airport, he had spent all his money, buying food, toy airplanes and comic books and was broke.

Police held the boy in the juvenile home pending appearance in Family Court on a charge of running away from home.

Adult Education Starts 2nd Term, Room for More

The second term of the Adult Education program at Kingston High School is now in session. There are about 30 courses being given. Several have room for additional students, among them being public speaking, driver training and woodworking, each of which can use about eight additional students if applications are made this week.

Application may be made by calling the office of Raphael Klein, director of Adult Education, at the Vocational Building, Kingston High School.

U.N. Is Moving To Guard Mission Deep in Kivu

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—An armed column of Malayan troops and scout cars is penetrating deep into terror-stricken Kivu Province to assure the safety of 12 Americans at a Protestant mission, the United Nations announced today.

A U.N. spokesman said no news of specific danger to the mission at Kama had been received, but in the absence of any word from the station the United Nations is acting as a precaution.

American consular officials said the mission headquarters at Wheaton, Ill., had received word from the Kama station the first week in January and was not unduly worried.

The missionaries belong to the Protestant Evangelical Mission of Maniema, associated with the worldwide Grace Testimony of Wheaton.

Kama is on the fringe of the wild and remote sector of Kivu Province recently terrorized by marauding soldiers from the former rebel capital of Stanleyville. These are the soldiers that massacred 13 Italian airmen in November at nearby Kindu; 21 white Roman Catholic missionaries and an aged Belgian businessman at Kongolo, in north Katanga on New Year's Day; and an unknown number of Africans.

The U.N. spokesman said he hoped to be able to release within a day or two details of a large-scale military operation against the mutinous troops.

According to American consular lists here the Americans at Kama are the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel R. Vinton; the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel R. Vinton Jr. and their two children, William Russel, 5, and Debbie Jane, 3; the Rev. and Mrs. William Bunch and their two children, Debbie Joy, 2, and William Jr., 8 months; and two nurses, Betty Frier and Wilma Sparks.

Why We Say--

FROM BIBLE: Many employer has repeated this phrase to a tardy employee but probably without thinking of where it started. The phrase has arisen in allusion to the laborers in the Bible parable who were called to work in the vineyard at the 11th hour and yet received a full day's pay.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed higher on balance in fairly active trading early this afternoon despite weakness in steels.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 254.60 with industrials up 1.20, rails up .40 and utilities up .20.

Gains of fractions to a point or more outnumbered losers among pivotal issues.

The steels were depressed. Big Three motors were all ahead. Oils, rails, utilities, nonferrous metals, tobaccos and electrical equipments were mostly higher.

The savings-and-loan stocks showed some resistance to further decline, limiting losses.

Aircrafts were jumbled.

U.S. Steel fell more than a point while Bethlehem (ex dividend) dropped a fraction and other major producers eased.

Moderate losses were shown by First Charter Financial, Great Western Financial, and United Financial of California.

Boeing advanced around a point and General Dynamics did better than that. Republic Aviation sank about 3 points, North American Aviation about a point and Lockheed a fraction.

IBM came back about 8 points, Xerox around 4 and Sears Roebuck well over a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.29 at 698.38.

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were unchanged.

Jobless Rate Dips Below Six PC, First in Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—The unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent of the work force in January —the first time in 16 months it has dropped below 6 per cent.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg announced that employment dropped by 1.4 million to 65,058,000 in January while unemployment increased by 572,000 to 4,663,000.

However both these changes were less than seasonally expected.

Employment usually declines in January due to post-Christmas lags, while unemployment increases because of the winter weather.

Actually the January employment total, while a drop from December, was at a record for the month. The January idle total was 700,000 below the unemployment figure recorded in January 1961.

Goldberg made the figures public in testimony prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee.

They confirm what President Kennedy said in his economic report, Goldberg told the committee, that "We are in the midst of a vigorous economic recovery, with production and employment reaching new highs."

Serious Problem Remains

The labor secretary said the nation still has a major problem in a hard-core jobless situation that is continuing. He said long-term unemployment still poses a "very serious problem."

Goldberg said that, at the current level of unemployment, 5.5 million jobs would have to be added during 1962 to reduce the seasonally adjustee unemployment rate, now 5.8 per cent to the four per cent level which Kennedy picked as a temporary goal.

That number of new jobs is needed, Goldberg said, to provide full-time employment opportunities for new additions to the labor force, workers displaced by new machines and technological changes, and those now involuntarily on part-time work

Goldberg called for prompt enactment of Kennedy's proposed training-retraining program as a major method of improving the employment situation by matching to a greater extent the rising job levels and the people available to take those jobs.

Takes Up All Funds

Goldberg released the first report on the Labor Department's experience in training and retraining under the Area Redevelopment Act. The report showed 29 programs have been approved covering 4,200 trainees in nine states.

"Already in the pipelines," the secretary said, "are enough training proposals to use up all the available funds for the current fiscal year."

He said even more important is the fact that 50 per cent of the trainees have been unemployed for half a year or more, one-third of them being jobless for a full year or more. He said a substantial proportion are older workers.

Goldberg noted that the number of persons unemployed for four months or more still stands at 1.25 million, very little changed from a year ago, despite the decline in over-all unemployment and the rise in the number of jobs.

The 572,000 increase in unemployment in January is somewhat less than 750,000 increase usually expected in January due to seasonal factors.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 5.8 per cent of the work force this Janury compares with a rate of 6.7 per cent in January 1961.

JFK to Farmers

markets. The government could, if it saw fit, make payments on land diverted from wheat. The present program provides for supports, but at a reduced level, if controls are turned down.

Feed grains — Acreage allotments and marketing quotas would be set for the four major feed grains—corn, oats, barley, and sorghum grain.

4 Grains Not In Before

In the past, only corn has been grown under allotments and none of the four grains has ever been subjected to marketing quotas. Payments could be made on land diverted from these grains, as is being done now. But all supports would be withdrawn and the government would reserve the right to sell up to about 350 million bushels a year of its surpluses if controls were voted down.

Dairy products—For the first time, marketing allotments would be set on all dairymen. The government would attempt to support prices up to 90 per cent of the parity price, but not in excess of $300 million a year for supports, or about half this year's expected cost.

If Rejection Comes

Should allotments be rejected, supports would be lowered and no matter how large surplus supplies became, the government would spend no more than $300 million a year on them.

In proposing the tighter controls Kennedy said: "Our two goals—improving income and reducing costs—can both be achieved only if farm output can be reduced below needs for several years and then be allowed to increase at a rate equal to the growth in demand."

The gap between production and needs during the adjustment period would be supplied from existing surpluses.

Kennedy told Congress his total farm program envisioned making maximum use of the nation's food abundance through such plans as the school lunch program, direct distribution of food to the needy, an expanded food stamp plan, the foreign food-for-peace program, including U.S. participation in a world food bank.

Under the conversation phase of his program, Kennedy proposed steps be taken to shift 50 million acres of cropland to other income-earning uses such as recreation, wildlife promotion, woodlots, forests and grazing. Federal financial aid would be offered. The government would look into the possibility of setting up greenbelts 10 miles or so in width around urban areas for recreational use.

Wagner Hits Rejection

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Senate's refusal to consider legislation that would allow off-track betting on horse races will hurt New York City residents, the city's mayor says.

The rejection amounted to a "vote against the fiscal needs of the people of New York City," Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Tuesday shortly after Democratic bills to legalize off-track betting were turned down by Senate Republicans.

The Senate vote was along party lines.

Full Data Urged For Vets Seeking Benefit Claims

Veterans and dependents seeking assistance at Veterans' Counseling Center, are advised by Charles L. Culver, NYS veteran counselor of the NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street that, "full, accurate and up-to-date information is essential if proper and timely help is to be given."

"A great deal of time can be saved in interviewing and counseling claimants for veterans' benefits if they come to our office prepared with official documents in support of their claim," Culver and Tyler continued.

Such documents would include military service records, previous claim numbers, G. I. insurance policy numbers, social security numbers and like certificates.

Complete counseling service and information on all veterans' benefits may be obtained Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs office and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street.

Glenn, according to a NASA spokesman, accepted the sixth postponement of the launching with a shrug.

Glenn was quoted as saying, "Sure, I'm disappointed, but this is a complicated business. I don't think we should fly until all elements of the mission are ready. When we have completed all our tests satisfactorily then we'll go."

The 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel planned to take a few days off to visit his wife Annie and two teen-age children in Arlington, Va.

Army to Activate Divisions Sooner Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two new regular Army divisions will be formed sooner than expected. But Army officials say this doesn't necessarily mean quicker release for Reservists called to active duty last year.

The Army announced Tuesday the 1st Armored Division will be activated at Ft. Hood, Tex., Feb. 3; and the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, originally scheduled for March, will be formed Feb. 19 at Ft. Carson, Colo.

Boys - And Men - Should Avoid the Penny Stocks

Q) "I often see my father looking at the stocks in the paper, and I've become interested, too. With money I have saved up, I can buy 100 shares each of the following: Burma Mines, Israel-American Oil, Merrill Island Mining. What do you think about them?" David

A) This is an intelligent letter, David. You've got a wonderful opportunity, at a relatively young age, to begin investing in stocks. You can learn something about them, and you can build up a pretty good nest egg toward your college education if you get the right kind of start now.

In my considered opinion, based on long experience, you would be getting a wrong start by buying the type of stocks you've mentioned. These are all what brokers call penny stocks, which means that they sell well below $1 a share.

I can't evaluate stocks in this category, and I consider them as outright gambles. There may be profits at some future date in one or more of these situations; but, at present, the market itself believes there is very little value to them.

I urge you very strongly not to make the mistake that many men older than yourself are prone to—don't kid yourself that fortunes are waiting to be picked up in penny stocks at this stage in a long bull market. I would far rather see you buy fewer shares in one relatively sound, low-priced speculation, such as Grayson-Robinson (NYSE).

Q) "Will American Sterilizer recover, or should I sell?" A.C.

A) American Sterilizer is essentially a sound stock, in my opinion. Earnings were down in 1961 during the first nine months because of an apparent squeeze on profit margins in one segment of their business. I strongly feel, however, that this is a temporary situation which will be rectified. I advise you to hold your shares for resumption of growth and resulting higher prices.

mored cars into the center of Algiers Tuesday night "for any eventuality," army sources said. The troop reinforcements were withdrawn this morning, but the show of strength obviously was aimed at the right-wing European settlers in the city and their extremist Secret Army Organization waging a campaign of terrorism to keep Algeria French. Announcement of an accord with the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN) is certain to infuriate Algeria's European population, and a general uprising is a possibility.

To guard against any attempt at a putsch in Paris itself the government announced 30 squadrons of mobile gendarmes totaling more than 4,000 men, had been placed in a police "strategic reserve" in the Paris region.

No Report on Dalhab

On the rebel side, Foreign Minister Saad Dalhab left Morocco four days ago and has not yet been reported in Tunis. This could mean that Dalhab, one of the FLN negotiators, had stopped in Switzerland for a decisive meeting with French representatives.

The Belgian radio and the papers said a provisional administration of French and Algerians would be installed for the transitional period and that the French army would remain on the scene, chiefly to prevent an uprising by the right-wing European extremists and their secret army.

Printing Loss Feared

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The printing industry might suffer a financial loss if the Legislature approves proposals that would allow legal advertising to be published outside the area where the legal action was to take place, a spokesman for labor contends.

Raymond R. Corbett, legislative chairman of the State AFL-CIO, urged the Senate and Assembly Codes Committees at a hearing Tuesday to delay action on the legislation until a thorough study was made of their possible effects.

The legislation, he said, would allow some governmental agencies "to channel the advertising in such a way as to threaten to or actually eliminate part or all of such advertising income on which publications and the employes. . . substantially depend."

Aerialists Killed, Human Pyramid Plunges 40 Feet

DETROIT (AP) — Two members of the famed Wallendas family troupe were killed Tuesday night when three of the performers fell while doing their dizzying act on a circus high wire.

7,000 Watch in Horror

A crowd of 7,000 children and adults gasped in horror as the three men plummeted from the slender wire.

Three other male performers saved themselves and the only woman in the act by clinging to the swaying wire about 40 feet above a concrete coliseum floor.

Dieter Schepp, 23, and Richard Faughnan, 29, were injured fatally in the plunge.

Mario Wallenda, 22 also fell. His condition was described as "very critical" by a physician.

Dieter's sister, Jana, 17, also was injured. Others of the troupe, clinging to the wire, caught her as she fell.

Three Grab Wire

Those who managed to grab the wire and hold on were Herman Wallenda, 60, Karl Wallenda, 57, and Gunther Wallenda, 42, descendants in a family which has kept the troupe's name before the public for nearly 90 years.

They caught Miss Schepp and then dropped her into an improvised net.

The injured were rushed to nearby Highland Park General hospital, where Faughnan was dead of a skull fracture. Schepp died early today.

The tragedy which marred a long and illustrious performing history came during the Shrine circus at the Michigan State fairgrounds Coliseum.

A Fatal Debut

Dieter Schepp and his sister escaped together only a few months ago from behind the Iron Curtain in East Germany.

Faughnan was making his debut with the Wallendas.

The four younger men formed the base of a pyramid with their feet on the high wire. Karl and Herman Wallenda were standing on long rods which ran along the younger men's shoulders. Miss Schepp was seated on a chair on a rod on the older men's shoulders.

Suddenly the pyramid collapsed. Herman, Karl and Gunther Wallenda managed to stay on the wire and grab Miss Schepp.

Clown Brings Calm

For a time panic threatened from the shocked crowd. Some men tried to run into the ring. Women wept. Others, including children, were frozen in their seats.

A circus clown, Ernie (Blinko) Burch, was credited with bringing calm. Burch, grotesque in his makeup, stood in the ring center pleading for order.

Faughnan's wife, Jenny, 33, a troupe member, was standing on a platform at one end of the high wire.

She said her husband did not appear to have a good grip on his 35-pound balancing bar and lost his balance as he tried to change the grip.

"Dieter called out that he couldn't hold any longer," she said. "He threw the pole into the air to grip it in the center and lost his balance. This threw everybody else off balance and down they went."

Founded in 1874

The aerialist dynasty was founded in 1874 in Germany by Karl's grandfather, also named Karl. The troupe came to the United States in 1928 and starred with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The present Karl and Herman are uncles of Jana and Dieter. Gunter is a son of Herman. Mario Wallenda is Carl's son.

The Wallendas usually perform without a net.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN — Old Hurley residents calling in the village center Saturday included Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher.

Edward Ocker Jr., Allaben collector of antique firearms who resided in Shokan as a boy, was in town Thursday. He reports that his father, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and one time member of the Board of Water Supply Police force, remains in good health at the age of 86.

Also here Thursday was Mrs. Thomas Myckland, proprietor of a home for elderly people on Route 212, Lake Hill.

Traffic is light on Route 28 through the village these days, partly because of the bare ski trails in the mountains. Trucking of logs, green lumber, milk and fuel is about as usual for this time of the year. The mountain sawmills currently are buying hard maple, red and white oak, cherry, beech and birch.

William Ritterbusch, Woodstock man who has built a new home in the neighboring township, was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osborg, Long Island couple who have a summer place near The Vly and the Olive-Marbletown line, called on local friends Friday. They reported finding their house had been entered and a number of items, including a TV set and old muzzle-loading shotgun, taken by the burglars. Two other houses in the same neighborhood were broken into, according to the Osborgs.

Birthdays on Feb. 6 include that of Mrs. Alfred Iapoce who before marriage was Elizabeth Brown of Atwood.

Mrs. Hal Purdy of the Saugerties area was a caller at the local museum last Sunday.

Martin Gulnack is again at his Shokan home following surgery at a Kingston hospital.

Benjamin and Claire Woloson, Cairo, called on Shokan friends recently.

David West, formerly of Route 28A, is now residing on Elmendorf Street in Kingston. The World War I veteran and one time state trooper spent several months last year in the Southern California area.

Although the aerator of the Ashokan Reservoir is 'on vacation' for the winter months, there remains, for weekend motorists to view, the contrasting sight of the fairly well-filled east basin and the adjoining sadly depleted west basin. Also of interest are the hundreds of wild ducks which frequent the patches of open water in the lower basin. Last year, the topic of conversation was the six swans who spent several days down there, and now comes the reliable report of three eagles perched on the dividing weir bridge last Sunday. The feathered trio, one of which was a golden eagle, seldom seen in the east, were making passes at the ducks but the quackers were too quick for the big birds and "ducked" to safety. Al Feldman, noted ornithologist who is a member of the laboratory staff at the headworks, took pictures of the unusual scene.

Leila Moore of Eddyville was a caller in the village Friday.

Delaware County people in town Wednesday included Elizabeth Davis of Margaretville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller, residents of the west end of the village along Route 28 the past several years, have moved to Krumville.

Mrs. Virgil Gordon has returned from a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Corwin, in Astoria, L. I.

Days Don't Drift

CHETICAMP, N. S. (AP) — Mrs. Dan Arsenault may be 104 but she is not one to let the days just drift by.

After a nine-hour sleep she is up at 6 p. m., ready for a full day of knitting. She currently is working on a bedspread.

The thrice-married widow says she never takes a pill or a drop of medicine and has never owned a pair of eyeglasses. Mrs. Arsenault, who lives with a son and his wife, adds that she enjoys a good appetite.

Need Teachers, More Space In Marlboro Gym Program

The Lay Advisory Curriculum Committee met to discuss the recommendations for the physical education program and to hear a report from the science department.

Coach Jack Kroh and Mrs. Joyce O'Donnell had been requested to return to answer questions and to contribute further explanation of the recommendations made at the previous meeting.

Below State Standards

They summarized: The main factor which is pulling our physical education program below state requirements is lack of teaching and storage space due to enrollment. Classes are too large, instruction based on the individual needs of a student is often impossible to schedule because it is necessary to use one room for 500 students which must be additionally scheduled to teach the girls and boys in separate groups. There are six grades, seven periods in a day in which to teach physical education, and other departments insisting on minimum teaching time as well.

The following recommendations made at the previous meeting by Coach Kroh and Mrs. O'Donnell and summarized by C. E. Hacunda were approved by the committee:

1. Urgent need of new shower and locker rooms because of inadequate size and condition.

2. A gymnasium large enough to be divided into two parts for simutaneous instruction of boys and girls. Condemnation of the present gymnasium floor as being beyond repair.

Need Space for Equipment

3. Space for additional equipment for developing the individual. Example — climbing ropes, additional exercise equipment, and areas.

4. A longer class period, now impossible because lack of class room space forces more periods for shorter time.

5. Outdoor space for girls' and boys' activities to be caried on at the same time.

6. Better understanding of the program of physical education which is giving skills to develop each child mentally, morally, emotionally, socially, spiritually, physically.

There are two full time directors assigned to the junior and senior program, but the publicity goes to the sports which are played and practiced and coached after school. While being heartily in support of this sports program Coach and Mrs. O'Donnell would wish that newspapers from Kingston to Newburgh would publicize their lack of space, as was done when several hundred were turned away from the basketball game at the Marlboro gymnasium last week, noting that the individual student cannot under existing conditions get the minimum required weekly hours in physical education.

Science Classes Cramped

Reports were also received from the Science Department and the following recommendations were made.

John Haluska who teaches chemistry and physics and one Eighth Grade science class mentioned the following:

His laboratory space is so limited at the present time that he can not teach both chemistry and physics in one year. Lack of scientific equipment is the major complaint of all the science teachers, but inadequate storage space or preparation room space seems to be the major factor that limits the use of needed scientific equipment. Teachers can requisition what they need but have no place to put these articles after they arrive.

Class rooms are constantly in use, hence, no teacher can go into an empty room to prepare an experiment for an incoming class. Even if the rooms were available, the teaching load (pupils per teacher) is so great, that teachers do not have the time to set up the proper materials in between classes. Therefore, an added staff member to ease the teaching load and reach each child better, individually, would also be of great help.

Lack of proper facilities in existing rooms used for laboratories was mentioned by Guy Licata, biology teacher. Few of the rooms had running water, gas, proper ventilation or sufficient work counters. Often visual aids are used in place of field trips, and it was felt that dark curtains, or something similar was needed in one of the rooms at least.

Needs Work Space

Gerard Maier, seventh, eighth, and part of the ninth Grade science was concerned more with work space for demonstrational purposes. This was for those students who could grasp science more easily when shown the subject matter, step by step.

It was mentioned that Pierre Renaud, who was unable to attend due to illness, echoed lack of space and equipment as detrimental to the learning processes where science was concerned. As things stand now close to the minimal standard of science is being taught at Marlboro Central School, due completely to lack of space and equipment at this time.

ProTen*

Swift's Premium ProTen* BEEF TENDERED WITH PAPAIN *PROTEN, INC., LICENSOR

Swift's exclusive new tender process is a method of tendering beef from within, developed and patented by Swift & Company with the approval of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The natural enzymes in meat are supplemented by vegetable protein distributed throughout the meat tissue (this is not a dip or surface method). This new tendering method has no effect on any cuts until cooked in oven, or broiler. Then it releases amazing new tenderness never possible until now.

Now a new tenderness in every cut. Swift's new ProTen* Tendered Beef gives you a new tenderness so remarkable that your whole concept of cooking will be changed. Chucks and rump steaks and roasts are all now cuts you can serve with pride and cook easier and quicker than ever before! Every fork-tender bite is delicious.

Central School Notes

NEW PALTZ—Officers of the Central School Safety Patrol have decided to select a "Patrolman of the Week." The members of the Patrol will be selected on the basis of leadership and reliability. The patrol member who receives the most nominations for this honor throughout the school year will be made a permanent officer of the patrol. The purpose in having a "Patrolman of the Week" is to train future leaders of the safety patrol.

The student who has been nominated for this honor as "Patrolman of the Week" is David George. David arrives at the school at 7:30 a. m. to begin duty. His first assignment each day is the raising of the American Flag, followed by the placing of a "No Speeding Sign" on Main Street, and then ending his day's work by assisting the elementary children in crossing in a safe manner.

David George has demonstrated his faithfulness to duty by being at his assigned post each and every day regardless of weather. He is a willing volunteer for duty when a fellow patrolman is home ill and the patrol needs one of its members to work an extra shift. George is a member of the Seventh Grade Class at New Paltz Central School.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

By C. WINCHELL
Shokan, N. Y.

One of the numerous veterans residing in the Rondout Valley area of Ulster County was Clinton C. Devoe whose brother, John, had been killed in the Civil War. They were sons of Thomas and Ann E. (Dewitt) Devoe of the Town of Wawarsing. Clinton as a youth worked in a lath and picket mill and in 1859 he ran a heading mill at Alligerville, Enlisting, 1862, in the 120th Ulster Regiment, he served with them until August of 1863, when he was discharged on account of sickness. He was in the severe fighting at Fredericksburg, Cedar Creek, and Bull Run. After the war he ran a mill for a few years, then was employed by Albert Smiley at Lake Mohonk. He bought a property near Accord and operated a summer boardinghouse. Devoe was married, November 3, 1859, to Sarah J. Lawrence of Alligerville and they became the parents of eight children.

News note, Dec. 29, 1881 — Dr. A. T. Douglas of Kingston, and for a long time the efficient surgeon of Pratt Post, Grand Army of the Republic, has been elected to represent W. W. Perkins Post, G.A.R., of New London, Conn., during the forthcoming Department Encampment in that state. The doctor was a charter member of Pratt Post and very popular with the 'boys.' He was also held in high esteem by the members of the medical profession, who on his departmure for Connecticut presented him with a gold-headed cane as a slight token of their friendship and esteem.

Jan. 14, 1864: John Burger of New Paltz has received his appointment as recruiting officer. A good selection.

Jan. 10, 1864: the small son of John P. Durno, Kingston resident who is in the Union Army, was so badly burned by his colthing taking fire that he died the same evening.

Jan. 21, 1863: Town of Woodstock has filled her quota by volunteering, The northern towns are doing well in this respect. Plattekill Clove school district of the Town of Saugerties has sent 30 volunteers to the army — over half the number of citizens subject to military duty. The Town of Saugerties quota is full. New enlistments in the county now number 500, or one-half the quota.

The second sociable of the Ladies Aid of New Paltz will be held at the home of Mrs. William H. DeGarmo in that village Jan. 22, 1864. Contributions of canned fruit, socks, mittens, underwear etc. may be left with E. V. Van Wagonen at the Post Office. The executive committee is made up of the following, Hannah M. Lefever, Sarah M. Elting, Anna Woolsey and Gertrude Elting.

Style note: Upwards of 150 females recently have been discovered in the Union Army and made to resume the garments of their sex.

Quick decision: During the Battle of the Wilderness two infantrymen were struggling for possession of a rebel flag which both had seized, when a shot cut the staff in two, leaving the flag in the hands of one. "Bedad," said the other as he resumed his loading and firing, "the Johnnies have decided for us this time."

May 27, 1864, a local soldier writes from Virginia that there is plenty going on in his sector while preparations are being made for the big push on Richmond. The thousands of cavalry and supply wagon horses were to eat hearty for quite a spell. He says: "The whole Army of the Potomac is in motion led by Hancock's Second Corps, followed by General Wright. Phil Sheridan's cavalry is scouring the countryside for the Johnnies. The whole section is planted mostly with corn. Horses, cattle, mules, contrabands, etc. all fall to our foraging parties and huge wagon trains."

"Be careful how you harbor or employ a deserter. The U. S. Court last week sent three men to the penetentiary for enticing to desert and for carrying away deserters.

December 16, 1863: A letter from a local soldier in the 128th Infantry says his regiment is still at Baton Rouge, La., except Company H which detached and is stationed at Plaquemine where "we have built a fort at the mouth of a bayou, mounting 20-pounder Parrot guns. Have been expecting an attack for several days. The guns are from the 1st section of the 18th New York Battery. Another fort, now being built on the river just below here, will have 12 large mounted guns."

The writer then goes on to tell about a letter and a girl: "A letter written by a young 'she-Sesh' at the local Female Seminary, and found after our second arrival here, reveals a rather low opinion of the 'detestable Yankees'! The girl, a daughter of a Presbyterian minister, wrote in part: 'The Yankees have left and I do not think we will be troubled with any more of those horrid Lincoln hirelings. I never want to set eyes on one of the blue-coated rascals again.' Here the young lady's stock of words got exhausted before she could finish her tender missive about us Yanks."

Idea Kicking Around for Past 20 Years

Kennedy's Urban Plan Takes In A Lot, But Is Nothing New

WRECKED BY ICE—It wasn't too heavy a load that crumpled this bridge over the Kaw River near Eudora, Kan., but tightly packed ice that leveled a concrete and steel pier. Two spans of the 1,200-foot bridge tumbled into the water. No vehicles were on bridge at time of collapse. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sizzling bowl of soup President Kennedy has just dumped in Congress' lap is made up of politics, race, slums, cities, expanding population, efficiency, and status.

Yet, there is nothing basically new in his message Tuesday telling Congress that, unless it disapproves in 60 days, he will create a new government department, the 11th, called urban affairs and housing.

He himself pointed out the idea has been kicking around 20 years.

Eyes New Tent

The present and future problems of housing and city planning are now handled by a group of government agencies huddled under the tent of one main unit, the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The head of it, an administrator, Robert C. Weaver, has nothing like the prestige or influence of the head of a department, a secretary, who sits in the President's Cabinet. Kennedy proposes to keep the same subordinate agencies but shove them under a new tent with the title of department, headed by a secretary. He said he would make Weaver, a Negro, the secretary.

This, Kennedy figures, would not only give the problems and planning better coordination and efficiency but a new influence through Cabinet status.

In short: Kennedy is saying the problems of cities, housing and city populations are now so big they require handling by a department.

Ten years ago a national housing conference proposed this kind of idea. There have been bills in Congress calling for it every year since at least 1956.

Only Vote Was Lacking

Last year Kennedy first suggested it in a special message to Congress on housing. Last year both the Senate and House Committees on Government Operations approved bills to create the new department.

All that was lacking was a vote on the House or Senate floor. But the bills didn't get there before Congress quit for 1961. So they were still lying around when Congress returned in 1962.

Kennedy gave Congress another nudge on this subject in his State of the Union message on Jan. 11. But in the House, before a bill can get to the floor, the very powerful Rules Committee has to give a green light.

This committee, made up of 10 Democrats and five Republicans, blocked it instead by a vote of 9 to 6. All five Republicans and four Southern Democrats ganged up to block it. That was Jan. 24.

Kennedy held a news conference that same day and started it off by neatly trying to put the Republicans on the defensive.

Skipping over the unpleasant fact that the five outnumbered Republicans could not have throttled the bill if four of Kennedy's Democrats hadn't joined them, the President said the Republicans astonished him.

This was good politics since this is a congressional election year and the Republicans will need the votes of a lot of city people.

Then he said he would by-pass the committee procedure altogether and send his proposal to Congress in the form of a reorganization plan.

Ike Did It in '53

That simply means that unless a majority in the House or Senate votes against it within 60 days, he'll create the new department. This is how President Eisenhower in 1953 created the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

But any vote on the floor of House or Senate is likely to be by roll call, which means Democrats and Republicans would have to vote by name and thus reveal to the folks back home where they stood.

It was at that same news conference that Kennedy—in answer to a direct question—said he would make Weaver secretary of the new department.

This was bound to cost him votes among Southern Democrats, many of whom reportedly were against his plan just because they had thought he might appoint Weaver.

The big, broad band of conservative Republicans in Congress is likely to vote no. Some of them indicated they think this new concern for cities would interfere with states rights.

Dirksen for Commission

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader in the Senate, announced he would offer a counterproposal: a commission to study the functions of such a new department.

If Congress buys Dirksen's idea it will kill Kennedy's plans for 1962. This whole subject has already been given study by congressional committees and has been under discussion for years.

$2 Million Asked By Rockefeller For Agriculture

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller asked today for more than $2 million to step up development of better agricultural crops and weapons to fight insects and disease preying on them.

The governor's budget included $1.2 for intensive research in plant growth and the effect of atmospheric conditions on plant development. The funds would finance construction of a growth chamber at the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University.

Also earmarked for the college were $885,797 for aricultural re were $885,797 for agricultural research and extension programs, and $25,000 for soil-conservation work — increases of $80,000 and $9,520, respectively, over amounts for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The proposed appropriation for the State Agriculture Department was $6,497,109, or $337,537 higher than this year. The department also has available about $1.8 million in federal funds.

House Is Ready To Approve Pa. Budget Requests

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House was ready today to give preliminary approval to $1,000,958,666 in budget requests by Gov. Lawrence.

The action would put the administration's spending program in position for final passage next week. House approval would give the Senate a whole month to hammer out an agreement on the plan before the governor's suggested March 1 adjournment.

The House Appropriations Committee sent the program to the floor Tuesday with only minor changes that resulted in a net increase in the budget of $71,209.

The committee also approved an additional $41,690 for the current budget.

A showdown in the House Tuesday on state school subsidies was postponed as Democrats threatened to join the Republican-backed move to increase them by $9.1 million.

In other legislative developments:

Milk Control—Republicans enlivened an otherwise calm Senate session by attacking the State Milk Control Commission.

Sen. Robert Fleming, R-Allegheny, denied that his request for a special legislative investigation of the price-regulating agency was politically inspired.

School Reorganization — Seven Republicans introduced a resolution calling for a moratorium on school merger proceedings under a 1961 law until the 1963 legislature can amend or repeal the statute.

No JD Label For Children Playing Hooky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Young people brought into court for playing hooky from school or home but who steer clear of crime would escape being labeled juvenile delinquents, under a proposal advanced by a legislative committee.

"Persons in need of supervision" would be the designation for such children.

The recommendation was made Tuesday by the Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization. It came as Gov. Rockefeller, in a separate announcement, carried out a promise to a judicial group to help relieve court congestion at opposite ends of the state.

Rockefeller asked the Legislature to create 38 judgeships—33 in State Supreme Court and 5 in county courts in the New York City area and in Western New York.

The committee, headed by Sen. Daniel G. Albert, R-Nassau, also recommended that:

1. "Law guardians" be assigned to youths up to 16, who are arraigned in family courts, to advise them on their legal rights if their families did not provide such help.

2. Youths under 16 who were arrested not be detained or jailed pending court action, unless a judge ruled officially that detention was needed to guarantee appearance in court or to prevent harm to the community from the individual involved.

3. Family courts have exclusive jurisdiction in adoption proceedings.

4. Family courts exercise special handling of cases involving charges of assault and disorderly conduct brought by one member of a family against another.

Will Ask Jury Recall to Seek Bank Indictments

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Brown says he plans to ask federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan to recall last October's grand jury early in February to seek indictments against a bank official and a cashier charged in connection with a shortage.

Brown said Tuesday he would seek indictments against August J. Lippi, 61-year-old board chairman of the First National Bank of Exeter, charged with aiding and abetting false bank entries, and George Daileda, 55-year-old cashier charged with understating accounts totaling $397,000. The FBI said the alleged false entries were made to cover checks Lippi allegedly wrote.

Lippi, who also is president of District 1 of the United Mine Workers of America, Tuesday was granted a delay to Feb. 27 in a hearing in Washington on his removal to Pennsylvania to face the charges. He did not testify.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Oscar Altshuler of Washington testified at Lippi's hearing that when he was arrested in a Washington hotel early Tuesday he had with him a check for $30,000, a passport, a travel folder and an itinerary drawn up for South America by a travel agent.

Jurors Will Meet Monday Night, 8

Plans for the May election of officers will be made by members of the Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County at their next meeting Monday night, Feb. 5, at the Court House.

President Thomas J. Murphy, in announcing the meeting, said it will begin at 8 o'clock and requested a full attendance of members.

A nominating committee will be appointed by the president to begin work on a slate of officers to be chosen at the May session.

Another discussion is scheduled on the fire escape subject which has been proposed by the association as an addition to the Grand Jury room. Such an escape, the association feels, would increase the safety of the jurors while in session.

Opinion Is Asked By Assemblyman On Vote Legality

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican assemblyman whose election has been questioned by a Democratic congressman wants the state attorney general to say whether the assemblyman was legally voted into the Legislature.

Assemblyman Stanley Van Rensselaer of Saratoga Springs said Tuesday he had asked Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz for an opinion.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, has charged that Van Rensselaer's election last November was illegal and that the vote he cast for congressional reapportionment was void.

The reapportionment bill was passed by the Assembly with only the constitutional minimum of votes. The legislation eliminates Stratton's district, effective Dec. 31.

Stratton contends that the legislation is null and void because it would have failed without Van Rensselaer's vote.

Van Rensselaer's election, Stratton maintains, violated the State Constitution because he was city judge in Saratoga Springs when elected to the Assembly.

Van Rensselaer said yesterday the prohibition against dual office did not include counties with a population under 120,000. The 1960 census set Saratoga County's population at 89,096.

$25 Million Is Proposed in Pay Raises for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State employes, who received a $33-million annual pay raise last year, would receive another $25 million, under the state budget Gov. Rockefeller submitted today to the Legislature.

The increase would give more than 100,000 state employes a pay boost of 5 per cent.

Administration spokesmen said it was not known whether the raise would extend up to the level of commissioner. Last year, heads of major departments received increases of $5,000 and more, to $27,500 a year.

The governor said in his budget message that another pay raise this year would bring the pay levels of state workers in line with wages offered by private industry for comparable jobs.

The proposed pay raises would take effect Aug. 1.

Bridgroom Has Delay Galore Reaching Church

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Like most bridegrooms, Airman 1. C. Richard A. Councilman was very much up in the air...especially while he was on the ground.

Hurrying home from his U.S. Air Force base in Pakistan to marry his sweetheart, Sue Marie Peet of Gillette, Pa., Councilman encountered enough frustrating setbacks to test the tenacity of a homing pigeon.

Hitchhiking Air Force style, Councilman began the halfway round the world trip Jan. 19 and was scheduled to arrive in Elmira last Wednesday.

The first leg of the journey ended with engine trouble and a 58-hour delay in Madrid, Spain.

He made connections with another states-bound flight, but after 90 minutes over the Atlantic, it too developed engine trouble and returned to Madrid.

He caught another flight for the states, but a storm near the Azores grounded it for eight hours.

He arrived in Charleston, S.C., last Friday and switched to commercial flight. But here he ran into reservation problems.

Three planes and 12 hours later, his plane touched down at the Elmira-Corning Airport.

The couple was married Sunday in Elmira and chose New York for the honeymoon.

Sue Marie selected the mode of travel for the honeymoon. Airplane.

Good Taste Today

AN UNREASONABLE ATTITUDE

Q: Just recently my sister had quite a run-in with a young woman who was a friend of both of us. I always liked this person and hate to have our friendship end because of this unfortunate incident. However, my sister refuses to have anything further to do with her and says that if I remain friends with her, I will be very disloyal and announce to everyone that I think my sister wrong and my friend right. I am between the devil and the deep blue sea as I don't want to hurt either one. I would appreciate your opinion and any advice you can give me on this matter.

A: I think your sister's point of view unreasonable, but as long as she feels the way she does, you really have no choice but to stop seeing this friend.

Q: When "At Home" cards are enclosed with wedding announcements and the "At Home" date is several weeks after the wedding date, does that mean that people are not expected to pay visits on them until after that date?

A: Yes, the date means that they do not expect to be back from their wedding trip and settled in their new house until then.

Q: My employer left on an extended trip recently and before he went away he came to my desk and said good-bye. There was an awkward moment of not knowing what to do about shaking hands. I thought he should have offered his hand, but he didn't. Will you please tell me if this was an error on my part. Ordinarily I know that a woman extends her hand to a man, but as this man is my business superior I thought it would be presumptuous of me to offer him my hand. May I have your opinion on this matter?

A: It was in best taste not to offer your hand first, but it certainly would not have been improper if you had done so.

Tips to Housewives Who Fritter Away Best Hours

A recent study shows that for most people the most productive hours are those in the first half of the morning.

There's a tip there for housewives. If it is possible to accomplish more in the first half of the morning than at any other period of the day then the early morning hours aren't the time for:

- Sitting and sipping a third cup of coffee and reading the paper to rest up from the ordeal of getting the family off to school and work.
- Calling friends to chat on the telephone about last night's party or to trade the latest gossip.
- Dropping in on a neighbor for a little visit before getting down to work.
- Puttering around with little bits of busy work to put off facing the hard jobs that have to be done.
- Turning on the TV to watch a favorite morning program.
- Deciding to run errands that could be done at any time of the day.

All of those little devices for postponing the inevitable time when the hard work has to be done just eat up the best and most productive hours.

And yet that is how many housewives began their day's work — stalling and killing time instead of pitching in and getting as much of it out of the way as possible while they are still fresh and not yet pushed for time.

If you've ever noticed, that isn't the way the good managers, the best housekeepers you know start their days. They work hard and fast during the morning hours and then are through while the morning-wasters are still complaining, "I've got so much to do I don't know how in the world I am ever going to get it all done."

HOW SCOUT DINING HALL WILL LOOK—The new 220-boy dining hall now under construction at the Camp Tri-Mount Scout Reservation in East Jewitt, is shown in a drawing by Albert Edward Milliken. The dining hall is being supervised by the firm of I. and O. A. Slutzky of Hunter, with plans drawn by Sidney VanDerBent of VanDerBent Associates of Kingston. Construction work is progressing through the donations of money, material, and labor. Use of the new dining hall is anticipated for the summer camping season of 1962. The new building doubles the number of boys that can be served at the East Jewett 550-acre scout reservation, operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Mrs. Chilson Is Re-elected to Head Board of Directors

The 85th annual meeting of the combined Board of Directors and Trustees of the Children's Home took place on January 29 at the Home, 77 East Chester Street. Mrs. Elizabeth Chilson, president of the Board of Directors, presided at the meeting and received committee reports of the year's activities and a report from Gerald Shampo, execuutive director, which projected the future of the Children's Home. Mrs. Chilson was elected to succeed herself.

Other officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. James Betts, vice president, Mrs. T. R. Smalldon, second vice president, Mrs. Arthur Patterson, treasurer, Mrs. Harry Halverson, assistant treasurer, Mrs. Howard Terwilliger, recording secretary, Miss Mabel Cook, corresponding secretary.

Many volunteers have assisted the Children's Home during the year. Dentists examined each boy every six months. One boy is given piano lessons, a group are taught woodworking, and six women tutor those boys who need extra help in mathematics and reading. Friends in the community have taken the boys on trips and into their homes.

Boys in the Children's Home range from age six through 18 years and all attend Public School. Three boys are active in Scouting. During the past year only two cases of measles and no other contagious diseases were recorded. Two tonsillectomies and one appendectomy were performed.

In addition to general maintenance and repair, the Library was renovated and restocked.

Committee reports pointed up the lack of a large all purpose room where the boys would have room for active play in inclement weather.

First Pony Club Meeting Draws Large Group

More than 30 children attended the first official meeting of the newly formed Woodstock Pony Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Chepeleff last Sunday.

There were promises of more members in the future. The first meeting was attended by youngsters from all parts of Ulster County, including Highland, Kingston, Saugerties, Stone Ridge and Woodstock.

About a third of the youngsters indicated they ride Western and the remainder prefer English. Two thirds of the group own their own mounts which include horses, ponies and even a donkey.

Charles Ashley, district commissioner, opened the meeting and introduced the instructors: Mrs. Robert Jacobson, Mrs. Paul Le Paige and Mrs. Daniel Morehouse. The purposes of the Pony Club were outlined and ideas for future activities discussed.

The instructors proposed that the first project should be a stable inspection conducted periodically during the year. The child who maintained the highest standards within his or her financial limitation would receive a plaque. To encourage good stable management, Dr. Le Paige generously offered to donate a plaque.

Both instructors and pupils learned some fascinating things from a test that was given to the children to divide them into working groups. They will meet in these groups on February 11.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Perlman and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. van Rijn have kindly given the pony clubbers the use of their grounds for the forthcoming meeting.

The next general meeting will be held later in February at which new members are invited to enroll. Persons desiring more information are asked to contact Pat Jacobson, secretary.

Asks State Be Tougher on Smut Literature Sale

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The "smut merchant" is damaging the morals of the state's youth more than "all the insidious propaganda of Moscow's Marxist marts," the chairman of a legislative committee to combat obscenity says.

The committee, in a report to the Legislature Tuesday, renewed its plea for more stringent state laws to prohibit distribution and sale of obscene matter.

The group, headed by Assemblyman Luigi R. Marano, R-Brooklyn, said portrayal of lewdness and brutality was becoming rampant in the state.

Marano urged the motion picture, television and publishing industries to adopt an effective system of self-regulation. He also asked that Congress give postal officials increased authority to fight distribution of obscene material through the mails.

Bus Certificate Revoked by PSC, Action Was Asked

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission revoked today the certificate of a bus company that operates between Little Falls and Fonda and granted a temporary permit to another firm for the same route.

The Little Falls-Fonda Bus Corp., which had reported continuing operating losses, had asked that its certificate be revoked. The company will discontinue the Little Falls-Fonda service Saturday.

Central New York Coach Lines Inc. of Utica, which was granted a temporary certificate, was ordered by the PSC to begin service between Little Falls and Fonda no later than next Monday.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie production here is at the lowest ebb since the strikes of 1959, but there appears to be no alarm.

Three major studies have one film apiece — "Jumbo" (Doris Day, Stephen Boyd) at MGM; "Who's Got the Action" (Dean Martin, Lana Turner) at Paramount and "Gypsy" (Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood) at Warners.

Columbia, 20th-Fox, Disney, Allied Artists and Universal have no films shooting here. Twelve American movies are being made overseas.

Four big independent films are in production locally: "Taras Bulba" (Yul Brynner, Tony Curtis); "A Child Is Waiting" (Burt Lancaster, Judy Garland); "Two for the Seesaw" (Shirley MacLaine, Robert Mitchum); and "The Manchurian Candidate" (Frank Sinatra). Also one offering which may be the height of dirty pictures—"The Slime People."

Eight pictures shooting in a town that once averaged 50!

The outlook for 1962 seems brighter. With box office figures improving, producers seem more willing to take chances. The production picture is bound to get brighter—if only because it can't get worse.

POLLY'S QUIZ

Antiques Blend With Modern To Produce Warming Effect

A good many young couples, now married for six or seven years, have wearied of the very modern furniture they bought when they were first married. At the time, it seemed the thing to do.

Now, they have discovered that they want more warmth and softness so they are making the swing around to Early American wherever the shift proves financially feasible.

If this description fits you, take hope. The clean simplicity of good modern design has a lot in common with Early American antiques.

Begin to scout around for antique accessories. Skillfully introduced into a contemporary room, they will bring with them warmth and personality.

Dear Polly: For the first time in years, I am completely redoing my living room. The sofa will be dark brown or that royal blue and green striped effect. While I like modern, may I mix Early American end tables with a modern sectional? I have a platform rocker and large chair. I am inclined toward brown but fear that it may prove drab. Please brighten me up.—Mrs. P. R.

Dear Mrs. P. R.: The simple lines of modern will be quite compatible with Early American. Do get the green-and-blue sofa. White walls, a deep green rug and draperies to match should provide a handsome background for the sofa. Recover the rocker with white plastic fabric and slip cover the large chair with a quilted chintz in blue, green, white and gold.

Dear Polly: Would it be good taste to use a wing-back couch and chairs with limed oak tables if we stick to plain fabrics rather than Colonial prints? — Mrs. D. M.

Dear Mrs. D. M.: Be brave and go ahead. Even use a print if you like. But avoid the use of too many itsy-bitsy patterns, any time and any place.

Dear Polly: My bedroom walls are white and the draperies are light green. Bedroom suite is gray. What color would be a nice change for walls and woodwork?—Mrs. M. R.

Dear Mrs. M. R.: Try wallpaper for a change. It has never been lovelier. Consider a white ground with sprawling flower design in golden yellow, gray and green. Woodwork could be green for a different effect. Ceiling, too.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Seek Student Loan First At College of Your Choice

BY FAYE HENLE

Q — Please publish the name and addresses of where I might apply for a student loan? — A. M. L.

A — A. M. L.: Your first inquiry for a student loan, including those made under the National Defense Education Act, should be to the college of your choice. Colleges make the cheapest loans and they might be able to direct you toward scholarships or bank loans. Savings banks loans, with funds guaranteed by state government, are generally cheaper than those offered by commercial banks.

Q—If the witness predeceased the maker of a will, must a new witness be substituted?—T. B. M.

A—Dear T. B. M.: The answer is no—no new witness is needed.

Q—I have just been made the trustee of a small fund. Is it true that I can only invest the trust's income in stocks like AT & T and approved legals? — J. J. B.

A—Dear J. J. B.: I can't possibly answer this, and most probably the reason you ask is because you have not read the trust agreement.

A good trust instrument spells out exactly what a trustee may or may not do. If it says you may only invest in legals or "prudent man" issues, then you'll have to find out which are permitted under the law of your state (this varies).

If you are given a free hand, you should determine the purpose of the trust—to provide income or growth of capital— and make your investment plans accordingly.

Q — I've been a widow for 28 years. The Social Security benefit I receive is based on my work, since my husband died before Social Security began. What I do not understand is why widows who receive benefits on their husbands' work receive an increase, while widows, such as myself, who worked under Social Security, receive no increase? — A. W. W.

A — Dear A. W. W.: All laws have certain inequalities, I fear, and this I would spot as one. It is true that recent changes in the Social Security law increased by 10 per cent the amounts widows 62 and over receive on their husband's accounts. The reason given is that the benefit is for one person and surveys have shown that widows are less able than other aged persons to supplement their benefits to any significant degree.

Q — What is a cosigner on a loan? — L. T.

A — Dear L. T.: It is a second signature promising to repay the loan. The cosigner is exactly as liable for payment of the debt as the original borrower.

Could Mean Tensions Are Easing

Salinger's Trip May Pave Way for JFK Moscow Visit

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)— Tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union seem to be easing off a bit. Even the Berlin crisis may be in for a prolonged lull.

This is the main significance seen here in several fresh developments highlighted by the announcement Tuesday that President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, will visit the Soviet Union in late April or May.

Alexei Made Bid

Salinger said the trip will be made in response to an invitation extended by Soviet editor Alexei Adzhubei, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, at a luncheon with President Kennedy.

The Salinger trip could prove in the long run to be a trail blazer for a visit by Kennedy himself. Informed officials say that is not in the plans now. There is still too much tension between Moscow and Washington, as things now stand.

Adzhubei spent three hours talking with Kennedy and it was generally assumed that the Russian followed the same line which he had taken with newsmen who met him at the Soviet Embassy Monday night. His argument then was that though there are many points of East-West dispute each side should take whatever small steps are possible to improve relations. He said this is not the time for big steps.

See Cooling-Off Period

U.S. officials were reluctant to give deep significance to his remarks. They believe, however, that Khrushchev at least intends to have a cooling off period in East-West conflict.

There was no immediate word as to President Kennedy's own estimate of the situation.

Last Sunday, obviously with Kennedy's blessing, Salinger met in Paris with Mikhail Kharlamov, Soviet Foreign Ministry press chief, and reportedly talked about improving communications between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Their discussion is believed to have covered such things as exchanges of recorded statements and taped television appearances involving Kennedy, Khrushchev, and other high government officials. Adzhubei interviewed Kennedy late last year and published the text in Izvestia, the government newspaper he edits.

Berlin Critical Test

How accurately these straws in the wind point to the future course of East-West relations will be determined, in the view of the State Department, not so much by goodwill visits and friendly statements as by what happens.

U.S. leaders say that Berlin offers a critical test case. If Khrushchev does not stir up new trouble over Berlin the Western powers will let the situation ride as it is indefinitely.

A more critical test of the ability of the powers to do something about peace in the world will come in general disarmament negotiations scheduled to open in mid-March.

Squeeze Play Is Sure-Fire

By OSWALD JACOBY

South's seven-spade bid was distinctly optimistic and apparently he had no play for it because the club finesse was wrong, but he was able to make the contract by means of a very unusual squeeze play.

The interesting feature of this play was that South knew he was using a sure thing play because he counted the opponents' distribution.

He started by marking East with all the high diamonds on the bidding and opening lead.

He ruffed the first diamond, led one trump and noted that East was void of that suit.

Then he played three rounds of hearts, ruffing the third in dummy and noted that East had started with exactly two hearts. A second diamond ruff marked West with at least two diamonds. Therefore West had started with three spades six hearts and at least two diamonds. The squeeze had to operate.

South ran off all but one of his trumps and discarded down to the ace-king of clubs and two diamonds in dummy. East had to let two clubs go in order to hang on to two diamonds.

Now South cashed dummy's two high clubs, ruffed a diamond to get back to his hand and made the last trick with the deuce of clubs.

2 Persons Hurt In Car Mishaps On Icy Highways

Two persons were injured Tuesday in traffic accidents investigated by Highland State Police.

Trooper James Kaljian said Russell Huggins, 37, of Circleville, was injured at 8:10 a. m. yesterday when a 1952 car he was driving was involved in a collision with another vehicle on Route 32 near Rock Hill Road, New Paltz.

Troopers said Huggins was driving a car owned by Spaulding Bakery of Middletown and while stopped for a school bus the vehicle was struck in the rear by a car owned by Parsons of Kingston and operated by William Hughens Jr., 28, of 118 Huguenot Street, New Paltz.

Kaljian said the car driven by Hughens skidded on slippery pavement. Huggins complained of a neck injury and said he would see his physician.

At 12:30 p. m. yesterday Helen Sparacio, 22, of Crescent Avenue, Clintondale, suffered a sprained neck when the 1959 car in which she was riding skidded and struck a tree off Milton Turnpike near South Street, in the Town of Plattekill.

Trooper Kaljian said the car was operated by Francis Paul Fino, 22, of Highland. The vehicle was traveling west on Milton Turnpike when it skidded across the highway, struck guard posts and then slid back across the highway and struck a tree.

Rules Are Relaxed So Son, 7, Can See Blind Mother

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Georgia Hathaway, a deaf and blind woman whose fight to keep her child attracted widespread attention six years ago, is recovering from a heart attack in Akron General Hospital.

The hospital relaxed its rules on children's visiting rights to allow Mrs. Hathaway's son, Clarence, who will be 7 on Feb. 17, to visit her. Clarence is the eyes and ears of his mother, who is 43, and father, Harold Hathaway, 60, who also is deaf and blind. The couple in 1955 won a court fight to prevent a welfare agency from placing Clarence in a foster home.

Mrs. Hathaway need no longer stay in an oxygen tent and is able to sit in a chair three times a day and feed herself.

Q. Can you name the textbook that's completely rewritten every day?

A. There is one, you know. It's your daily newspaper. When you stop to think, isn't your newspaper the most up-to-date textbook on a great many school subjects?

It's unsurpassed in coverage of current political, social or economic events. It's filled with reports of latest discoveries in biology, chemistry and all sciences. It also fills in background on foreign lands for foreign-language study. It prints articles on local history... food, family, furnishings news of use in homemaking courses... texts of great speeches... examples of English composition and good grammar.

No wonder more and more teachers are using newspapers in classrooms to enrich basic course material. In fact, newspapers have become such a widespread teaching tool that an extensive program of teachers' workshops has been created. At these sessions—held at various colleges throughout the country—teachers learn the most effective techniques for using newspapers in class to stimulate student interest. Sponsored jointly by educators and American Newspaper Publishers Association, these workshops help teachers help students become active, well-informed citizens. As a textbook for youth or the main source of information for all Americans, our country's newspapers never stop serving.

NOTE TO TEACHERS: This newspaper will be glad to help you begin a newspaper-in-classroom program at your school. If you have any questions on this subject, please call or write us.

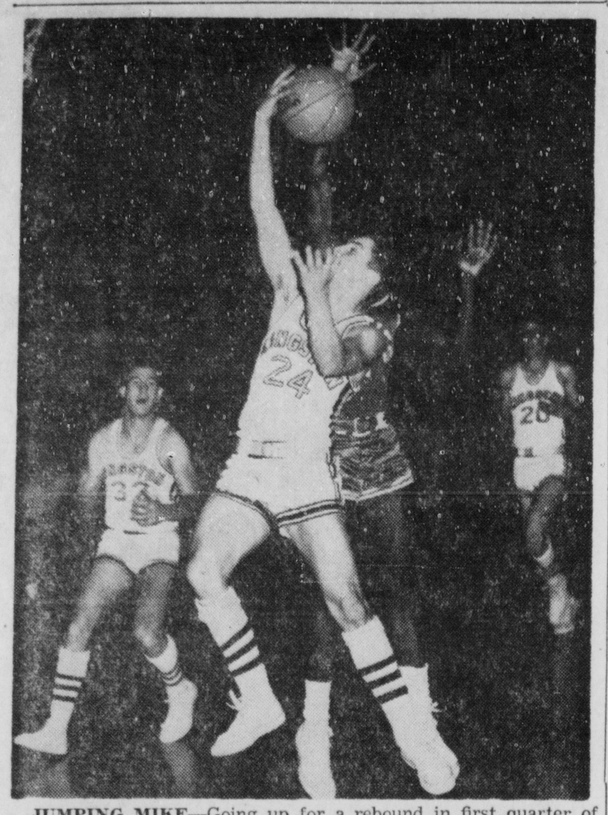
High School Cagers Coast to 73-56 Win Over Monticello



JUMPING MIKE—Going up for a rebound in first quarter of DUSO League game last night is Mike Ferraro (24), KHS high scorer. He was fouled on the play by Ty Sands, who is behind Ferraro. Mike made the free throw and went on to score 24 points while pacing his club to the triumph. (Freeman photo).

Early Outburst Insures Maroon Of DUSO Victory

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Mike Ferraro scored 11 points in a first period burst and his Kingston High teammates took over from there as they smothered Monticello, 73-56, in a DUSO game last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The win, achieved before the smallest crowd of the season, was the fifth in seven league starts and makes the record for the year a respectable 7-4.

Once the home side got rolling in the opening session, there wasn't any doubt as to the outcome. Ferraro hit for three quick baskets and John Falvey made two layups and a free throw to get their teammates off to a commanding lead. It had zoomed to 12 points, 35-22, at halftime.

Rally Fizzles

Monticello staged a rally in the third period, coming to within 10 points. After Ronnie Thomas and Paul Natale had tallied quick baskets at the start of the period, Willie Harden hit with two jumpers and Tom D'Ari followed a free throw by Falvey with a layup. After Al Greenfield's charity toss had sliced the lead to 40-30, Ferraro scored two driving layups, taking passes from Natale and Thomas. A jumper by Harden and another by Thomas made the scoreboard read, 46-32, with 3:30 left in the period. For all intents and purposes, the Monties were finished for the evening.

Coach John Gilligan inserted reserves in the final quarter and they all had a hand in the final outcome. It was a team triumph, with all nine performers doing their share.

Ferraro, the league's leading scorer, led the winners with 24 points. Thomas and Falvey were also in double digits while Duffner did yeoman work on the backboards. Harden, a good outside shooter, had 18 for the Monties.

Marlboro Central's five stalwarts gave another route going performance last night and the Dukes rolled to their 12th straight victory, 63-49, over a stubborn New Paltz club. The win keeps the home side at the top of the UCAL scramble.

Roland Sheldon On Honeymoon

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roland Sheldon, who moved to the New York Yankees directly from Auburn, N.Y., of the Class D New York-Penn Baseball League, was honeymooning today with his 18-year-old bride.

Sheldon, 25, and the former Wanda Lou McConnell were married Tuesday by the bride's father, the Rev. Merle L. McConnell, in the chapel of the First Christian Church at suburban Lee's Summit, Mo.

Sheldon, a righthanded pitcher, met his wife in a hardware store last June, while the Yankees were here to play the Kansas City Athletics.

He entered professional baseball in 1960 and compiled a 15-1 record with Auburn. He moved up to the Yankees last season and won 11 games and lost 5. He is due to report to the Yankees' training camp at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Feb. 5.

Wallkill Stops Pine Bush, 74-44

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

"Why bring in all these high priced stars, when we have our own Dick Howard," the man asked.

The Sangi Bowlero quipster must have been joking, of course. Or he might still be suffering from the tremendous letdown in watching Tom Hennessey Sunday night.

Then again, he was only half right.

There was no faulting Detroit's flamboyant Billy G. (Golombiewski) last spring. He only clobbered the maples for 1102 in five games, a mere 220-plus average.

But this Howard fellow had the man intrigued.

"The guy is just phenomenal in these exhibitions," he went on. "Against Billy G., he tossed a 636 series and Tom Carlino added 600 for 1236. The only reason they lost is because Billy G knocked off 693 and Mike Rienzo game him 597 for 1290."

"Along comes this guy Hennessey," the man continued., "and Howard rolls 211 and 236. That gives him a cool 1083 for five games against the pros. That's a real nice 216-plus average in front of a big crowd."

"Maybe he likes big crowds," the man went on. "Most guys get nervous and choke up before a big home town crowd. Not Howard . . . he thrives on it. So, no matter what big shot they book, we know Dick will put on a show for the folks, even if the big pro doesn't."

"And, say, didn't that Hennessey have an awful time Sunday night? I never felt so sorry for a big timer in my life. Maybe he was tired after that long grind at Albany in the Empire State Open. Whatever it was, he sure didn't live up to his press clippings, did he?"

"I noticed he did alright up there . . . finished fourth and picked up over a thousand bucks. Can it be that 15 and 16 at Sangis are that much tougher than all those lanes in Albany?"

It was pretty tough shutting this fellow up. He went right on talking:

"Guess Hennessey just couldn't find the line at Sangi's. You know that bugs me. All you hear these days is the line, the line. It must be a lot easier to find the line in Albany."

"But I got a suggestion to make to Red Sangi. He ought to contact Hennessey and have him come back some day soon. Just to prove that all the stuff written about him before he came here wasn't a fake. They can't charge Red anything, you know. This has to be for free."

Chris Gallo on Rampage:

Chris Gallo doesn't have to prove that any "700" he rolls is a fluke. He's had three this season, two of them back-to-back in the Invitational Classic at the Bowlerama. The most recent was a 726 spiced with a 300 game. His 700s to date, include a pair of 711s and the 726.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Phil Versace, the Poughkeepsie hotshot, emerged leader among area shooters at Albany with 4,003 for his 20-game total, a 200-plus average. He missed the head-to-head finals by 28 pins but picked up $140 in prize money. . . . Jack Ferraro was over 200 in 12 of his 16 qualifying games but a pair of 140s, a 150 and 160 was his undoing. . . . Kudos to Jack Brown, a 158 average Tavern Association kegler, who made his career first 600 triple a hefty 637. . . . Gene Mulligan is on a hot streak in the Chalet Mixer which rolls in his establishment at Rosendale. . . . Orchids go to: Dutch Hoffman, for converting the "double pinochle" in the Sport Haven League; Bill Robinson, City Minor, for a 158 triplicate. . . . How about this jewel of consistency: June Holliday, a 127 average bowler in the IBM Feather League, rolled her average three consecutive games for a 127-127-127-381 triplicate! The WIBC's oddities bureau has to know about this one. . . . Bob Hoe of Poughkeepsie has returned his establishments to affiliation with the Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors Association. This is a sensible move because it eliminates an embarrassing situation and makes all HVBPA events available to Hoe's large clientele. . . . The valley proprietors are looking for a topflight publicity director. If the organization has one glaring weakness, it's in the publicity department . . . its failure to sell its promotions to the bowlers. . . . Nell Glennon, KWBA president, and her staff heading for Watertown next week to establish the final total of teams for the 1962 state women's tournament which opens here March 23. 3,000 we hope.

Blue Devils of Duke, A Powerful Cage Squad

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Duke's Blue Devils, boasting a couple of sophomore sensations to augment junior phenom Art Heyman, has developed into one of the most formidable college basketball clubs in Dixie.

Duke, ranked sixth in the current Associated Press poll, bolstered its season's record to 13-2 with an impressive 89-73 victory over South Carolina at Durham, N.C., Tuesday night. The Blue Devils took over undisputed possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 6-1 mark

Only one other member of the top 10, Cincinnati, saw action Tuesday night. The Bearcats, No. 2 nationally, subdued Drake 73-52 in a Missouri Valley game. The triumph, at home, boosted Cincinnati's record to 15-2 and 5-2 in league play.

31 for Mullins

Jeff Mullins, a 6-4 soph with a deft touch, supplied the scoring impetus for Duke with a 31-point outburst against South Carolina. Jay Buckley, a 6-10 sophomore pivot, turned in his best game with 26 points while the 6-5 Heyman, the ACC scoring leader, collected 20 points—including several key baskets.

Heyman, who entered the game as the fifth leading scorer in the country, is averaging 27.9 points per game. Mullins raised his season's average to 21.1, fourth best in the ACC.

Big Paul Hogue found the range for 29 points in spearheading Cincinnati's imposing conquest of Drake. Two Drake defenders had their hands full guarding the 6-9 center, and both eventually fouled out.

The Bearcats controlled the backboards and assumed a 36-22 halftime bulge. Cincy cleared the bench after the intermission and still posted a convincing success.

Cincinnati's 5-2 league slate tied the Ohioans with Wichita for second place in the MVC. Bradley leads with a 6-1 mark.

In other games, host North Carolina State rolled over Virginia 99-72 in an ACC game as Ken Rohloff led the way with 25 points. Texas Tech moved into sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference with a 69-63 victory over SMU at Dallas behind Dave Siegmund's 20 points. Jerry Carlton accumulated 32 points as Arkansas knocked Rice out of a share of the SWC lead 104-84.

Houston extended its record to 15-3 with a 73-69 verdict over Texas A&M as Don Schverak hit for 25 points. TCU rallied in the second half to top Baylor 69-53 and climb out of the SWC cellar. Texas staved off a second-half spurt by Trinity and prevailed 95-89. And Hunter Beckman amassed 35 points in Memphis State's 86-72 triumph over The Citadel.

Foley Hits 30

Elsewhere, Jack Foley, the nation's third leading scorer with a 31.5 average, flipped in 30 points as Holy Cross won its ninth in a row at the expense of Dartmouth 92-61. Tennessee Tech handed Western Kentucky its first Ohio Valley Conference setback 79-72.

Liberty Cagers Top Port Jervis, 65-60

Liberty rallied in the last period to trip Port Jervis, 65-60, in a DUSO game last night at the Porter's gym. Charles Bruns and Jeff Smith tallied 20 points each for the winners while Don Harding netted 17 for Port Jervis.

In a non-league game yesterday afternoon, Middletown defeated Monroe-Woodbury, 66-48. Bill Kindberg netted 22 and Bill Gray 16 for the Middies.

Ganders Clinch Upset Verdict With Late Rally

With six players giving outstanding performances, Rondout Valley surprised the high flying Saugerties Sawyers, 63-57, in a thriller yesterday at the winners' court in Stone Ridge.

The defending DCSL champions were forced to play without the services of regulars Al Hrdlicka and Keith Mills, both absent from school. However, this didn't take the glitter off the victory by the home side. It was the top effort of the season for the Ganders.

After leading during most of the final period, the winners had a brief lapse and the Sawyers knotted the score, 57-57, with a little more than a minute left. Then Jim Brush and Richie Lewis made key baskets and Lewis added two free throws. This sealed the upset.

Brush and Lewis led the winners with 15 points each while Bob Barnum and Lynn Johnson added 14. Mike Dodig topped Saugerties with 21 markers. Bill Schirmer had 13 and Paul Buytkins 12.

Saugerties won a jayvee thriller, 34-31, as Bob Gilmore made 10 points.

Germans Cop 4-Man Bobsled

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany (AP) — Germany's Franz Schelle, a mustachioed 32-year-old transportation company executive, looked ahead today to an invitational bobsled meet in Lake Placid, N.Y., as the first major event in his new role as world four-man champion.

Schelle, who Tuesday mastered the much-maligned, mile-long Olympic run here in the two championship heats of the fours, plans to make the trek to the United States to compete in the special invitational World Diamond Bobsled Trophy meet Feb. 18-25.

He will be accompanied by his brakeman, diminutive Otto Goebl. He will be joined in the upstate New York winter resort by world two-man champion Rinaldo Ruatti of Italy, and his brakeman Enrico Delorenzo. There is also a possibility that Ruatti's teammate, Segio Zardini, also will make the trip. Zardini finished second in both the two and four man championships here.

The lone United States sled, that finished 14th in the field of 15 Tuesday, will remain in Germany. Driver Lloyd Johnson, from Madison, Wis., is a businessman in Frankfurt, Germany, and his crew is made up of U.S. servicemen stationed in Europe.

Rondout Valley Gun Club Burns Its Mortgage

Members of the Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club, Inc., had a double-barrelled celebration at their annual venison dinner. They burned a 15-year mortgage and received the Ulster County Pistol League championship trophy. About 100 members and wives were present for the ceremonies.

George Schwab, who was introduced by club president, John Dickerson, related the history and development of the club and several of the older members participated in a session of reminiscing.

Judge Herbert Poppel presented the Pistol League trophy to team captain, Anthony Setariano. E. Samuels officiated at the formal burning of the mortgage.

In his historical review, Schwab noted that the Rondout club was established in 1927, making it the oldest rod and gun club in Ulster County. The original by-laws were written by Milliard Davis, former assemblyman and prominent Ulster County citizen.

Members met at Deyo's Garage in Kerhonkson in the early years of the club. The main objectives of the organization were conservation of wild life and to promote better relationship between the sportsmen and the land owners. Trapshooting and field days were held in the area known as "Macinoc." The club enjoyed many activities up to the war years.

In 1947 by incorporating, the present clubhouse and land was purchased. The club remains active in the conservation program and has added to its activities the Hunter Safety course and the 25-man pistol team.

Beacon Scores 47-39 Upset Over Newburgh

The unbeaten string of the Newburgh Goldbacks was snapped at 11 last night as Beacon pulled off a stunning 47-39 upset at the Hilly City court.

Playing without star center John Sileno, home with the flu bug, the home side couldn't get their scoring machine in high gear. After taking a 15-5 first period lead, the Goldies trailed, 23-18 and 33-32 at the other stops.

Sopohomore Henry Brown led the Bulldogs with 21 points while Richie Scott's 20 paced Newburgh. Al Angelone was held to four markers.

YMCA Contest Halted in 4th Quarter as Players Brawl

Players from Trailways Cafeteria and Hayes Lincoln-Mercury became involved in a hot dispute last night during a YMCA Basketball League game and the contest was halted with a minute gone in the fourth period and with the Cafeteria five leading, 49-46.

What transpired is somewhat hazy but it reportedly started when a player from each club began fighting. Both benches emptied on the court and referees Ken Dyson and Whitey Meyers couldn't restore order. Therefore, they halted the game at the point the rumpus started.

Steve Orozco, YMCA athletic director, said there has been no decision made as to whether the game will go into the books as an official win for the Cafeteria. "That will be decided in the near future," he said.

The scheduled second game between Delanoy Fuel and Byrne Chevrolet was postponed. Several players were unable to appear because of sickness.

Highland Decisions Onteora Team, 60 - 50

Highland Central cagers won their second game of the season last night, stopping visiting Onteora, 60-50, in a DCSL engagement.

The home side, which recently broke a 45-game losing streak, took the lead early in the opening period and held it the rest of the way, despite several threats by the Indians.

Tom Gruner gave a good show for Highland, hitting for 18 points. Fred Ellis scored 16. Rolf Medal, the Onteora workhorse, had 15 markers.

Highland made it a clean sweep by winning the jayvee contest, 44-28. Dick Nardone led the home side with 16 points.

Major Colleges Ponder Dropping Frosh Athletics

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —There's an indication in the future that intercollegiate athletic contests for freshmen at Penn State, Pitt, Syracuse and West Virginia may be halted, it was reported today.

Paul Poorman, a staff writer for the Centre Daily Times, made the observation in a story about Penn State football.

Poorman quoted Ernie McCoy, athletic director at Penn State, as saying in an interview:

"This (no freshmen contests) would allow a boy to spend his first year—with its difficult personal and academic adjustments —without the worry of making the team. We feel it might be a good thing and be of overall benefit to the boys—and to the institution."

Poorman also reported that McCoy and the athletic directors at Syracuse and Pitt are currently exploring the possibility of ending the practice known as "red shirting." This is holding a boy out of competition for a year, solely to better utilize his talents a year later.

"It isn't fair," Poorman quoted McCoy. "And in my opinion it constitutes over-emphasis."

Dick Tiger Earns Award in Boxing

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger's knockout triumph over Cuba's Florentino Fernandez has earned the Nigerian the "fighter of the month" award from Ring magazine and a boost in the middleweight rankings.

The British empire 160-pound champion was elevated over Paul Pender, former middleweight champion from Brookline, Mass., to the No. 2 contender's position. Pender was dropped to third. Ring recognizes England's Terry Downes as world champion. Gene Fullmer, the NBA middleweight king from West Jordan, Utah, is the No. 1 contender in the monthly ratings released today.

Eder Jofre of Brazil settled the dispute over the bantamweight title by knocking out Johnny Caldwell of Ireland. Caldwell was dropped a notch and now ranks as the No. 2 contender behind Mexico's Joe Medel.

Bout With Robinson Looms for Giardello

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joey Giardello, eighth-ranked National Boxing Association middleweight contender, may get Sugar Ray Robinson as his next opponent after defeating Henry Hank of Detroit by a split decision in a 10-round feature bout.

The decision over the ninth-ranked Hank, who had beaten Giardello in Detroit last July, drew boos from many of the 5,867 fans in Convention Hall Tuesday night. Giardello weighed 164, Hank 163½.

Co-promoter Al Lewis has proposed matching the winner with Robinson in a bout at Convention Hall.

Dates Are Given for Poughkeepsie Tourney

The Poughkeepsie YMCA is making arrangements for its 19th annual Hudson Valley Basketball tournament. The event is scheduled to begin March 19 and games will be played that night as well as March 21, 23, 26, 28, 30 and April 2 and 4.

Entries and other information may be obtained from Donald J. McKiernan, Poughkeepsie YMCA Associate General Secretary.

Selvy, Larusso Fill the Void Left by Baylor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way Frank Selvy and Rudy Larusso acted Tuesday night, maybe Jerry West will get some major help in keeping the Los Angeles Lakers humming toward the Western Division title in the National Basketball Association.

West, who has been carrying much of the load in those games when Elgin Baylor can't get away from the Army, scored 36 points —about par for him. But Selvy chipped in with 22 and Larusso with 23 and the Lakers had a mostly easy time of it in whipping the Chicago Packers, 107-92.

The victory, the Lakers' 20th in 23 home games, pushed their over-all record to 40-15 and enabled them to maintain their 8½-game lead over runner-up Cincinnati. The Royals also used balanced scoring in downing the St. Louis Hawks 131-121.

In the only other game played, Richie Guerin's 46 points triggered New York to a 116-110 conquest of Philadelphia, which had won seven in a row.

Sharman Coach Of Cleveland Club

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Sharman, who made a big jump from Boston player to Los Angeles coach, is now in Cleveland as coach of the Pipers of the American Basketball League.

The 31-year-old Sharman, a backcourt ace of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association for 10 years, was hired by the Pipers late Tuesday after John McLendon walked out in a feud with owner George Steinbrenner.

Sharman had been coach of the Los Angeles Jets until that team folded operations a few weeks ago.

Under McLendon the Pipers had won the first half championship in the Eastern Division, but now are in last place after dropping seven of nine games.

Tapers Have Hex Over Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Tapers probably would like to play the Pittsburgh Rens all the time in the American Basketball League.

The Tapers have won three of nine games in the second half race and all three have been against the Rens.

No. 3 came Tuesday night at Commack, N.Y., as the Tapers ended a 4-game Pittsburgh winning streak 114-93. The defeat cut the first place Rens' lead in the Eastern Division to one game over Chicago and 1½ over New York.

Kansas City, the first half champions, snapped a two-game losing streak by edging Hawaii 84-81 at Honolulu in the other league game scheduled.

Carry Back Launches 4-Year-Old Carer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The $25,000-added Palm Beach Handicap today tests Carry Back, last year's 3-year-old champion, and 13 other horses over seven furlongs at Hialeah Park.

Tartan Stable's Intentionally, ridden by Bob Ussery, was top weighted at 126 pounds. Mrs. Katherine Price's Carry Back, with Johnny Sellers up, will lug 124 pounds.

If all started the race would be worth $21,000 to the winner. Carry Back earned $851,648 last season.

Advice Is Given Area Taxpayers

Taxpayers who complete the Form 1040 were reminded today by local district director James A. O'Hara to fasten Forms W-2 (Copy B) securely to the face of the return.

The tax official said the completed Form 1040, with W-2's attached, should be sent to the taxpayer's local district director of internal revenue. If there is a balance of tax due, a check or money order payable to the "Internal Revenue Service" should be attached to the top of page 1, Form 1040.

The director emphasized that where a supporting document to the Form 1040, such as Schedule B, is required, it should be affixed to the reverse side of the return.

Taxpayers who use Form 1040A should make sure that Forms W-2 (Copy B) and check or money order for balance of tax due, if any, are enclosed with the Form 1040A prior to mailing to their local district director of internal revenue.

State ACS Units To Discuss April Drive for Funds

American Cancer Society crusaders from Ulster, Greene, Columbia, Dutchess and 17 other counties in New York State will meet at the Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany on Tuesday, Feb. 6 to make final plans for the 1962 drive in April.

The all-day meeting, which gets underway at 10 a. m. will be conducted by the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society.

County units of the society will send their general crusade chairmen; residential division, special gifts and publicity chairmen, and their presidents, unit secretaries, volunteer directors and other key crusaders to the sessions to make plans for the assault on cancer.

Funds raised during the annual Cancer Crusade are used for cancer research, public education, professional information, and service to cancer patients.

Tittle Undecided About 1962 Plans

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Veteran quarterback Y.A. Tittle of the New York Giants said he doesn't know if he'll play in 1962 but if he does this will be his last season.

He spoke Tuesday night at the 15th annual "Million Dollar Banquet" of the Palo Club.

Tittle proved instrumental in New York's winning the National Football League Eastern Division championship last season.

"I don't know if I'm going to play next season," said the veteran quarterback who operates an insurance business here, "but if I do, I'm really going to hang 'em up after it's over."

Ithaca Rally Tops Buffalo State, 86-72

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Ithaca College's basketball team pulled out of a deadlocked first half Tuesday night to hammer Buffalo State, 86-72.

Ithaca's biggest lead came midway in the second half when it was 15 points out in front. The score had been 42-42 at the half.

Sophomore Tom Vogt led Ithaca with 36 points while Dick Banaszak was top man for the losers with 25.

Ithaca has won seven and lost four. Buffalo State has a 8-6 record.

Taboos of Sponsor Related by NBC, Practice Ending

WASHINGTON (AP)—A television network official says advertisers have been allowed to control the content of entertainment programs because they pay for them. But the practice is on the decline, he added.

The testimony came Tuesday from Mort Werner, National Broadcasting Co. vice president in charge of network television programming, as the Federal Communications Commission continued its study of network program policies.

The hearings were recessed today while the FCC held its regular monthly meeting, but will resume Thursday with further questioning of NBC executives.

Werner said that sponsor taboos have been accepted by the networks on the theory "that the man who pays the bills has a right to some voice in shaping the product."

Werner said most sponsors reserve "a measure of control in terms of 'corporate policy' or 'business policy.' For the most part changes suggested or insisted upon because of this reservation are not significant insofar as basic program content is concerned.

"A cigarette sponsor bans cigar smoking; an automobile manufacturer doesn't want an auto accident in the story. These requirements do not really interfere with the entertainment objective of the programs or with their creative integrity."

Lane to Lead Off

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assemblyman Mark Lane, who launched the conflict-of-interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, will be one of the lead-off witnesses at a public hearing Thursday.

The hearing into the charge has been called by the Assembly Committee on Ethics, which has been holding a series of private hearings on the issue.

Lane, a Manhattan Democrat, has charged that Carlino, a Republican, was guilty of a conflict of interest because he was a director of a firm that manufactured fallout shelters at the same time the Legislature approved a program of state aid for construction of shelters in schools.

Poughquag Man Injured in Fall

Injured in a fall from a moving tractor on Monday, Grant H. Kendall, 50, of Poughquag, remained in grave condition today at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie. His name is on the hospital's critical list.

Town of Poughkeepsie Police Chief Vincent Smith said Kendall, chairman of the Town of Beekman Board of Assessors, apparently fell from the tractor when it lurched forward.

The injured farmer was taken to the hospital in a private automobile escorted by town police.

GE Board Names 2 New Directors

NEW YORK (AP) — The General Electric Co. has announced the election of two members of the board of directors—Walter B. Wriston and Dr. Edwin D. Harrison.

Wriston is executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York. Harrison is president of the Georgia Institute of Technology.

GE President Ralph D. Cordiner, who made the announcement Tuesday, said the election of the two men "was in keeping with GE's policy of maintaining a board with broad experience in many fields. . .and with wide geographical representation."

A GE spokesman said only three members of the 17-member board were drawn from within the company.

Cubs Protected

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania was the first state to give protection to cub bears. In 1925, a legislative act declared that a bear to be legally taken in the Commonwealth must be "not less than one year old." As a rule a cub bear born in January or February weighs 50 to 80 pounds by autumn. By the time the second hunting season rolls around, a young bear weighs 120-150 pounds.

Folklore, Tradition Theme Of Paltz Seminar Saturday

The Ulster County Senior Seminar students will participate Saturday in what is planned as a very different and unique seminar at the State University College, New Paltz, starting at 10 a. m.

The topic theme will be "Folklore and Tradition in Your Backyard — A Record of Our Heritage." Dr. Herbert Halpert, professor of education at New Paltz, has been invited to meet with the group of approximately 50 selected students.

Dr. Halpert is a noted authority in the field of folklore and folk songs. During 1939, he was appointed by the Library of Congress to collect, documentate and record some of the traditional folk stories and songs which were in some of the southern and northern regions of our country. He has collected and recorded data from Alaska to Newfoundland, as well as in Florida and Southern California.

One of his major efforts of recording and collection has been in the lumbering areas of New York state. These have been in the counties of Ulster, Sullivan and Delaware.

During the seminar session, Dr. Halpert will describe some of the original legends and traditions of New York State, and personally sing choice folk songs which he has gathered. Records of folk songs will be played.

Dr. Halpert is presently visiting professor at New Paltz. He is married and has one child. In 1942 he received his doctoral degree from the University of Indiana in English. He has also majored in anthropology.

He has been president of the American Folklore Society, as well as president of the Kentucky Folklore Society. Dr. Halpert served as first lieutenant in the U. S. Air Corps from 1943 to 1946. From 1956 to 1961 he was dean of Blackburn College at Carlinville, Ill.

Students participating in the Senior Seminar come from the seven central schools of Ulster County. The seminar is under the direction of the Secondary Principal's Council, and is sponsored by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services through the cooperation of the State University College at New Paltz.

Florida Migrant, Family of 10 to Get State Help

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Florida migrant, his wife and nine children will continue to receive public assistance, pending an appeal of a county order cutting them off from further public funds.

Justice Charles Lambaise of State Supreme Court said that Joseph D. Slater was entitled to relief "on a temporary basis," until his appeal to the State Social Welfare Department was decided.

Slater appealed to the state after William B. Woods, Monroe County welfare commissioner, stopped further aid to Slater's family and provided Slater with bus tickets to Florida.

Slater has been unable to find work here after the harvest seasons.

Woods said, when he stopped the aid, that Florida had acknowledged Slater's eligibility for relief there.

Dutchess Driver Is Fatally Hurt In Amenia Crash

Dutchess County's fifth highway traffic death of 1962 occurred at 11:30 p. m. Tuesday when Elden Bascomb, 37-year-old Wassaic State School employe, was fatally injured on Route 22, Town of Amenia.

Bascomb died shortly after being taken to the Sharon, Conn., hospital.

South Millbrook State Police said Bascomb was driving a car owned by Herbert Bascomb, Chateaugay, Franklin County, north on Route 22 when the driver apparently fell asleep. The car crashed into a rear dual wheel of a southbound tractor-trailer.

Edward Nowobiliski, 40, of Housatonic, Mass., operator of the tractor-trailer owned by Palmer Lines, Inc., was not injured.

Dutchess County's highway death toll in 1961 was 35.

Little Room for Juggling

Rocky Sets $40 Million Budget Top for Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's budget set a $40-million ceiling today for the start of a widely heralded new program of state aid to public schools.

The money would be part of an increase of $96.5 million in the next school year, an amount recommended by the staff of the Deifendorf Committee on Public School Financing.

Unusually Light Budget

To implement the $96.5-million program, the state would require only $40 million in the next fiscal year, beginning April 1, because the school year does not begin until September.

The unusually tight budget appeared to leave the lawmakers little room for juggling funds to provide more for the schools. Such juggling has been done in previous years.

The Legislature and the governor are awaiting the final report of the dull Diefendorf committee before deciding how the additional education funds are to be apportioned among school districts.

The $40 million and $22 million for the State University were the only new spending programs the governor recommended for education.

This spending, plus the increased costs of programs authorized in previous years, would raise the state's outlay for education to a record $1.1 billion, 43 per cent of the state budget and $139 million more than last fiscal year.

Items to Be Financed

This money would finance:

State aid to public elementary and high schools (up $87 million); scholar incentive grants, Regents' scholarships and student loans for college students (up $30 million); and operation and new construction at the State University (up $22 million).

The preliminary Diefendorf report, upon which the governor's figure is based, would revise the state-aid formulas so that a school district's need of state money would be determined by the district's property value per pupil, compared with a state average of $26,600 in property for each public school pupil.

Rockefeller's other education proposals included:

State University

He said 245 additional teachers were required to carry forth the university's expansion program, which includes addition of liberal arts curricula at the teachers' colleges.

In addition, the university faculty would share in the 5 per cent salary increase the governor recommended for all state employes.

The major capital construction authorization would be $19.5 million for a new campus for the Albany college.

Other new projects asked:

Additional library facilities at Geneseo, $1.4 million; construction of service buildings, New Paltz, $530,000; construction of a class-room and administration building, service buildings, and repairs, Oneonta, $3.2 million; construction of an infirmary building, Oswego, $460,000; construction of a science building, a classroom and faculty office building, Harpur, $6.2 million; construction of a growth chamber laboratory and repairs to Wing Hall, Agriculture College at Cornell, $1.8 million.

Rehabilitation of Sturtevant Hall and conversion of heating plant to oil, Experiment Station at Geneva, $333,000; improvement of grounds, Ranger School Syracuse, $71,000.

Construction of a student activities building, new heating plant, Institute at Alfred, $2 million; construction of a student activities building, Institute at Cobleskill, $1.3 million.

Community Colleges

Three new community colleges are expected to open this year in Monroe, Onohdaga and Sullivan counties. This will bring to 22 the total number of such colleges. Rockefeller recommended a $1.4 million increase in state aid and a $5 million increase for capital construction.

JFK to Farmers: Accept Controls or Aid Cut

Will Slice $5 Billion In 4 Years

Program Hardest Since Back in 30s

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sent a tough new farm program to Congress today which would give the nation's farmers this choice: accept much tighter production controls on surplus products or face a cut-off of most federal price supports and other aid.

Kennedy said in a special message that his proposals are designed to slice an estimated $5 billion off farm programs over the next four years. The programs otherwise would cost more than $12 billion during that period.

Income Boost Is Goal

Additional aims are to boost farm income and reduce costly farm surpluses now in government hands, he said.

Farmers growing wheat, corn, oats, barley and sorghum grains would lose all price supports if they did not go along with acreage allotments and marketing quotas set under the new program. In addition, the government would reserve the right to dump huge amounts of these surplus grains on the markets. Under most conditions this would depress prices.

Dairymen Included

Marketing quotas would be set on all dairymen for the first time if the program is approved.

The new Kennedy program is the toughest proposed by a president since federal controls were introduced into agriculture in the 1930s.

In the past farmers were asked to cut production of surplus items or perhaps lose some of their price supports. Now it's a case of cut surplus production or get practically no aid.

The more rigid controls highlighted what Kennedy described as his "A B C D" farm program for the 1960s — abundance, balance, conservation and development.

Needs Figure In

He said the program is built around maximum use of the nation's food abundance while balancing future production with needs, conserving farm resources and developing low-income rural areas.

The tigher controls would be applied, in the beginning, to the three big surplus products—wheat, feed grains and dairy products. They would require approval by at least two-thirds of the producers voting in three separate referendums.

Outline Given

Briefly, here are the programs proposed for these products:

Wheat—Reductions of possibly as much as 20 per cent in the years immediately ahead in acreage allotments and marketing quotas from the 1961 level. Growers will ge a somewhat higher price support for grain used for food in the domestic market and a lower one for wheat sold for export. All wheat now is under the same support level.

Should the program be rejected, the government would withdraw all supports and reserve the right to dump up to 200 million bushels of its surplus grain on

OAS Votes 20-0 for Speedy Ouster Of Cuba; Fidel's Delegates Absent

Go-Slow Nations Abstained From Earlier Ballot

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Inter-American foreign ministers formally adopted a final report today on their resolutions against Cuban communism, including a vote for ouster of Fidel Castro's Red regime by the Organization of American States.

Cubans were absent from the plenary meeting and the report was approved 20-0. President Osvaldo Dorticos and his aides were holding a news conference elsewhere as representatives of the rest of the nations in the OAS convened.

Rusk Musters Votes

Though Secretary of State Dean Rusk's bid for unanimity on the ouster issue failed earlier today, the United States had mustered the necessary two-thirds majority for the vote directing the Castro regime's speedy expulsion from the councils of the inter-American family.

'Go Slow' Jars U.S.

The biggest and most powerful nations in Latin America jarred the United States by refusing to vote for the expulsion "without delay" of the Castro government from the Organization of American States and its various agencies. The vote was 14-1, with Cuba voting no and the go-slow bloc of Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Mexico, Bolivia and Ecuador abstaining.

Pact Called Near For Paris, Rebels Cease-Fire Plan

PARIS (AP)—France's capital buzzed today with reports that President Charles de Gaulle's government and the Algerian rebels are near agreement — or have reached one—on a cease-fire and independence in the war-torn Northern African territory.

The Geneva correspondent of the Belgian radio, quoting an authoritative North African source, said complete agreement on an Algerian settlement had been reached at a secret meeting in Vevey, Switzerland.

De Gaulle May Give Word

Paris newspapers Tuesday night carried prominent stories that an agreement was near, and various sources in Paris had the impression crucial developments on Algeria would come this week.

There was no official confirmation of the various peace agreement reports, and none was expected from French officials before Monday night. If agreement has been reached, President de Gaulle presumably will announce it in a radio-TV speech scheduled then.

Several developments gave substance to the reports of an impending climax in the Algerian drama.

City Fire Loss Is $180,908 For 1961, Chief Brett Notes

Four two-alarm fires, including that which blazed through the Livingston & LeFever building, 25 Cornell Street, and nearby structures last Nov. 1, as noted in Fire Chief James M. Brett's annual report to the fire board Tuesday night, brought the city's 1961 fire loss total $136,146.28 above that in 1960.

Total loss for the year on buildings and contents was $180,908.98 as compared to $44,762.70 in 1960. The latter was $21,481 over that of 1959 when the loss was exceptionally low.

The three other second-alarm calls among the 486 total for various purposes during the year were: Jan. 18, Utility Platers, 36 St. James Street; Jan. 27, Frank's Restaurant, 586 Broadway, and Sept. 13, Sav-On Stores, Inc., 702 Broadway.

The fire loss on buildings alone was $95,896.48 and insurance on buildings was reported at $601,400. The loss on contents was $85,012 with the insurance at $327,250. The total insurance on buildings and contents was $928,650, and the fire loss per capita was fixed at $6.10.

Total insurance on buildings and contents involved in 1960 fires was reported at $1,921,050 and the per capita loss was reported at $1.53. The 1959 per capita loss was 70 cents.

Chief Brett noted that the 1961 fire loss total is incomplete "due to the department's not receiving reports from insurance agents to whom questionnaires were mailed."

Report on Alarms

A total of 56 bell alarms were reported for 1961. Of these 31 were for fires, six were caused by fluctuation of water pressure in buildings and 19 were false alarms. The department received 292 telephone alarms, 23 of which were false. Listed also were 74 emergency calls other than for fires, and 41 verbal reports.

Inspections numbered 367 and investigations and complaints involved 158 calls. The report noted 58 fires to which the department was not called. Fire loss on these was listed at $5,161.02 and insurance on buildings and contents involved was reported at $490,100.

Equipment Used

Equipment used at fires included 19,950 feet of 1½-inch hose, 30,350 feet of 2½-inch hose, 2,044 feet of ladder raised, and 100 salvage covers spread. Pressurized water extinguishers, Indian tanks and brooms were also used on fires.

Damage resulting of the Livingston & LeFever fire alone was estimated at upwards of $100,000. Nearly 100 firemen, including volunteers fought the blaze, which began in the afternoon of Nov. 1, continued for some 10 hours, during which several firemen were injured.

Rayburn Seat Is Won by Roberts In Texas Voting

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Ray Roberts, a merchant and president pro tem of the Texas Senate, has won the U.S. House seat of his political mentor, the late Sam Rayburn.

The 48-year-old Democrat, jubilant almost to the point of tears, said he was succeeding "the greatest man who ever lived." He promptly telephoned Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, long a political associate, and arranged a victory meeting in Washington Monday.

Roberts defeated Robert C. (Bob) Slagle in Tuesday's runoff election in Texas' 4th congressional district, represented by Rayburn for 48 years.

When the vote count ended Tuesday night Roberts held an insurmountable lead of 16,047 to 13,302 and Slagle had conceded.

Both Roberts and Slagle were proteges of Rayburn and both described themselves as supporters of the Kennedy administration, although Roberts was regarded as more conservative.

Surging Need Reported for Recreation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special commission reported today that a surging need for more outdoor recreation in America must be met by imagination, large-scale action and "money—lots of it."

But the Outdoor Recreation Resources and Review Commission left it to President Kennedy and Congress, and to state and local governments, to figure out price tags and what specific areas should be acquired or improved.

The 15-man commission, headed by Laurance S. Rockefeller, New York, did say that "the first task is to provide recreation for the metropolitan regions, which have the biggest population and demand for recreation and the least space for it."

Action Urged Now

In urging immediate acquisition of ocean and lake shores, it said that: "Highest priority should be given to acquisition of areas located closest to major population centers and other areas that are immediately threatened. The need is critical—opportunity to place these areas in public ownership is fading each year as other uses encroach."

Basically, the commission said, there is plenty of land and water acreage for recreation, but most of it "is where the people are not."

Rockefeller told a news briefing that it was on purpose that "we haven't come up with either acres or dollars." The commission's idea, he said, was to discuss the principles and tools and leave it to others to determine how they can be used best.

Sure of Bills

No plans have been developed, he told a questioner, for following through on the report in the legislative field. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., a commission member, said he was sure bills would be introduced to carry out many of the recommendations.

By direction of Congress, the commission has been spending three years and $2.5 million peering into the problem of outdoor fun as it will develop over 40 years—up to the year 2000.

It put more than 50 recommendations on paper. Some probably will be echoed in a vast conservation program, stressing recreation which Kennedy is expected to put before Congress in a special message Feb. 21.

Rocky's Budget Message in Brief

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Here are highlights of Gov. Rockefeller's budget message to the legislature:

In this, my fourth budget message. . .it is gratifying to be able to present a financial plan which carries forward and sound fiscal and management policies established during the last three years. . .it provides the fourth consecutive year of pay-as-you-go state financing in New York State.

We are holding the line on taxes. No new or increased levies are recommended.

We expect 1962 to be a good year. . .average weekly wages of manufacturing production workers are expected to rise to $95 and we expect 150,000 or more new jobs for a total of at least 7,450,000 (m) employed in this state.

Personal income tax revenue is estimated at $1,035,000,000 (b) in 1962-63, an increase of $45 million over 1961-62.

It is a source of great personal satisfaction to me that our state is in firm, financial condition to meet its responsibilities and that our children will not have to pay our debts.

Portugal Gets Stiff U.N. Rebuke for Angola Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly slapped Portugal again Tuesday night with landslide approval of an Asian-African demand for an end to repression in Angola and an immediate start toward independence for that West African colony.

The assembly approved the resolution by a 99-2 vote with one abstention. The stinging rebuke to Portugal aroused speculation if dictator Antonio Salazar would out his threat to quit the world body Portugal joined six years ago.

Only Spain and South Africa voted against the Asian-African resolution, which was approved after more than two weeks of debate marked by heated denunciations of Portugal's policies. France was the sole abstainer.

The only consolation for Portugal was the defeat of a much tougher Communist proposal to condemn Salazar's colonial policy and call on the Security Council for punitive action. This resolution was defeated 26-43 with 32 abstentions.

The Security Council scheduled debate Thursday afternoon on the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. The council may agree to hear a speech by Sir Zafrulla Khan, Pakistan's chief delegate, but it then is expected to adjourn the debate until after the Indian elections in February so India's usual spokesman, Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, can be present.

Spending for Education Will Run Over $1.1 Billion, Message Says

Governor Close on $135,000 Surplus, No New or Increased Levies Proposed

BANKER ARRESTED — August J. Lippi, a director and former president of the First National Bank of Exeter, Pa., leaves federal courthouse in Washington. He was arrested by FBI agents in connection with an investigation of the bank's accounts. (AP Wirephoto)

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller pointed today to sharply rising costs of education as one of the state's "most pressing problems" as he sent to the Legislature a record state budget of $2.6 billion. More than half of a $231-million increase will go to schools.

A rising tide of enrollments from kindergarten through the State University is exerting the greatest single pressure on state spending and will continue to do so indefinitely, the budget showed. Spending for education was set at more than $1.1 billion, nearly 43 per cent of the total for the new year.

Rockefeller budgeted a razor-thin surplus of $135,000 for the fiscal year beginning April 1.

Thus, the lawmakers will either have to cut the budget in some areas or raise taxes if they contemplate spending other than the amount the governor proposed.

Rockefeller up for re-election this year, served notice that, as far as he was concerned, "we are holding the line on taxes."

"No new or increased levies are recommended," he declared.

At the same time, the governor made no mention of tax relief, as was granted last year.

Many Skip Session

The 740-page budget, an inch-and-a-half thick, was sent by messenger to a Legislature shy of many of its members.

Clerks in the Senate and Assembly were designated to read condensed versions of the Rockefeller budget message. Rockefeller did not plan to appear in person and many lawmakers decided to skip the session today.

The budget provides for a razor-thin surplus of $135,000 in the fiscal year beginning April 1, which includes a state election in which Rockefeller will run for a new, four-year term.

"We are holding the line on taxes," Rockefeller declared in his budget message. "No new or increased levies are recommended." Neither did he mention tax relief, such as the 10 per cent rebate on personal income tax granted last year.

No Major Spending Programs

The budget contained no major new spending programs. Most of the increases proposed are slated for established programs enacted in previous years—state aid to schools, expansion of the State University, highway-building.

Rockefeller employed some fiscal gymnastics in keeping his spending program out of the red.

A potential gap of $90 million to be realized by advancing payment dates of corporation and bank-tax installments, $41 million in partial repayment of a state loan to the Thruway Authority and $9 million from advancing payment dates of cigarette taxes.

Big Gamble Involved

The budget involves a Rockefeller gamble that a booming economy will produce enough additional revenues by 1963 to overcome any future lags between income and spending.

Otherwise, new taxes would be necessary to close any gaps, in the absence of such one-time income as the Thruway repayment.

The governor estimated total income at $2,591,000,000, of which $2,550,000,000 will come from taxes and the $41 million from the Thruway loan.

While actual appropriations will exceed that amount, the full amount of the money appropriated will not be spent by the end of the fiscal year March 31, 1963.

As a result, actual spending now is expected to conform to income at $2,591,000,000.

However, additional spending ordinarily is authorized by the Legislature after it passes the main budget.

More for Education

The governor's budget provides an appropriation of $1,113,000,000 for education, an increase of $139 million over spending this year.

Public welfare, highways, highway-safety, health and mental health appropriations will require a total of more than $1 billion.

The state will raise the money to finance the budget through income-tax collections estimated at $1,035,000,000, business taxes of $542 million and a wide range of levies on sources ranging from horse races to inheritances.

Major Spending Listed

These and major spending increases proposed by the governor:

Chichester Area Has Six Below, -23 in Boonville

A comparatively mild January gave New York State a real cold shoulder today as temperatures plummeted to as low as 23 below zero in one section.

The icy cold air mass from Canada was felt in the Kingston Area and more of the same is on tap for tonight and early Thursday.

Kingston's official low for the night, according to the city engineer's office, was five above zero at 7:30 a. m. Elsewhere, it was colder, reports indicated.

Willow Records -5

Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro reported the mercury dipped to six below in his Chichester area. Willow recorded five below and Hurley posted minus four. It was two below in Bearsville, just zero at the Kingston Water Supply station at Lake Hill.

Police headquarters in the villages of Ellenville and Saugerties recorded zero readings and the state police sub-station at Leeds, Greene County, had a similar bone-chilling reading.

From West Shokan came reports of two above and four above zero. It was four above in downtown Kingston while the uptown section of the city had six above.

Twenty or more below zero was common early today in the Adiron-

Shorter Week Is Plan for Police, 658 Force Boost

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller proposed today a shorter work week for a State Police force he wants to be bigger, more comfortable and equipped to draw revolvers faster.

The governor's budget message to the Legislature recommended that the State Police work week be cut from 60 hours to 40 and requested an appropriation of $21,229,087 for the 1962-63 fiscal year. This is $4.1 million more than the current year.

Rockefeller asked that the personnel be increased by 658, including 50 civilians, to 2,528; that the pay be boosted 5 per cent and that light-weight summer uniforms be provided.

For Quicker Draw

New equipment proposed for the state troopers includes shorter holsters that would permit quicker draw of newly issued revolvers with 4-inch barrels. The old issue has 6-inch barrels.

Reorganization of the state police, begun a year ago, "has resulted in a modern, hard-hitting organization which is in a better position to cope with problems of highway safety and crime," the governor said.

Needed on Highways

The governor said that, to make more effective use of manpower, 30 uniformed men had been shifted to field police duty and been replaced at desks by civilian employes.

But, he said, an increase in highway mileage and traffic, the assignment of more two-man patrols, and the continued stress on highway safety had created a need for more police personnel.

Workers Approve Plans for Union

The National Labor Relations Board conducted a certification election at the Century Cement Manufacturing Co. Inc. plants at Rosendale and Tillson Tuesday when 36 votes were polled for the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers AFL-CIO.

Earl Benjamin, international representative of the UCLGW, said votes were cast for the Operating Engineers Local 825 A. B. and C., and 12 votes for no union. Two votes were challenged, Benjamin said.

The union representative said the Cement Workers Union will hold a meeting of the workers and elect officers and prepare a contract to be negotiated with the company.

Area Democratic Women Schedule Winter Meeting

"Democrats — County and Town — Their Mutual Responsibilities" will be the subject discussed at the winter meeting of the Ulster County Democratic Women's Division at Democratic Headquarters, Main Street, Rosendale, 8 p. m. on Wednesday, Feb. 7.

B. Sears Hunter, chairman of the Orange County Democratic Committee, will discuss the importance to the success of the Democratic Party of active and efficient organization of each unit of the party, election district, city, town, and county.

Hunter's talk will be followed by a panel discussion of how the county and town organizations can help each other. Discussion from the floor will be an important part of the program.

Hunter is especially well qualified to discuss organization in the Democratic Party and the mutual responsibilities of each unit. He has served as a committeeman in his native Town of Blooming Grove, and from 1954-59 was chairman of the town committee. He has been treasurer of the Orange County Democratic Committee, state committeeman from the first Assembly District, and since early 1961 chairman of the county committee. In 1957 he was the Democratic candidate for district attorney.

Admitted to the Bar in N. Y. State in 1939, he has law offices in Newburgh. He is married and has five children and lives on the farm in Blooming Grove which has been in his family for over 150 years.

At the close of the meeting refreshments will be served by members of the executive committee.

All Democratic women of the County, whether members of the Women's Division or not, are invited to attend this meeting. Men may also attend as guests. "The program planned is expected to be of great help to the success of Democratic work in the important election ahead,' said Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr, president of the Women's Division.

Buffalo Fire Damages Stores, Bowling Alley

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A fire caused extensive damage to seven stores and a bowling alley Tuesday night in a business block on the city's West side.

No one was reported injured.

Firemen battled the flames in four-degree temperatures.

The fire was belie ed to have started in a second-floor bowling alley, firemen said. The block on Grant Street also housed a dry cleaning establishment, a food market, a shoe store, a fruit store, a coin laundry, an auto store and a vacant shop.

The estimate of damage was not immediately determined.

New Yorkers In Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y., says there's nothing like a telephone call from a constituent to whittle a man down to size.

O'Brien said he once got a call from an Albany resident who complained that his furnace had broken down and he had no place to turn. Would the congressman please do something?

The Albany Democrat said he asked the constituent whether the latter had reported the trouble to a city inspector.

"I didn't want to go that high," the constituent replied.

Halfway Club

O'Brien, incidentally, is in the forefront of a move to form a "3½ club" in Congress. It would be made up of former newspaper, radio and television newsmen who are or were congressmen. More than 150 would be eligible.

"It's halfway between the third and the fourth estate," O'Brien quipped. He noted that President Kennedy would be eligible for membership.

O'Brien and Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., a former Chicago newspaperman, hope to organize the club this year and hold their first annual dinner next year, if they are returned to Congress.

The plan calls for the congressmen to stage skits during their dinner, O'Brien said, to mock their leaders and newspapermen. The parts would be interchangeable just in case a club member had the misfortune to receive his involuntary retirement in the next election.

"If you're looking for ham actors, what better place to go," O'Brien said of Congress. "In fact we'll need very little makeup." About 55 present members of Congress would be eligible for club membership, O'Brien said.

In addition to O'Brien, a former newspaperman in Albany, other New Yorkers who would be eligible for membership are Reps. Samuel S. Stratton, Democrat, and Edwin B. Dooley and Seymour Halpern, both Republicans.

$17.45 for Rocky Fund

Gov. Rockefeller of New York already has a pledge of support—complete with $17.45 as a campaign contribution—if he wants to seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Donald H. Dalton, a Washington lawyer and chairman of the Draft Rockefeller for President Club in the Washington aea during 1960, said he's ready to "rally around the flag again" to work for Rockefeller's election in 1964.

He wrote the New York governor to advise him that the group had $17.45 in its bank account after the 1960 political fireworks died.

The House Government Operations Committee says federal property in New York is worth $1,843,662,000, mofe than in any other state except Alaska, California, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Washington state.

The 222,852 acres and 10,818 federal buildings are divided among 744 federal installations, the committee said.

Hurley Men Plan 2nd Lincoln Day Dinner Feb. 10

The second annual Lincoln Day dinner sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood of Hurley Reformed Church will be held Saturday night, Feb. 10, in the church hall starting at 7 o'clock.

A turkey dinner will be served by members of the Ladies Guild.

Guest speaker will be Raymond Pitcairn of Glenford and Philadelphia, Pa. Pitcairn is a student of Lincoln and the Civil War era and is highly recommended as a speaker.

Tickets are now on sale for the event and may be obtained from any member of the Hurley Men's Brotherhood or at the door on Feb. 10, Jack Gill, ticket chairman, reports.

Members arranging the annual program include Donald Weed, general chairman; Jack Gill, tickets; Jack Lupton, dinner and William T. Wood, publicity.

The Hurley Reformed Church Men's Brotherhood was recently organized under the charter of the Men's Brotherhood of the Reformed Church in America. Edmund Bower, local president, reports that in addition to the Lincoln dinner, the organization has many other activities planned for the year, including a pancake supper, participation in Stone House Day in Hurley and a chicken barbecue scheduled late in the summer.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 31, 1962

BEHIND THE STATISTICS

Diseases of the heart and circulation comprise the greatest health problem of the United States. The weight of evidence to support this conclusion is too great to be disputed.

The statistics toll like some grim tocsin: About 10 million persons in the United States, including half a million children, suffer from heart and circulatory disease; such diseases are the cause of more than half of all deaths in the nation; among Americans in the productive age group of 45 to 64, half of all deaths result from diseases of the heart and blood vessels; these diseases cost industry more than a billion dollars annually in lost man-hours of production.

There are encouraging facts about heart disease, too. Though the exact causes of the principal heart and circulatory disorders have not yet been discovered, steady progress is being made through research. High blood pressure is no longer uncontrollable. Ways of preventing rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease have been evolved. Effective treatment of stroke is now possible in many cases; most victims of heart attack now recover, even to the extent of returning to work.

Two vital points emerge from the statistical picture. The first is that this is not essentially a matter of statistics at all—that individual human beings, individual human suffering, are involved. The second point is that every American has it within his power to help shift the balance from the grim figures of disability and death to the side of progress toward better treatment and cure. The Heart Fund campaign during February richly deserves the support of all of us.

Stan Musial thinks this will be his last year as a ballplayer but says he still loves baseball. At $70,000 a year, we can see why.

Back in the mid-1930s, it was fashionable for population experts to say the United States was a mature nation whose numbers were gradually leveling off.

If any of those forecasters are still around, they must be pretty chastened fellows.

The Census Bureau has just revised its predictions again, saying we are growing faster than was thought and may add another 30 million people by 1970, for a total near 215 million.

The boy's don't have time for reflections about "national maturity" and the like any more. They're too busy revising last year's forecasts.

The good old days were no warmer, but at least we weren't told every half hour how cold it was.

It is estimated that 4,300,000 cars will be junked during the year. Reckless drivers will account for a lot of them.

PORTUGAL'S WEAKNESS

An exaggerated idea of his own strength has got many a man into trouble. The same goes for nations. So it is with Portugal. Her weaknesses have been recently exposed by the revolt of her African possession of Angola, and in her inability to protect her centuries-long outpost Goa, against conquest by India. Premier Salazar, the Portuguese dictator, was obviously unprepared for either happening.

Now he is facing discontent at home. His policy of inaction and indifference to social betterment has proved inadequate. Signs of unrest were manifested back in 1959, when the spectacular piratical seizure of the vessel Santa Maria told the world that many Portuguese wanted a change of government.

Now Portugal's colonial administration is coming up before the United Nations. Salazar, resenting this bitterly, threatens to leave the U. N. and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. That would only make matters worse for him. England, Portugal's ally for seven centuries, shrinks from defending the Portuguese record.

Salazar might as well realize that his is a small country, and one not presently in very good repute in the family of nations. He should pull in his horns and concentrate on improving conditions at home.

'These Days'

HIS NAME IS UNCLE SAM

One of the truly great editorials of all time appeared in the "New York Sun" in reply to a child, Virginia, who wanted to know whether there is a Santa Klaus. The truth of the matter, of course, is that there is a Santa Klaus, but he dwells only in the heart of the generous. He has no form, no style, no nationality, no particular religion. He is the embodiment of love.

Now along comes Robert G. Smith who wants to know if there is an Uncle Sam. He writes to ask:

"My name is not Virginia and I'm considerably more than nine years old but I, too, have a momentous question regarding a well-known character:

"Is there an Uncle Sam?

"You know who I mean — the tall, rugged, white-haired figure in red-and-white-striped trousers, blue coat and star-spangled hat — traditional symbol of the American Way of Life.

"Is he still around? Or is he hiding out in the Green Mountains of Vermont? Or some other place like that?

"Some say Uncle Sam is a back number. They say Uncle Sugar Daddy is now top man in Washington — doling out his assorted 'goodies' to his many nephews and nieces, his country cousins and foreign relations.

"They say patriotism is strictly for the birds — the vanishing Bald Eagle that is. . . .

"I suppose it's the old-fashioned Connecticut Yankee in me, or maybe my four years in the Navy during World War II, but I'm kinda hard to convince.

"Disturbed by the obvious lack of any national book of patriotic inspiration, and remembering that where there is no vision the people perish, I compiled ONE NATION UNDER GOD as 'An Anthology for Americans,' with the earnest hope and prayer it would be hailed with gladness as just what the country needs for times like these. . . ."

Of course, there is an Uncle Sam. He is a simple fellow who has built a great country with his own hands. His ancestors crossed an ocean to find an alien shore here. Everybody who ever came here had to cross a frightening ocean.

In the old days, Uncle Sam's ancestors found Indians and forests and wild beasts; today, those who come find large cities, with good roads to connect them, with railroads and airplanes. In the old days, each man built his home and his schoolhouse and his church by his own sinews and sweat; today he moves into a house of the most modern devices.

In the old days, Uncle Sam had to find a place for himself, where he could farm for food and clothing, where his wife could cook and spin and sew; today, his wife finds what she requires in a supermarket, while he earns a wage and builds a family.

In the old days, Uncle Sam crossed mountains and rivers and valleys, carrying his goods and folks with geat hardship until he found a place for himself, risking limb and life to conquer a continent and make it a glorious granary; today, he finds ample facilities to take him from place to place and wherever he goes there are mines and mills and factories and stores to provide work, and wherever he goes there are schools and colleges and technological institutes for those who require such facilities and have the ambition to use them.

And there are churches, too. There are prayer houses for all varieties of religion, each man either following freely in the ways of his ancestors, or choosing his own way, or none at all. Freedom of choice is the doctrine that guides our people and those who would limit freedom are regarded as hateful creatures, not true descendants of Uncle Sam.

Is there an Uncle Sam?

More than 50 races of man have found a free life here, freedom of opportunity, freedom of choice, freedom of movement, freedom to work, freedom to read and write and speak. And to give glory to it all, for each there is freedom to worship God, each man as he chooses, whether Jew, or Christian, or Moslem, or whatever.

Is there an Uncle Sam?

How can one doubt it?

Yes, Uncle Sam is in the hearts of those who believe that freedom and equality are qualities which come to us from God and will survive all the errors of stupid and selfish men and women.

'Athletic Heart' Is Tops On List of Medical Myths

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I would like once again to draw your attention to that hardy medical myth, "the athletic heart." Like all fairy tales, it continues to be told and retold from generation to generation.

Without seeking any further explanation, the "athletic heart" is blamed for any and every attack that occurs to a participant in a sports contest of any sort. And to any and every attack that occurs to an athlete without regard to what he may have been doing at the time of his difficulty.

What should be, but won't be, the last nail in the coffin of this medical myth has been furnished by Drs. Curren and White of the Massachusetts General Hospital. With the cooperation of Mrs. Clarence DeMar, these famous cardiologists examined the heart of Mr. DeMar, who was popularly known in the world of amateur athletics as "Mr. Marathon."

During the course of his life, DeMar, who had been told in his youth that he had a "weak heart," participated in 1,000 long distance races, including 100 marathons of 25 miles or more more.

The first of DeMar's long distance runs of record took place in 1909 when he was 21. In that race, a cross-country event, he finished fourth and was awarded his letter a the University of Vermont where he ran as an undergraduate. The last of his races was a 15 kilometer "marathon" (about 10 miles) that he ran at the age of 69 at Bath, Me. And, in the intervening 48 years, he ran 34 marathons and, in seven of them, was winner.

In the last of these marathons, that he ran at the age of 66, he finished 78th in a field of 133 qualified runners.

Nor is that all. In addition to working as farm manager, proofreader and teacher, he ran two evenings a week, took a degree in fine arts at Harvard in 1915 and his master's degree in education at Boston University in 1932.

And, in 1912, he represented us in the Olympic games but failed to finish due, in his opinion, to a vegeterian diet that was inflicted on him by the trainers and officials of the team.

Yet withal, including an operation for an intestinal cancer some two years before his death, his heart and its coronary vessels revealed no changes other than those that might have been found if he'd lived his 69 years commuting between bedroom and dining room. "Athletic heart" indeed!

"You, Too?"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the face of all the gloomy predictions that President Kennedy won't get this or that item of his program approved by Congress, it is well to remember how long it takes to get any new idea written into law.

The old rule of thumb has been that, "It takes a generation to get a reform through Congress."

IT TOOK 50 YEARS to get permanent income tax legislation. First approved as a temporary, emergency measure in the Civil War, an income tax law was reenacted in 1894, only to be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Only by ratification of the 16th amendment in 1913 was Congress given authority to lay and collect taxes on income, "from whatever source derived."

Women's suffrage, advocated in 1850, did not become law in America until the 19th amendment to the Constitution was ratified in 1920—70 years later.

MANY OF THE OTHER reform movements of Woodrow Wilson's "new freedoms" era lay dormant from 1921 to 1933 in what Dr. George Galloway, author of the new "History of the House of Representatives" calls "the age of acquisition and enjoment," the great period of prohibition.

But the country was left in the depths of a depression when the New Deal came along. That made passage of Franklin D. Roosevelt's reform programs a simple, hurry-up matter in the first 100 days of his administration.

Since that time the legislative wheels have ground a little faster. But in took from 1940 to 1946 to get the LaFollette-Monroney program adopted for reorganization of Congress

The Atomic Energy Act and the Full Employment Act were also passed in 1946 to meet needs arising from the war. And the next year saw passage of the Marshall Plan, Truman Doctrine and reorganization of the United States armed services into a single Department of Defense.

Creation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1958 is another example of Congress acting rapidly to meet some new situation. But under normal peacetime conditions there is no such urgency.

DOMESTIC CRISES THAT NECESSITATE immediate passage of President Kennedy's new programs, outlined in his messages to the new Congress, are not so apparent.

The high priority items on this list include:

An increase in postage rates to make the Post Office Department pay its own way. Authority to reduce income tax rates temporarily as an offset to recession. Complete reorganization of Department of Agriculture price support, conservation and land use laws to bring supply and demand in better balance. A new foreign trade plan with authority to negotiate tariff cuts across the board instead of on an item-by-item basis.

But none of those things are really new.

Postage rate increases offer the simplest case in point. Ever since the war and probably before, both Republican and Democratic presidents have recommended that the postal deficit be eliminated.

Until the recent House vote which sent a revenue bill worth about $700 million to the Senate, Congress refused to buy any attempted solution to the postal deficit.

A FLEXIBLE TAX RATE SYSTEM has been proposed for years—among others, by Dr. Galloway in a 1941 book, "Planning for America." That the farm programs have been in need of overhaul has been obvious since the end of the Korean war, while surpluses have piled up to the $9 billion level.

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements legislation has been fought over when it has come up for renewal every third year since original passage in 1934.

Creation of an International Trade Organization was first proposed along with the United Nations Charter in 1945, and again by President Truman in 1948. Congress would have none of it either time.

But now, faced by the challenge of the European Common Market, the idea of greater international trade co-operation comes up for another round.

Time may have helped make all these ideas more acceptable.

Reds Seen Playing Down Cold War for Time Being

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe it's time to look at the Berlin "crisis" in a different perspective than "sudden war." For there are signs that Nikita Khrushchev has decided to put the problem on ice indefinitely.

This means there will be no acute stage for the present, and yet no settlement of any of the basic issues either. The controversy may go on for years just as it is. While there is no agreement to disagree, the effect is just the same as if both sides had decided to let sleeping dogs lie.

Such a formula seems to have been adopted in many places around the world by the Soviet Union. It doesn't mean that the Communists have retreated from their demands or objectives or that they cannot be expected to resume at any moment their crisis-making tactics. But it does indicate that the last thing the Kremlin wants is a show of force that will provoke the use of force.

Besides, the Soviets have plenty of places in which to continue their harassments in the cold war. They have put on ice some issues that can be taken out at any minute and warmed up, and they have others that are being cooked up.

Quiet on Quemoy

A survey of the world scene indicates that the Communists have allowed the Quemoy-Matsu situation in the Far East to freeze, but it can be heated up at any moment that it seems opportune for the Communists to start another crisis.

In Geneva, after hundreds of sessions, the conference on the subject of a nuclear-test ban has for the time being adjourned, but there is no certainty it will not be resumed whenever the spirit moves the Moscow government or some propaganda advantage to the Communists appears in the offing.

Most people may have forgotten that a "negotiation" over the return of American prisoners by the Peiping government, which has involved hundreds of meetings at Warsaw between Chinese and United States ambassadors, has been on ice for several years now.

Unsettling West

Then there are the protracted talks between the representatives of the UN and the Communists in Korea. The armistice agreement of 1953 has never been followed up by a treaty of peace. A state of war exists, but no fighting.

The palaver about Laos looks like a marathon affair, too. The Viet Nam area may be the scene of some guerilla operations which are probably a part of the strategy of keeping the whole question unsettled and a source of anxiety to the West.

The Communists never enter into these stalemates without having achieved a strong military position from which they can resume their offensive. In East Berlin, for example, by building their wall they have succeeded in stopping the exodus of East German citizens and they also have struck a body blow at West Berlin's economic situation. Naturally, the Communists would like to see this form of torture continued indefinitely. It tends to accentuate differences between East and West Germany and to postpone any idea of reunification. This is, of course, a basic aim of the Communists.

Wants No Crises

So there's no special advantage to the Russians in bringing the Berlin situation to an acute stage when most of their objectives are being attained by indirection. Whether the West should or shouldn't have permitted the wall to be built or now should demand that it be torn down will be debated academically. But the truth is the West is in no mood, either, to create any more crises than it has on its hands already.

As for the Communists, they have plenty of troubled waters into which they can cast their bait. They are more or less entangled in the Algiers problem and also in various parts of Africa, though at the moment they are not doing so well in the Congo. Their stooge, Lumumba, was killed, and Gizenga, his successor, seems to have lost ground. The African nations themselves are getting a bit suspicious of Russian maneuvers and are becoming a bit more interested in an African counterpart of the "Alliance for Progress."

For the time being, Premier Khrushchev has taken the heat off Finland, as he believes he has gotten what he wanted in the Presidential election in that country. There remains the whole Latin-American problem which Moscow is watching carefully. It worries Castro somewhat that the Communist government isn't aiding him openly and fighting harder for him in the Latin-American area generally, but he, too, will find that Moscow operates slowly as well as selfishly.

Meanwhile, the West isn't altogether dormant. The United States has been articulate at the inter-American meeting at Punta del Este and may someday mobilize Latin-American countries under an anti-Communist banner. All this takes time and patience.

So, on the whole, the world is for the moment devoid of a war crisis and probably will keep on drifting this way without an acute stage being reached for many years, if at all. For the Russians also have domestic problems and no country anywhere seems to have become imbued with any desire to commit suicide in a nuclear war.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I see more and more frequent mention of the modern Ku Klux Klan of the early 1920's as a force which terrorized many of our people, possibly a majority. This is an exaggeration. The Klan apparently arose in Georgia soon after the First War.

H. L. Mencken, then on the rise in Baltimore and New York, was the best vituperationist of the campaign which, on his part, was objective, remote and safe. If any normal mission had required him to go to Columbus, Ga., for instance, he would have gone there as joyously as he went to Boston Common to autograph some publication of his which had offended the statutory verbotens imposed by Irish and the Puritan Protestants of the time. But he was not a leg-man and he absorbed his understanding of the Klan through his pores, but with fair accuracy at that.

By his wit and impudence he became the most influential national force against the KKK except the New York World. But other papers of local scope showed bravery and force and were single-handed heroes of a good fight. Herbert Bayard Swope, then editor of the World, sent good, city-side reporters into the South on initiative missions against the Klan. The Memphis Commercial-Appeal waged war which was personally dangerous to individuals and got a corporate nosegay from the Pulitzer people. M. E. Foster, of the Houston Press, patrolled a lurid skyline against bigots who were no less dangerous because they were secretive. And so did little Sidney Whipple, of the Scripps-Howard outfit who was shipped out to run the Denver Express and revelled in trouble. The press as a whole and many individual corporations, editors and reporters took chances on economic and personal reprisal and came through very decently. I do not recall that anyone was lynched or tarred and feathered but anyone might have been.

The Houston Klux were especially ornery, being tough Texans of the braggart tradition which has since brought embarrassment to the superior population of a superior American state. But Meefo, as they called Mr. Foster there, lived up to the frontier ethics. Like Whipple, he came through to face down the enemy in broad day.

The Klux were identified with the Anti-Saloon League and Bishop James Cannon's Methodist political force. They had the common cause of Prohibition. Many Protestant ministers gave aid and comfort to the Klan and obviously some of their religious adherents agreed with them. It was basically a white Protestant movement. Catholics were ineligible as being adherents of an alien potentate, the Pope of Rome. Catholics in the South never went in fear of the Klan but I have read lately where others take heroism to themselves because they did not hide under the bed.

I find pleasure in my recollection of the conduct of Mike Mctigue and Joe Jacobs, both of New York when they went to Columbus, Ga., to lay their title of light-heavyweight champion on the line against Willie Stribling, a handsome local boy about 19 then and a good fighter. They took down their own referee, Harry Ertle, of Jersey City. The night before the fight a Committee of the Klux warned Ertle that they wanted very, very fair play. They took Jacobs to a window and pointed to two trees, one a slim, willowy thing, the other rather substantial and invited Joe and Mike to take their pick—now, in case of need next day. Joe generously chose the little tree because Mike was 40 pounds heavier. Mike said he wouldn't be needing no tree.

The fight went to a decision and there has always been confusion about Mr. Ertle's verdict. The locals said he gave it to Stribling but paused at the ropes on the way out and raised Mike's hand. Commotion ensued and the Northern boys hit the highway in the blackness hauling on their clothing at high speed. When they had crossed some state line, Joe telegraphed the New York sports editors that Mike had won the decision. A return match ensued in Newark and McTigue tied up Stribling for eight rounds and left no doubt. He was one of the greatest boxers of all time but no hitter.

Jacobs audacity reached a proud climax when he mocked a crowd of Nazis in Hamburg as manager of Max Schmeling. When the band performed the Nazis' anthem, the Horst Wessel song, the crowd stood at attention all except Jacobs, the New York Jew.

His picture is still in the files. He wore a chair-leg cigar in his face and a beret with a red pompom like a beefsteak tomato.

U. S. Catastrophes In 1961 Accounted For 1,250 Deaths

NEW YORK—Catastrophes (accidents which kill five or more persons) were responsible for abopt 1,250 deaths in the continental United States, during 1961, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians report. The toll was about 250 less than in 1960.

The principal factor in the decrease, the statisticians said, was the smaller number of fatal injuries in major catastrophes accidents in which at least 25 persons are killed.

About 260 lives were lost last year in major catastrophes, whereas approximately 450 lives were taken in comparable accidents during 1960.

Of the five major catastrophes in 1961, three involved civil aviation. One of them—the worst of the year—killed 78 persons when a scheduled plane plunged into a field near Chicago on September 1. Another claimed 77 lives on November 8 when a chartered aircraft crashed near Richmond, Va. In the third aviation catastrope a scheduled plane crashed in Chicago on September 17, taking 37 lives.

The remaining two major catastrophes of the year were natural disasters. Hurricane Carla caused nearly 50 deaths in the Southwest and Midwest in September, and floods which struck the Midwest last May claimed 25 lives.

Thirty per cent of the deaths in accidents taking five or more lives last year resulted from motor vehicle accidents, the statisticians said. Fires and explosions—many of them in the home — ranked second with about one-fourth of the catastrophe death toll. And civil aviation was responsible for one-fifth of the fatal injuries sustained in catastrophes in 1961.

Civil aviation catastrophes and those involving motor vehicles, and fires and explosions were responsible for an appreciably smaller death toll in 1961 than in 1960. Natural catastrophes contributed a considerably greater number of fatalities than in the year before.

Today's Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) —This is steel's time in the spotlight. Steelmen are happy over the climbing production and the better earnings now being reported. But many are a bit fidgety about the amount of public attention their industry is getting.

It's nice to be a basic industry—some even call it THE basic industry—and know you're that important. It's a bit troubling to be made the example of what should be done and can be done about the wage-price spiral and even the trend of the economy in general.

Labor Cautioned

Many are casting steel in that role this year. The main reason is that the Kennedy administration puts prime significance on the terms which steel workers and management will negotiate in the upcoming wage talks—and on how soon the talks can be concluded.

Washington wants no rise in steel prices and cautions labor against demands that might cause such a rise.

Other reasons are that climbing steel production now can be interpreted two ways. It means that the economy is starting a healthy growth trend from the level set when the recovery wiped out the last recession.

If the increased production is largely due to stockpiling against the chance of a strike, the overproduction now, followed by underproduction while buyers live off their inventories later, could upset the general economy.

Orders in Good Volume

Some steel mills say their customers aren't building up stocks as much as was expected. Most mills say orders are still coming in very good volume.

The orders are high enough to assure most major steel users all they'll need for the first half of the year at least, according to the metalworking weekly, The Iron Age.

It adds that steel capacity seems adequate to take care of any more orders likely from those wishing to make sure of a supply during the summer. The steel wage contracts expire June 30, so that any work stoppage would come after that.

Whatever the reasons for the upsurge in orders and in production, the figures themselves gladden the hearts of the steel mill managers.

In the last nine weeks steel output has advanced steadily, with the single exception of Christmas week when holidays were in order.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the beginning of broadcasting, speech purists have been mourning the constant attrition of our language from the mouths of the performers.

All of us have noted the extemporaneous speech of the jolly masters of ceremonies whose occupational problem seems to be "I-me" confusion ("It's so nice of you to visit the show and I").

One newspaper changes the title of the ABC show, "Who Do You Trust?" to "Whom do you Trust" when it turns up in its news columns—as opposed to its program listings.

Even though it's a vintage sales pitch, many sensitive viewers still flinch when a smoke is alleged to taste "like a cigarette should."

Tony Randall, actor and lover of the English language, is among those disturbed about the trend.

"Time was when actors considered it part of their jobs to preserve good speech," said Randall sadly.

"Today," he continued sternly, "the man who is considered a good actor is likely to speak worse than the average man—and mumble, in addition."

Randall, who speaks out and enunciates clearly, will be visible and making pear-shaped sounds next Monday night in NBC's 90-minute special, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

"I play the nephew," he said. "You remember, the only sane member of the family."

Jack Paar's guest next Monday night will be former vice president Richard M. Nixon—a return. Presumably, other candidates in the California gubernatorial race will thus become eligible for equal time.

Herbert Brodkin, producer of CBS' consistently interesting series, "The Denfeders" is broadening his executive base: a series of hour-long thrillers called "Espionage" to be made in England and partly financed by NBC.

Jack Benny's daughter, Joan, will turn up in a sketch on her father's show Sunday—a belated return. She was on the show once before, in 1954.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EST)—Lena Horne, guest star.

From the looks of these nifty top-of-the-line Novas (unmistakably new), you'd never guess they're so easy to own. Even some bigger cars wonder how we got so much full-size family room into such a parkable, garageable package—and so much hustle out of a 6 that sips gas so sparingly. Your dealer will be happy to point out more reasons why liveliness, luxury and a low price have never been more beautifully blended. Driving this one comes mighty close to having your cake and eating it, too.

February Term of County Court Will Open Monday

The February term of Ulster County court will open Monday, Feb. 5, at 2 p. m. at which time County Judge Raymond J. Mino will call the civil calendar followed by the call of the criminal calendar.

Trial jurors summoned to serve at the February term will report at 11 a. m. at which time excuses will be heard.

The February term of County Court will be in two parts, County Judge Raymond J. Mino holding the Part 1 sessions and Surrogate Judge Francis X. Tucker holding Part 2 where cases in which Judge Mino is disqualified will be disposed of. County Judge Mino, a prior district attorney, cannot sit in cases in which he participated while serving as the county's prosecuting officer.

There are three criminal matters on Judge Tucker's calendar and 85 criminal cases on the calendar of County Judge Mino.

The three cases on Judge Tucker's calendar are:

The People vs. William F. Smith and Dominick DeMicco, conspiracy and first degree grand larceny charges, and The People vs. Patrick A. Nezich, reckless driving.

Included on the criminal calendar for February is the second degree manslaughter charge against Mrs. Peggy Jean Battles, 22-year-old Marlboro mother of four, who is indicted for the death of her nine-week-old son who allegedly died from malnutrition.

The infant boy was taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, last October and was pronounced dead on arrival. Mrs. Battles told State Police she found the boy cold in his bed and took him to the hospital from her home on Van Vliet Road, Marlboro.

Dutchess County Medical Examiner Chester Golding said death was due to malnutrition and dehydration. Two of defendant's other children resided with her and another with her mother.

On the civil calendar which will be called on the opening day by Judge Mino are 11 cases which were carried over from the day calendar at the last term of court.

Protests New Party

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)-South Viet Nam's anti-Communist government has protested to the three-nation control commission against the recent formation by Communist North Viet Nam of a "Marxist-Leninist" party in South Viet Nam.

The new party is known as the Viet Nam People's Revolutionary party. Communist announcements indicate they plan to use the new party as the nucleus of a "neutralist" rebel government on South Viet Nam territory.

OAS Votes

The consensus at this hemispheric foreign ministers' conference was that the six nations had given the Kennedy administration's Latin-American policy a severe blow. The six contended that there presently exists no legal basis for expulsion of an OAS member and wanted to delay until such a legal basis could be created by amendment of the OAS treaty.

Blow Is Softened

The blow was softened somewhat when the United States' Latin-American allies solidly adopted a ringing declaration that Cuba's Marxist-Leninist government is incompatible with the inter-American system and Cuba's alignment with the Soviet bloc breaks hemispheric unity.

The foreign ministers, with the exception of Cuba, also lined up unanimously with the United States on three other resolutions that provided:

1. The most stinging denunciation of Communist intrusion in the Western world ever adopted by any inter-American body.

2. The expulsion of Cuba from the Inter-American Defense Board. This was little more than a formality since the Castro government has been barred from the board's sensitive deliberations for the last 10 months.

Endorse JFK's Alliance

3. A ringing endorsement of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress program. The Latin Americans called the program the foundation for their nations' economic and social development on a self-help basis and the best weapon with which to combat communism and Castroite influences.

An embargo on arms trade between Cuba and the OAS members was carried 16-1, with Cuba voting no and Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Bolivia abstaining. The resolution also directs the OAS Council to study the possibility of extending the embargo to other articles, especially those considered of strategic importance.

A resolution calling for defense against international communism was approved 19-1, with Cuba voting against and Bolivia abstaining. The resolution asks the OAS "to maintain all vigilance necessary" to prevent aggression, subversion or other dangers to peace and security and directs the OAS to create a special consultation committee to aid those nations which request assistance on security problems.

The foreign ministers set formal signing of the resolutions and conference declarations at a closing session tonight.

The resolution directing Cuba's expulsion now goes to the OAS Council in Washington and various Inter-American boards and agencies for action against Cuba.

May Meet in 10 Days

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he expected the OAS Council to meet within 10 days to two weeks to begin implementing the resolution.

A spokesman for Brazil, leader of the go-slow bloc, said he believed the council by the same two-thirds vote would suspend Cuba from participation in OAS affairs until a special Inter-American conference can be held to decide a legal procedure for Cuba's expulsion.

Rusk hailed the unanimity of action on other resolutions before the conference and particularly on the condemnation of Cuban communism. But some observers felt that the failure of the 20 nations to agree on Cuba's ouster from the OAS revealed a deep rift in the hemisphere.

Debt Over $298 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The national debt has risen above $298 billion for the first time.

The Treasury said today that the debt, as of last Friday, amounted to $298,049,359,273. The temporary debt limit of $298 billion was not violated, however, because some $438 million of the debt is not subject to the ceiling.

A year ago, the debt stood at $291 billion.

President Kennedy has proposed lifting the temporary debt limit to $308 billion.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The prosecution, in a surprise move, joined with the defense today in appealing to Gov. Rockefeller to spare the life of 18-year-old Salvator Agron, under death sentence for the murder of two tence for the murder of two youths in New York City in 1959.

H. Richard Uviller, assistant district attorney of New York County, (Manhattan) told the governor:

"If we must chose in this case between life and death, we would recommend that the life of Salvatore Agron be spared with the awareness of the futility of his execution."

We The Women

It's Not Worth the Effort Trying to Appear Younger

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A woman has to do more than cover up the gray in her hair to convince others she is younger than she is. She also has to:

Avoid sitting down at a cocktail party—even if her feet are killing her.

Forego the pleasure of recalling anything that would give her age away. Things like: "That song was popular when I was a freshman in college."

Avoid such remarks as "such and such just doesn't seem worth the trouble any more."

Strive for animation even when it's an effort.

Always manage to have a current enthusiasm to talk about.

Stay away from the sidelines—and keep herself in the spotlight.

Be vague, not only about her own age, but the ages of those who obviously are her contemporaries.

Avoid, like the plague, such remarks as "at my age" or "when I was younger."

Never mention that a style is too young for her or would look silly "at my age."

Keep her slang up to date—or not use any slang.

Never admit preferring quiet evenings at home to going out every night.

Never say "at our age" to any woman who is younger than she is.

Be enthusiastic about anything new.

Never, never talk about "the good old days."

In fact, there is so much that a woman who wants to seem younger than she is has to keep in mind all the time that it hardly seems worth the trouble—especially when the pretense rarely fools anyone, anyway.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: I am a housewife with two children grade school age. I will be going back to work in an office in a little over a month from now. This is my first job since my marriage. (I live in a large city, as you see from my letter.) But I feel very out of touch with fashion as a result of being at home all these years. (I've had very little need for good clothes.) Please give me some idea of what clothes I should buy at the very start.
—Mrs. S. P.

Dear Mrs. S. P.: I took your problem to David Crystal, a designer who does clothes for young women just like you. He says:

"To start, you might decide to get a basic wardrobe which would include a three-piece costume suit with contrasting overblouse. If gray or taupe are good colors for you, have it in one of these.

"Another fashion that won't show its mileage no matter how often it's worn is a marvelously new linen dress with matching jacket that is guaranteed washable. You can wear the dress, then have a complete costume when you wear it with the jacket.

"Arnel jersey in a dress with a permanently pleated skirt would be another good choice. This will wash and drip dry; you can wear it and wear it. Such a dress with its own sweater companion would give you another complete outfit. A skirt with color-co-ordinated blouse and sweater would be another wardrobe plus for us.

"And, since fashion means a complete look, you will also need carefully chosen shoes, gloves, bags, jewelry and hats. All of this means just a beginning. Good luck!"

Dear Gaile: I still have a lot of those "Jackie Kennedy" unwaisted fashions which are perfectly good. But now that the waistline is back for spring, what do you suggest I do with them? I buy good clothes and take care of them so it seems wasteful to get rid of them and buy new things. Still, if they're out of style, perhaps I should get some new clothes. What do you think?—Mrs. J. G. B.

Dear Mrs. J. G. B.: I put this question to designer Mollie Parnis; I think you'll find her answer extremely helpful. She says:

"Fashion is a very personal thing. The best way to maintain a wardrobe is to add to it in the very same sense that you would add to any collection. This does not mean throwing out everything else you own. Some women on the yearly best-dressed list own and wear fashions they've had for anywhere from 5 to 10 years.

"It's true that the new clothes ARE closer to the body with an emphasis on the waistline. So, of course, you will want some of these new fashions. But if your old favorites are comfortable, becoming and you're fond of them, by all means, keep them and wear them, too."

Please send your fashion problems to Gaile Dugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

$580.4 Million Asked

Welfare Budget Up $41 Million in NY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The outlay by the federal, state and local governments for public welfare in New York State in the coming fiscal year will go up $41 million, Gov. Rockefeller estimated today.

The federal government will supply slightly more than half of the increase—$21 million. The remainder will come from state and local tax coffers.

The total cost of welfare in 1962-63 is estimated at $580.4 million, Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller's budget showed a slight decrease in the amount the state appropriated for welfare for the current fiscal year, compared with that proposed today for the coming year.

His budget advisers, however, explained that some of this year's appropriation was not spent and therefore was applied to the coming year, resulting in an apparent decrease.

Actually, welfare formulas require that the state and local governments share costs on a 50-50 basis and therefore local costs could not increase without state costs doing so at the same rate, the advisers said.

One of the new costs this year is the medical assistance for the aged program launched by the federal government and joined by the state last year.

The program is expected to cost $68.6 million this year and $101.6 million the next.

The governor proposed no new welfare programs in his budget.

Welfare has been especially controversial in New York State in recent months because of Newburgh's efforts to cut its welfare expenses with a 13-point program. Twelve of the points have been declared illegal.

Program Confusing

$5 Million Set For Shelters in Schools of State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller apparently expects few school districts to build fallout shelters soon, despite the major program passed at a special session of the Legislature last fall.

The budget Rockefeller sent to the Legislature today provides only $5 million for construction of shelters in the coming fiscal year. The bulk of the money is intended for construction of shelters in state buildings, not local schools, the budget division said.

The program passed at the special session authorized the expenditure of $100 million in state assistance to schools, colleges and universities that constructed fallout shelters for their pupils and teachers.

Since that time, however, the Kennedy administration has proposed a shelter program.

Rockefeller is said to believe that no New York State school districts will undertake construction of shelters until the district is sure of what aid will be provided by the federal government.

In a statewide survey of school districts earlier this month, however, The Associated Press found opposition and confusion to be the chief reactions of Upstate educators to the state shelter program.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Leading state Democrats gather here today to scan Pennsylvania's political picture as it now looks in the light of the 1962 elections.

Gov. Lawrence told his news conference Tuesday that he will join the policy makers in a meeting "to discuss the situation."

Democratic State Committee Chairman Otis B. Morse later announced that the meeting was called to "explore all aspects of the 1962 Democratic statewide election campaign." Besides Lawrence, others invited to attend included:

Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh; U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark; Lieut. Gov. John Morgan Davis; Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia and U.S. Rep. William J. Green.

Thus far, the Democrats have no publicly declared candidate for the gubernatorial campaign. And Lawrence, in keeping with his past policy, declined to discuss any possibilities.

In other news conference developments:

State Police — The governor charged that Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom was trying to make "hay" but wound up with a "dud" in charges he leveled against State Police Commissioner Frank G. McCartney.

Lawrence read a report out of Philadelphia which quoted an FBI agent as saying the bureau at no time has "ever distrusted the Pennsylvania State Police.' "

Traffic Safety—The governor reported Pennsylvania set a new low of 387 pedestrian fatalities in 1961, while the state's traffic fatality rate dropped to a post World War II low.

The traffic fatality rate of 3.7 per 100 million miles of travel was the lowest of any of the major states. The actual deaths totalled 1,486 — including pedestrians—compared to 1,609 the previous year.

Three Kentucky IBM Engineers Share in $30,000

Three IBM engineers at the Lexington, Ky., plant shared in a $30,000 cash award Tuesday night at New York City for their invention which helped make possible development of a revolutionary electric typewriter.

The award was presented to Ronald D. Dodge, Leon E. Palmer and George A. Walker by Thomas J. Watson Jr., chairman of the IBM board of directors. They jointly developed a wear compensator for the new "selectric" typewriter. The device insures continuous precise positioning of the typing element in the machine by making automatic adjustments as wear counts over long periods of time.

Another award, for $10,000 for an invention involving computer magnetic tape systems, was shared by five engineers and two other engineers were awarded $5,000 apiece for individual inventions leading to important advances in data processing equipment technology.

$30 Million Over '61

Governor Proposes $384 Million for Highway Program

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—An accelerated $384-million highway - construction program and an intensified highway - safety campaign were recommended today by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor's budget proposed spending $30 million more in the 1962-63 fiscal year than in the previous year.

The governor emphasized that the largest highway-construction program in state history "has been done on a pay-as-you-go basis."

He recommended $1 million to finance two safety projects—replacement of the present white pavement barrier lines with yellow lines to indicate no-passing zones and modification, over a three-year period, of existing traffic signals to conform to national standards, which require a minimum of two signal faces on each approach to a controlled intersection.

The governor's recommended appropriation of $12,848,596 for the Motor Vehicle Department was $232,344 less than last year.

The governor also requested $7.2 million for snow removal in 1962-63. In the past, the cost of snow removal had been paid partly from deficiency appropriations.

YMCA News

Nearly 200 Attend Family Nite Event

The Family Nite party held at the YMCA Saturday night, had an attendance of 161 adults and children on the occasion of National YMCA Week, it was announced by secretary Louis H. Schafer.

The party included regular boy members and their families. Welcome was delivered by Willis Locke, a board member in the absence of President Chester A. Baltz Jr.

Steve Orozco, physical director introduced some of the members of the Leader's Club, who gave a demonstration of the Trampolet and Vaulting Box. This equipment is new in the gymnasium and this was the first demonstration. The Judo Class gave a demonstration on the art of self defense. This group has had only eight classes and made a fine showing.

Leon I. Van Heusen, youth secretary gave a description of the newly organized program to start this spring, called the "Unit Plan." Besides working with regular members, this program will be extended to First and Second Grade boys in the 6 and 7-year-old bracket. This will be a new departure as the lowest age for Y boy members has been 8 years.

The main gym was used for parents and boys in games, relays and general fun. Many went swimming in the pool under the supervision of James Rundle.

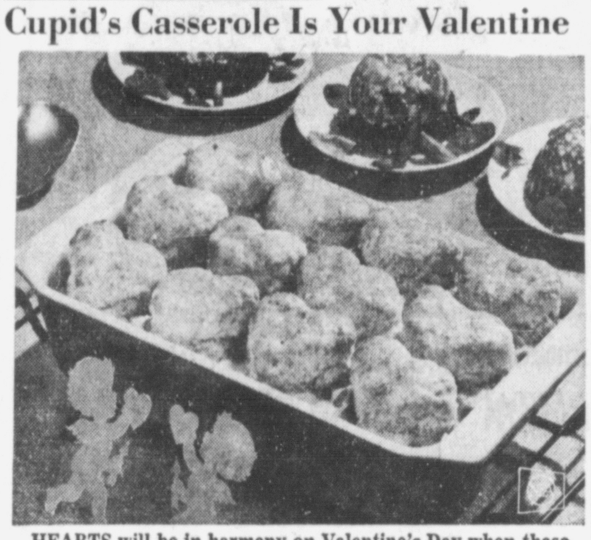
The small fry were shown comedy movies and received popcorn. This was handled by Jan Van Heusen. Other parents visited the craft shop and inspected some of the fine craft work of the boys division. Refreshments were served by members of the parents committee.

Board members and committeemen present were: Willis Locke, William S. Keyser, Robert Murray Jr., Bernard J. Mizel, Harold H. Baltz, Ernest Lombardi, Harry Mahood and Secretary Schafer.

School was taught by "piecework" a hundred years ago in Indiana. A teacher's fee ranged from 50 cents to $1.75 per pupil. At a time when $5 a month plus board was considered good teacher pay elsewhere, a teacher who was a real "hustler" at rounding up pupils and an equally good bill collector made $20 a month in Indiana.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Cupid's Casserole Is Your Valentine



HEARTS will be in harmony on Valentine's Day when these biscuits and chicken-vegetable sauce are placed on the table.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Heart-shaped, crispy oatmeal biscuits and a succulent sauce of chicken and vegetables combine to make a sweetheart of a dish for your Valentine's Day party:

CUPID'S CASSEROLE
(Makes 6 servings)

BASE:
1 10½-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 10-ounce package frozen peas and carrots, cooked
¼ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped pimento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

BISCUITS:
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons shortening
½ cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
2/3 cup milk

Heat oven to very hot (450 degrees F.). For base, put soup in saucepan. Stir in milk gradually. Add remaining ingredients; combine well. Heat to bubbling.

For biscuits, sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Add milk all at once and mix just until dough follows fork around bowl. (Add a little more milk if necessary to make a soft dough.) Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few times. Roll or pat to ½-inch thickness; cut with heart-shaped cutter.

Place hot base in 2-quart casserole. Arrange biscuits on top. Bake in preheated oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes or until biscuits are golden brown.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I own a book called Regulations for the Navy of the United States, dated 1864. For instance one item, No. 387, reads in part: "Steam is not used at all when service can be equally or nearly, as well performed without it; secondly, that sail is never dispensed with when it can be employed to advantage to assist the steam, and thirdly, that full steam power is never empolyed, unless in chase, or absolutely necessary, the cause for which must be reported to the department in writing."

It seems in those days they had to save money. Now I guess they shoot the works. Another item, No. 389, reads in part: "To prevent accidents by spontaneous combustion, he is to order the greatest care be observed that coals are not taken on board when wet, and when on board they are kept as dry as possible. When a fresh supply is received, the commanding officer is to direct that those remaining in the coal-bunkers be as far as practicable, so stowed as to be used first."

No. 497 reads in part for the chief engineer: "We will provide a supply of oatmeal, to be issued to the firemen and coal heavers, without charge, at such times and in such quantities as the commanding officer may direct."

I have spoken to navy men about oatmeal in the drinking water on ship board. It seems that years ago, it was used, and those who did not like to drink the milky oatmeal water became ill. I have often heard it said, "If you eat oatmeal, you get as strong as a horse."

History is like a good mystery story. I have been trying to run down the oatmeal story for some time. In fact, it is said, that if a horse has had too much oats, and he does not get enough exercise, he will break down the barn, and it takes a good rider to hold him. Cooked oatmeal is for winter eating, I have been told by old timers.

I have a book called The Proud Possessors from the Kingston City Library. It was recommended to me by Mrs. H. Lown of Orchard Street, because Charles Lang Freer, her relative by marirage is written up in this book. Mrs. Lown's mother-in-law's cousin was Charles L. Freer, who gave the famous Freer Gallery to Washington, D. C. and is known the world over for its Oriental and Biblical treasures.

In this book, on page 49, covering the story of Isabell Stewart Gardner, whose money also brought famous treasures to this country, gives the story of her building Fenway Court in Boston. She would come there early in the morning and bring her lunch like a workman, and "contribute her ten cents for oatmeal to purify the drinking water." This building was begun in 1900. So perhaps Aline B. Saarinen explains the mystery of oatmeal in her book The Proud Possessors. She received the Guggenheim fellowship in 1957 for the completion of The Proud Possessors.

From time to time, in our own drinking water, there is a strong taste and odor of chlorine. It is supposed to make our water safe for drinking, but it often reminds me of the smell and taste of swimming pool water. Pets refuse to drink it at times, perhaps the answer is to sprinkle oatmeal in it. Although just what happens when oatmeal and chlorine meet, only a chemist can explain.

Chart, above, based on U.S. Dept. of Agriculture figures, lists the record of 10 important nations. In total consumption, the U.S. is far and away the leader. Americans consumed 29 billion pounds in 1960, 26 per cent of the world total.

Science at Work In World Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The odds of death by solar storm for space travelers, new space eyes planned for world weathermen, and frustrations in a cat's life are subjects for science at work:

Odds Against Death

Every so often flares erupt randomly, on the surface of the sun and unleash a storm of radiation into space. On earth we're protected from most of it by the shielding of the earth's atmosphere. In space there is no protection.

For space travelers, this could be a hazard. But now Boeing Aircraft scientists, after a long study of solar storms, figure the odds against a death-dealing dose of this radiation in the course of a week-long space mission would be 120-1.

This is without shielding. The hazard of death would be even lower if spaceships were designed to use the equipment and fuel tanks as protection against the solar radiation.

Weather Eyes

The Tiros satellites already are sharpening the foresight of weathermen for large areas of the earth.

With their television cameras trained on the clouds that scud over the earth, the satellites have spotted hurricanes forming, clued weathermen in Australia to the end of a long heat wave, and helped pinpoint violent tropical storms.

Four more Tiros satellites will be launched, and in 1962 the first Nimbus satellite will be sent into orbit over the North and South poles. With this orbit, the Nimbus will be able to see clouds at every point on earth as the globe rotates slowly under it.

Finally, two Nimbus satellites may patrol at once, providing worldwide data every six hours.

A Cat's Life

Having trouble adjusting? Do things change too rapidly for you? Don't feel bad, your pet cat may have the same trouble.

Veterinarians investigating the mental health of pets find that cats do indeed become frustrated, largely from having to live in city environments or otherwise conform to human standards.

Low Intelligence

Biologists say that insects cannot rival man in intelligence because of their limited size. A brain mechanism allowing flexible behavior requires an enormous amount of electrons and no insect has reached a size large enough to provide the minimum.

Union Official Is Innocent of T-H Law Violation

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A federal district court jury has found Apalachin delegate James V. Laduca innocent of violating the Taft-Hartley law.

The jury returned its verdict Tuesday night after a six-hour deliberation.

Laduca was charged with accepting $10,853 in illegal fees between Nov. 1, 1955 and Dec. 27, 1957 from the Richford Operating Corp., owner of the Richford Hotel in Buffalo, and its president, Issie Morganstern of Rochester.

Similar charges against the corporation and Morganstern were erased by the verdict of innocent.

The government charged that Laduca was acting as a promotion man for the hotel while he was serving as financial secretary-treasurer for Local 66, Hotel and Restaurant Employes Union.

Insect Free

Iron beds first appeared during the 18th century. Early advertisements recommended them as being free from insects which sometimes infested wooden bedsteads.

Just Interested in Planes

Takes Long Way Home From Mass

CHICAGO (AP)— Rickie Oprondek, 10, a model airplane builder and an altar boy, left home Sunday morning carrying $4 and a prayer book to attend Mass.

He got home from Mass, by way of San Francisco and a round-trip jet flight on Tuesday night.

While police and his distraught parents sought the missing boy, he was found in San Francisco.

He got to the Golden Gate city, he said, by sneaking aboard an American Airlines jet passenger plane Sunday night.

"I didn't want to go nowhere," he said. "I wanted to see how it (the jet plane) looked. And it started. I didn't know the plane was going to take off.' '

Rickie said after the plane took off he wanted to tell the stewardess he was a stowaway. "But I was too scared," he explained.

He spent two days in San Francisco, most of the time wandering around International Airport looking at airplanes and asking airline personnel questions about flights.

Airport employes noticed the boy was alone and alerted police. Police established his identity by the name in the prayer book he had in his coat. Then they got in touch with his parents through American Airline officials.

They quickly put him aboard a jet and sent him back to Chicago.

The boy was greeted at O'Hare International Airport by his father, John, 54, a machinst, and his mother, Mary, 52.

Detectives from the youth detail also were at the airport to question the boy. They said he told them he had slept on couches in the San Francisco Airport, he had spent all his money, buying food, toy airplanes and comic books and was broke.

Police held the boy in the juvenile home pending appearance in Family Court on a charge of running away from home.

Adult Education Starts 2nd Term, Room for More

The second term of the Adult Education program at Kingston High School is now in session. There are about 30 courses being given. Several have room for additional students, among them being public speaking, driver training and woodworking, each of which can use about eight additional students if applications are made this week.

Application may be made by calling the office of Raphael Klein, director of Adult Education, at the Vocational Building, Kingston High School.

U.N. Is Moving To Guard Mission Deep in Kivu

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—An armed column of Malayan troops and scout cars is penetrating deep into terror-stricken Kivu Province to assure the safety of 12 Americans at a Protestant mission, the United Nations announced today.

A U.N. spokesman said no news of specific danger to the mission at Kama had been received, but in the absence of any word from the station the United Nations is acting as a precaution.

American consular officials said the mission headquarters at Wheaton, Ill., had received word from the Kama station the first week in January and was not unduly worried.

The missionaries belong to the Protestant Evangelical Mission of Maniema, associated with the worldwide Grace Testimony of Wheaton.

Kama is on the fringe of the wild and remote sector of Kivu Province recently terrorized by marauding soldiers from the former rebel capital of Stanleyville. These are the soldiers that massacred 13 Italian airmen in November at nearby Kindu; 21 white Roman Catholic missionaries and an aged Belgian businessman at Kongolo, in north Katanga on New Year's Day; and an unknown number of Africans.

The U.N. spokesman said he hoped to be able to release within a day or two details of a large-scale military operation against the mutinous troops.

According to American consular lists here the Americans at Kama are the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel R. Vinton; the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel R. Vinton Jr. and their two children, William Russel, 5, and Debbie Jane, 3; the Rev. and Mrs. William Bunch and their two children, Debbie Joy, 2, and William Jr., 8 months; and two nurses, Betty Frier and Wilma Sparks.

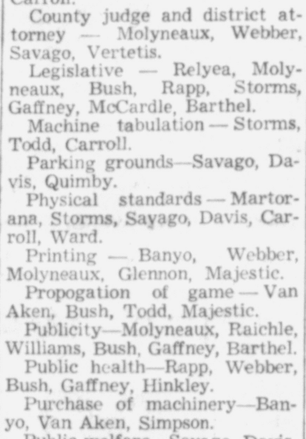
Why We Say--



FROM BIBLE: Many employer has repeated this phrase to a tardy employee but probably without thinking of where it started. The phrase has arisen in allusion to the laborers in the Bible parable who were called to work in the vineyard at the 11th hour and yet received a full day's pay.

Financial and Commercial

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 254.60 with industrials up 1.20, rails up .40 and utilities up .20.

Gains of fractions to a point or more outnumbered losers among pivotal issues.

The savings-and-loan stocks showed some resistance to further decline, limiting losses.

Aircrafts were jumbled.

U.S. Steel fell more than a point while Bethlehem (ex dividend) dropped a fraction and other major producers eased.

Moderate losses were shown by First Charter Financial, Great Western Financial, and United Financial of California.

Boeing advanced around a point and General Dynamics did better than that. Republic Aviation sank about 3 points, North American Aviation about a point and Lockheed a fraction.

IBM came back about 8 points, Xerox around 4 and Sears Roebuck well over a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.29 at 698.38.

Jobless Rate Dips Below Six PC, First in Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—The unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent of the work force in January—the first time in 16 months it has dropped below 6 per cent.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg announced that employment dropped by 1.4 million to 65,058,000 in January while unemployment increased by 572,000 to 4,663,000.

However both these changes were less than seasonally expected.

Employment usually declines in January due to post-Christmas lags, while unemployment increases because of the winter weather.

Actually the January employment total, while a drop from December, was at a record for the month. The January idle total was 700,000 below the unemployment figure recorded in January 1961.

Goldberg made the figures public in testimony prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee.

They confirm what President Kennedy said in his economic report, Goldberg told the committee, that "We are in the midst of a vigorous economic recovery, with production and employment reaching new highs."

Serious Problem Remains

The labor secretary said the nation still has a major problem in a hard-core jobless situation that is continuing. He said long-term unemployment still poses a "very serious problem."

Goldberg said that, at the current level of unemployment, 5.5 million jobs would have to be added during 1962 to reduce the seasonally adjustee unemployment rate, now 5.8 per cent to the four per cent level which Kennedy picked as a temporary goal.

That number of new jobs is needed, Goldberg said, to provide full-time employment opportunities for new additions to the labor force, workers displaced by new machines and technological changes, and those now involuntarily on part-time work

Goldberg called for prompt enactment of Kennedy's proposed training-retraining program as a major method of improving the employment situation by matching to a greater extent the rising job levels and the people available to take those jobs.

Takes Up All Funds

Goldberg released the first report on the Labor Department's experience in training and retraining under the Area Redevelopment Act. The report showed 29 programs have been approved covering 4,200 trainees in nine states.

"Already in the pipelines," the secretary said, "are enough training proposals to use up all the available funds for the current fiscal year."

He said even more important is the fact that 50 per cent of the trainees have been unemployed for half a year or more, one-third of them being jobless for a full year or more. He said a substantial proportion are older workers.

Goldberg noted that the number of persons unemployed for four months or more still stands at 1.25 million, very little changed from a year ago, despite the decline in over-all unemployment and the rise in the number of jobs.

The 572,000 increase in unemployment in January is somewhat less than 750,000 increase usually expected in January due to seasonal factors.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 5.8 per cent of the work force this Janury compares with a rate of 6.7 per cent in January 1961.

JFK to Farmers

markets. The government could, if it saw fit, make payments on land diverted from wheat. The present program provides for supports, but at a reduced level, if controls are turned down.

Feed grains — Acreage allotments and marketing quotas would be set for the four major feed grains—corn, oats, barley, and sorghum grain.

4 Grains Not In Before

In the past, only corn has been grown under allotments and none of the four grains has ever been subjected to marketing quotas. Payments could be made on land diverted from these grains, as is being done now. But all supports would be withdrawn and the government would reserve the right to sell up to about 350 million bushels a year of its surpluses if controls were voted down.

Dairy products—For the first time, marketing allotments would be set on all dairymen. The government would attempt to support prices up to 90 per cent of the parity price, but not in excess of $300 million a year for supports, or about half this year's expected cost.

If Rejection Comes

Should allotments be rejected, supports would be lowered and no matter how large surplus supplies became, the government would spend no more than $300 million a year on them.

In proposing the tighter controls Kennedy said: "Our two goals—improving income and reducing costs—can both be achieved only if farm output can be reduced below needs for several years and then be allowed to increase at a rate equal to the growth in demand."

The gap between production and needs during the adjustment period would be supplied from existing surpluses.

Kennedy told Congress his total farm program envisioned making maximum use of the nation's food abundance through such plans as the school lunch program, direct distribution of food to the needy, an expanded food stamp plan, the foreign food-for-peace program, including U.S. participation in a world food bank.

Under the conversation phase of his program, Kennedy proposed steps be taken to shift 50 million acres of cropland to other income-earning uses such as recreation, wildlife promotion, woodlots, forests and grazing. Federal financial aid would be offered. The government would look into the possibility of setting up greenbelts 10 miles or so in width around urban areas for recreational use.

Wagner Hits Rejection

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Senate's refusal to consider legislation that would allow off-track betting on horse races will hurt New York City residents, the city's mayor says.

The rejection amounted to a "vote against the fiscal needs of the people of New York City," Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner said Tuesday shortly after Democratic bills to legalize off-track betting were turned down by Senate Republicans.

The Senate vote was along party lines.

Full Data Urged For Vets Seeking Benefit Claims

Veterans and dependents seeking assistance at Veterans' Counseling Center, are advised by Charles L. Culver, NYS veteran counselor of the NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street that, "full, accurate and up-to-date information is essential if proper and timely help is to be given."

"A great deal of time can be saved in interviewing and counseling claimants for veterans' benefits if they come to our office prepared with official documents in support of their claim," Culver and Tyler continued.

Such documents would include military service records, previous claim numbers, G. I. insurance policy numbers, social security numbers and like certificates.

Complete counseling service and information on all veterans' benefits may be obtained Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs office and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street.

aimed at a Thursday morning launching. A leak developed in the fueling system and the kerosene spilled over onto vital parts of the missile.

Glenn, according to a NASA spokesman, accepted the sixth postponement of the launching with a shrug.

Glenn was quoted as saying, "Sure, I'm disappointed, but this is a complicated business. I don't think we should fly until all elements of the mission are ready. When we have completed all our tests satisfactorily then we'll go."

The 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel planned to take a few days off to visit his wife Annie and two teen-age children in Arlington, Va.

Similar to Ranger Woes

The Atlas trouble is believed to be the same which caused a four-day postponement last week of the Ranger 3 moon shot.

A giant fleet of 24 Navy ships was recalled from recovery operations. They were spread across the Atlantic Ocean, ready to retrieve Glenn and his capsule.

Army to Activate Divisions Sooner Than Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two new regular Army divisions will be formed sooner than expected. But Army officials say this doesn't necessarily mean quicker release for Reservists called to active duty last year.

The Army announced Tuesday the 1st Armored Division will be activated at Ft. Hood, Tex., Feb. 3; and the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, originally scheduled for March, will be formed Feb. 19 at Ft. Carson, Colo.

Boys - And Men - Should Avoid the Penny Stocks

Q) "I often see my father looking at the stocks in the paper, and I've become interested, too. With money I have saved up, I can buy 100 shares each of the following: Burma Mines, Israel-American Oil, Merrill Island Mining. What do you think about them?" David

A) This is an intelligent letter, David. You've got a wonderful opportunity, at a relatively young age, to begin investing in stocks. You can learn something about them, and you can build up a pretty good nest egg toward your college education if you get the right kind of start now.

In my considered opinion, based on long experience, you would be getting a wrong start by buying the type of stocks you've mentioned. These are all what brokers call penny stocks, which means that they sell well below $1 a share.

I can't evaluate stocks in this category, and I consider them as outright gambles. There may be profits at some future date in one or more of these situations; but, at present, the market itself believes there is very little value to them.

I urge you very strongly not to make the mistake that many men older than yourself are prone to—don't kid yourself that fortunes are waiting to be picked up in penny stocks at this stage in a long bull market. I would far rather see you buy fewer shares in one relatively sound, low-priced speculation, such as Grayson-Robinson (NYSE).

Q) "Will American Sterilizer recover, or should I sell?" A.C.

A) American Sterilizer is essentially a sound stock, in my opinion. Earnings were down in 1961 during the first nine months because of an apparent squeeze on profit margins in one segment of their business. I strongly feel, however, that this is a temporary situation which will be rectified. I advise you to hold your shares for resumption of growth and resulting higher prices.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

mored cars into the center of Algiers Tuesday night "for any eventuality," army sources said. The troop reinforcements were withdrawn this morning, but the show of strength obviously was aimed at the right-wing European settlers in the city and their extremist Secret Army Organization waging a campaign of terrorism to keep Algeria French. Announcement of an accord with the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN) is certain to infuriate Algeria's European population, and a general uprising is a possibility.

To guard against any attempt at a putsch in Paris itself the government announced 30 squadrons of mobile gendarmes totaling more than 4,000 men, had been placed in a police "strategic reserve" in the Paris region.

No Report on Dalhab

On the rebel side, Foreign Minister Saad Dalhab left Morocco four days ago and has not yet been reported in Tunis. This could mean that Dalhab, one of the FLN negotiators, had stopped in Switzerland for a decisive meeting with French representatives.

The Belgian radio and the papers said a provisional administration of French and Algerians would be installed for the transitional period and that the French army would remain on the scene, chiefly to prevent an uprising by the right-wing European extremists and their secret army.

Printing Loss Feared

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The printing industry might suffer a financial loss if the Legislature approves proposals that would allow legal advertising to be published outside the area where the legal action was to take place, a spokesman for labor contends.

Raymond R. Corbett, legislative chairman of the State AFL-CIO, urged the Senate and Assembly Codes Committees at a hearing Tuesday to delay action on the legislation until a thorough study was made of their possible effects.

The legislation, he said, would allow some governmental agencies "to channel the advertising in such a way as to threaten to or actually eliminate part or all of such advertising income on which publications and the employes. . . substantially depend."

$4.6 million for State Police, to allow addition of 608 new troopers, to allow reduction of the work week to 40 hours from the present 60, and meet other new expenses. The budget will total $22 million.

$9 million to finance establishment of the New York State Atomic Development and Research Agency, which will be expected to pay back the money.

$2.3 million to raise to $9 million total state aid to communities who granted property-tax relief to railroads.

Mr. Jones—My daughter, of course. That's what you mean. You want to marry her, don't you?

Young Man—Why, no—I just wanted to know if you could lend me $10.

Mr. Jones (sharply)—Certainly not! Why, I hardly know you.

One sweltering summer day, as the man dropped into his seat in the afternoon train which was to carry him down to his country place, he noticed with displeasure that immediately behind him was the inevitable tired mother with the usual very small children. But the youngsters were quiet, and the motion of the car soon had its effect. Mr. Morton's chin sank upon his breast, and he slept. Suddenly he became acutely conscious that something warm and sticky had been violently inserted between his collar and the back of his neck. He lurched indignantly to his feet, just as a shrill voice exclaimed, Oh, mama, that man's got my all day sucker!

Death Strikes the Big Top

Aerialists Killed, Human Pyramid Plunges 40 Feet

DETROIT (AP) — Two members of the famed Wallendas family troupe were killed Tuesday night when three of the performers fell while doing their dizzying act on a circus high wire.

7,000 Watch in Horror

A crowd of 7,000 children and adults gasped in horror as the three men plummeted from the slender wire.

Three other male performers saved themselves and the only woman in the act by clinging to the swaying wire about 40 feet above a concrete coliseum floor.

Dieter Schepp, 23, and Richard Faughnan, 29, were injured fatally in the plunge.

Mario Wallenda, 22 also fell. His condition was described as "very critical" by a physician.

Dieter's sister, Jana, 17, also was injured. Others of the troupe, clinging to the wire, caught her as she fell.

Three Grab Wire

Those who managed to grab the wire and hold on were Herman Wallenda, 60, Karl Wallenda, 57, and Gunther Wallenda, 42, descendants in a family which has kept the troupe's name before the public for nearly 90 years.

They caught Miss Schepp and then dropped her into an improvised net.

The injured were rushed to nearby Highland Park General hospital, where Faughnan was dead of a skull fracture. Schepp died early today.

The tragedy which marred a long and illustrious performing history came during the Shrine circus at the Michigan State fairgrounds Coliseum.

A Fatal Debut

Dieter Schepp and his sister escaped together only a few months ago from behind the Iron Curtain in East Germany.

Faughnan was making his debut with the Wallendas.

The four younger men formed the base of a pyramid with their feet on the high wire. Karl and Herman Wallenda were standing on long rods which ran along the younger men's shoulders. Miss Schepp was seated on a chair on a rod on the older men's shoulders.

Suddenly the pyramid collapsed. Herman, Karl and Gunther Wallenda managed to stay on the wire and grab Miss Schepp.

Clown Brings Calm

For a time panic threatened from the shocked crowd. Some men tried to run into the ring. Women wept. Others, including children, were frozen in their seats.

A circus clown, Ernie (Blinko) Burch, was credited with bringing calm. Burch, grotesque in his makeup, stood in the ring center pleading for order.

Faughnan's wife, Jenny, 33, a troupe member, was standing on a platform at one end of the high wire.

She said her husband did not appear to have a good grip on his 35-pound balancing bar and lost his balance as he tried to change the grip.

"Dieter called out that he couldn't hold any longer," she said. "He threw the pole into the air to grip it in the center and lost his balance. This threw everybody else off balance and down they went."

Founded in 1874

The aerialist dynasty was founded in 1874 in Germany by Karl's grandfather, also named Karl. The troupe came to the United States in 1928 and starred with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The present Karl and Herman are uncles of Jana and Dieter. Gunter is a son of Herman. Mario Wallenda is Carl's son.

The Wallendas usually perform without a net.

SHOKAN — Old Hurley residents calling in the village center Saturday included Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Burger, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher.

Edward Ocker Jr., Allaben collector of antique firearms who resided in Shokan as a boy, was in town Thursday. He reports that his father, a veteran of the Spanish-American War and one time member of the Board of Water Supply Police force, remains in good health at the age of 86.

Also here Thursday was Mrs. Thomas Myckland, proprietor of a home for elderly people on Route 212, Lake Hill.

Traffic is light on Route 28 through the village these days, partly because of the bare ski trails in the mountains. Trucking of logs, green lumber, milk and fuel is about as usual for this time of the year. The mountain sawmills currently are buying hard maple, red and white oak, cherry, beech and birch.

William Ritterbusch, Woodstock man who has built a new home in the neighboring township, was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osborg, Long Island couple who have a summer place near The Vly and the Olive-Marbletown line, called on local friends Friday. They reported finding their house had been entered and a number of items, including a TV set and old muzzle-loading shotgun, taken by the burglars. Two other houses in the same neighborhood were broken into, according to the Osborgs.

Birthdays on Feb. 6 include that of Mrs. Alfred Iapoce who before marriage was Elizabeth Brown of Atwood.

Mrs. Hal Purdy of the Saugerties area was a caller at the local museum last Sunday.

Martin Gulnack is again at his Shokan home following surgery at a Kingston hospital.

Benjamin and Claire Woloson, Cairo, called on Shokan friends recently.

David West, formerly of Route 28A, is now residing on Elmendorf Street in Kingston. The World War I veteran and one time state trooper spent several months last year in the Southern California area.

Although the aerator of the Ashokan Reservoir is 'on vacation' for the winter months, there remains, for weekend motorists to view, the contrasting sight of the fairly well-filled east basin and the adjoining sadly depleted west basin. Also of interest are the hundreds of wild ducks which frequent the patches of open water in the lower basin. Last year, the topic of conversation was the six swans who spent several days down there, and now comes the reliable report of three eagles perched on the dividing weir bridge last Sunday. The feathered trio, one of which was a golden eagle, seldom seen in the east, were making passes at the ducks but the quackers were too quick for the big birds and "ducked" to safety. Al Feldman, noted ornithologist who is a member of the laboratory staff at the headworks, took pictures of the unusual scene.

Leila Moore of Eddyville was a caller in the village Friday.

Delaware County people in town Wednesday included Elizabeth Davis of Margaretville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Miller, residents of the west end of the village along Route 28 the past several years, have moved to Krumville.

Mrs. Virgil Gordon has returned from a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Corwin, in Astoria, L. I.

Holstein Group Picks Greene Man

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Holstein-Friesian Association says federal controls on milk-production would be costly to producers and taxpayers.

The delegates also elected these 12 new delegates:

Arthur D. Williams, Houghton; Louis C. Worden, Windsor; Wesley Engst, Aurora; Fred M. Lant, Horseheads; Arthur L. Davis, Greene; Frank R. Zwicker, Malone.

William B. Zuber, Churchville; Robert C. Church, Baldwinsville; Robert W. Pollok, Canandaigua; Clar Stowell, Hannibal; William B. Allen, Van Hornesville, and Millard A. Brink, Ithaca.

Approximately 400 persons attended the three-day meeting, which ended today.

Need Teachers, More Space In Marlboro Gym Program

The Lay Advisory Curriculum Committee met to discuss the recommendations for the physical education program and to hear a report from the science department.

Coach Jack Kroh and Mrs. Joyce O'Donnell had been requested to return to answer questions and to contribute further explanation of the recommendations made at the previous meeting.

Below State Standards

They summarized: The main factor which is pulling our physical education program below state requirements is lack of teaching and storage space due to enrollment. Classes are too large, instruction based on the individual needs of a student is often impossible to schedule because it is necessary to use one room for 500 students which must be additionally scheduled to teach the girls and boys in separate groups. There are six grades, seven periods in a day in which to teach physical education, and other departments insisting on minimum teaching time as well.

The following recommendations made at the previous meeting by Coach Kroh and Mrs. O'Donnell and summarized by C. E. Hacunda were approved by the committee:

1. Urgent need of new shower and locker rooms because of inadequate size and condition.

2. A gymnasium large enough to be divided into two parts for simutaneous instruction of boys and girls. Condemnation of the present gymnasium floor as being beyond repair.

Need Space for Equipment

3. Space for additional equipment for developing the individual. Example — climbing ropes, additional exercise equipment, and areas.

4. A longer class period, now impossible because lack of class room space forces more periods for shorter time.

5. Outdoor space for girls' and boys' activities to be caried on at the same time.

6. Better understanding of the program of physical education which is giving skills to develop each child mentally, morally, emotionally, socially, spiritually, physically.

There are two full time directors assigned to the junior and senior program, but the publicity goes to the sports which are played and practiced and coached after school. While being heartily in support of this sports program Coach and Mrs. O'Donnell would wish that newspapers from Kingston to Newburgh would publicize their lack of space, as was done when several hundred were turned away from the basketball game at the Marlboro gymnasium last week, noting that the individual student cannot under existing conditions get the minimum required weekly hours in physical education.

Science Classes Cramped

Reports were also received from the Science Department and the following recommendations were made.

John Haluska who teaches chemistry and physics and one Eighth Grade science class mentioned the following:

His laboratory space is so limited at the present time that he can not teach both chemistry and physics in one year. Lack of scientific equipment is the major complaint of all the science teachers, but inadequate storage space or preparation room space seems to be the major factor that limits the use of needed scientific equipment. Teachers can requisition what they need but have no place to put these articles after they arrive.

Class rooms are constantly in use, hence, no teacher can go into an empty room to prepare an experiment for an incoming class. Even if the rooms were available, the teaching load (pupils per teacher) is so great, that teachers do not have the time to set up the proper materials in between classes. Therefore, an added staff member to ease the teaching load and reach each child better, individually, would also be of great help.

Lack of proper facilities in existing rooms used for laboratories was mentioned by Guy Licata, biology teacher. Few of the rooms had running water, gas, proper ventilation or sufficient work counters. Often visual aids are used in place of field trips, and it was felt that dark curtains, or something similar was needed in one of the rooms at least.

Needs Work Space

Gerard Maier, seventh, eighth, and part of the ninth Grade science was concerned more with work space for demonstrational purposes. This was for those students who could grasp science more easily when shown the subject matter, step by step.

It was mentioned that Pierre Renaud, who was unable to attend due to illness, echoed lack of space and equipment as detrimental to the learning processes where science was concerned. As things stand now close to the minimal standard of science is being taught at Marlboro Central School, due completely to lack of space and equipment at this time.

ProTen*

Swift's Premium ProTen* BEEF TENDERED WITH PAPAIN *PROTEN INC., LICENSOR

Swift's exclusive new tender process is a method of tendering beef from within, developed and patented by Swift & Company with the approval of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The natural enzymes in meat are supplemented by vegetable protein distributed throughout the meat tissue (this is not a dip or surface method). This new tendering method has no effect on any cuts until cooked in oven, or broiler. Then it releases amazing new tenderness never possible until now.

Now a new tenderness in every cut. Swift's new ProTen* Tendered Beef gives you a new tenderness so remarkable that your whole concept of cooking will be changed. Chucks and rump steaks and roasts are all now cuts you can serve with pride and cook easier and quicker than ever before! Every fork-tender bite is delicious.

Central School Notes

NEW PALTZ—Officers of the Central School Safety Patrol have decided to select a "Patrolman of the Week." The members of the Patrol will be selected on the basis of leadership and reliability. The patrol member who receives the most nominations for this honor throughout the school year will be made a permanent officer of the patrol. The purpose in having a "Patrolman of the Week" is to train future leaders of the safety patrol.

The student who has been nominated for this honor as "Patrolman of the Week" is David George. David arrives at the school at 7:30 a. m. to begin duty. His first assignment each day is the raising of the American Flag, followed by the placing of a "No Speeding Sign" on Main Street, and then ending his day's work by assisting the elementary children in crossing in a safe manner.

David George has demonstrated his faithfulness to duty by being at his assigned post each and every day regardless of weather. He is a willing volunteer for duty when a fellow patrolman is home ill and the patrol needs one of its members to work an extra shift. George is a member of the Seventh Grade Class at New Paltz Central School.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

Shokan, N. Y.

One of the numerous veterans residing in the Rondout Valley area of Ulster County was Clinton C. Devoe whose brother, John, had been killed in the Civil War. They were sons of Thomas and Ann E. (Dewitt) Devoe of the Town of Wawarsing. Clinton as a youth worked in a lath and picket mill and in 1859 he ran a heading mill at Alligerville, Enlisting, 1862, in the 120th Ulster Regiment, he served with them until August of 1863, when he was discharged on account of sickness. He was in the severe fighting at Fredericksburg, Cedar Creek, and Bull Run. After the war he ran a mill for a few years, then was employed by Albert Smiley at Lake Mohonk. He bought a property near Accord and operated a summer boardinghouse. Devoe was married, November 3, 1859, to Sarah J. Lawrence of Alligerville and they became the parents of eight children.

News note, Dec. 29, 1881 — Dr. A. T. Douglas of Kingston, and for a long time the efficient surgeon of Pratt Post, Grand Army of the Republic, has been elected to represent W. W. Perkins Post, G.A.R., of New London, Conn., during the forthcoming Department Encampment in that state. The doctor was a charter member of Pratt Post and very popular with the 'boys.' He was also held in high esteem by the members of the medical profession, who on his departmure for Connecticut presented him with a gold-headed cane as a slight token of their friendship and esteem.

Jan. 14, 1864: John Burger of New Paltz has received his appointment as recruiting officer. A good selection.

Jan. 10, 1864: the small son of John P. Durno, Kingston resident who is in the Union Army, was so badly burned by his colthing taking fire that he died the same evening.

Jan. 21, 1863: Town of Woodstock has filled her quota by volunteering. The northern towns are doing well in this respect. Plattekill Clove school district of the Town of Saugerties has sent 30 volunteers to the army — over half the number of citizens subject to military duty. The Town of Saugerties quota is full. New enlistments in the county now number 500, or one-half the quota.

The second sociable of the Ladies Aid of New Paltz will be held at the home of Mrs. William H. DeGarmo in that village Jan. 22, 1864. Contributions of canned fruit, socks, mittens, underwear etc. may be left with E. V. Van Wagonen at the Post Office. The executive committee is made up of the following. Hannah M. Lefever, Sarah M. Elting, Anna Woolsey and Gertrude Elting.

Style note: Upwards of 150 females recently have been discovered in the Union Army and made to resume the garments of their sex.

Quick decision: During the Battle of the Wilderness two infantrymen were struggling for possession of a rebel flag which both had seized, when a shot cut the staff in two, leaving the flag in the hands of one. "Be-dad," said the other as he resumed his loading and firing, "the Johnnies have decided for us this time."

May 27, 1864, a local soldier writes from Virginia that there is plenty going on in his sector while preparations are being made for the big push on Richmond. The thousands of cavalry and supply wagon horses were to eat hearty for quite a spell. He says: "The whole Army of the Potomac is in motion led by Hancock's Second Corps, followed by General Wright. Phil Sheridan's cavalry is scouring the countryside for the Johnnies. The whole section is planted mostly with corn, Horses, cattle, mules, contrabands, etc. all fall to our foraging parties and huge wagon trains."

"Be careful how you harbor or employ a deserter. The U. S. Court last week sent three men to the penetentiary for enticing to desert and for carrying away deserters.

December 16, 1863: A letter from a local soldier in the 128th Infantry says his regiment is still at Baton Rouge, La., except Company H which detached and is stationed at Plaquemine where "we have built a fort at the mouth of a bayou, mounting 20-pounder Parrot guns. Have been expecting an attack for several days. The guns are from the 1st section of the 18th New York Battery. Another fort, now being built on the river just below here, will have 12 large mounted guns."

The writer then goes on to tell about a letter and a girl: "A letter written by a young 'she-Sesh' at the local Female Seminary, and found after our second arrival here, reveals a rather low opinion of the 'detestable Yankees'! The girl, a daughter of a Presbyterian minister, wrote in part: 'The Yankees have left and I do not think we will be troubled with any more of those horrid Lincoln hirelings. I never want to set eyes on one of the blue-coated rascals again.' Here the young lady's stock of words got exhausted before she could finish her tender missive about us Yanks."

Idea Kicking Around for Past 20 Years

Kennedy's Urban Plan Takes In A Lot, But Is Nothing New

WRECKED BY ICE—It wasn't too heavy a load that crumpled this bridge over the Kaw River near Eudora, Kan., but tightly packed ice that leveled a concrete and steel pier. Two spans of the 1,200-foot bridge tumbled into the water. No vehicles were on bridge at time of collapse. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sizzling bowl of soup President Kennedy has just dumped in Congress' lap is made up of politics, race, slums, cities, expanding population, efficiency, and status.

Yet, there is nothing basically new in his message Tuesday telling Congress that, unless it disapproves in 60 days, he will create a new government department, the 11th, called urban affairs and housing.

He himself pointed out the idea has been kicking around 20 years.

Eyes New Tent

The present and future problems of housing and city planning are now handled by a group of government agencies huddled under the tent of one main unit, the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The head of it, an administrator, Robert C. Weaver, has nothing like the prestige or influence of the head of a department, a secretary, who sits in the President's Cabinet. Kennedy proposes to keep the same subordinate agencies but shove them under a new tent with the title of department, headed by a secretary. He said he would make Weaver, a Negro, the secretary.

This, Kennedy figures, would not only give the problems and planning better coordination and efficiency but a new influence through Cabinet status.

In short: Kennedy is saying the problems of cities, housing and city populations are now so big they require handling by a department.

Ten years ago a national housing conference proposed this kind of idea. There have been bills in Congress calling for it every year since at least 1956.

Only Vote Was Lacking

Last year Kennedy first suggested it in a special message to Congress on housing. Last year both the Senate and House Committees on Government Operations approved bills to create the new department.

All that was lacking was a vote on the House or Senate floor. But the bills didn't get there before Congress quit for 1961. So they were still lying around when Congress returned in 1962.

Kennedy gave Congress another nudge on this subject in his State of the Union message on Jan. 11. But in the House, before a bill can get to the floor, the very powerful Rules Committee has to give a green light.

This committee, made up of 10 Democrats and five Republicans, blocked it instead by a vote of 9 to 6. All five Republicans and four Southern Democrats ganged up to block it. That was Jan. 24.

Kennedy held a news conference that same day and started it off by neatly trying to put the Republicans on the defensive.

Skipping over the unpleasant fact that the five outnumbered Republicans could not have throttled the bill if four of Kennedy's Democrats hadn't joined them, the President said the Republicans astonished him.

This was good politics since this is a congressional election year and the Republicans will need the votes of a lot of city people.

Then he said he would by-pass the committee procedure altogether and send his proposal to Congress in the form of a reorganization plan.

Ike Did It in '53

That simply means that unless a majority in the House or Senate votes against it within 60 days, he'll create the new department. This is how President Eisenhower in 1953 created the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

But any vote on the floor of House or Senate is likely to be by roll call, which means Democrats and Republicans would have to vote by name and thus reveal to the folks back home where they stood.

It was at that same news conference that Kennedy—in answer to a direct question—said he would make Weaver secretary of the new department.

This was bound to cost him votes among Southern Democrats, many of whom reportedly were against his plan just because they had thought he might appoint Weaver.

The big, broad band of conservative Republicans in Congress is likely to vote no. Some of them indicated they think this new concern for cities would interfere with states rights.

Dirksen for Commission

Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Republican leader in the Senate, announced he would offer a counterproposal: a commission to study the functions of such a new department.

If Congress buys Dirksen's idea it will kill Kennedy's plans for 1962. This whole subject has already been given study by congressional committees and has been under discussion for years.

No JD Label For Children Playing Hooky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Young people brought into court for playing hooky from school or home but who steer clear of crime would escape being labeled juvenile delinquents, under a proposal advanced by a legislative committee.

"Persons in need of supervision" would be the designation for such children.

The recommendation was made Tuesday by the Joint Legislative Committee on Court Reorganization. It came as Gov. Rockefeller, in a separate announcement, carried out a promise to a judicial group to help relieve court congestion at opposite ends of the state.

Rockefeller asked the Legislature to create 38 judgeships—33 in State Supreme Court and 5 in county courts in the New York City area and in Western New York.

The committee, headed by Sen. Daniel G. Albert, R-Nassau, also recommended that:

1. "Law guardians" be assigned to youths up to 16, who are arraigned in family courts, to advise them on their legal rights if their families did not provide such help.

2. Youths under 16 who were arrested not be detained or jailed pending court action, unless a judge ruled officially that detention was needed to guarantee appearance in court or to prevent harm to the community from the individual involved.

3. Family courts have exclusive jurisdiction in adoption proceedings.

4. Family courts exercise special handling of cases involving charges of assault and disorderly conduct brought by one member of a family against another.

Will Ask Jury Recall to Seek Bank Indictments

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Brown says he plans to ask federal Judge Michael H. Sheridan to recall last October's grand jury early in February to seek indictments against a bank official and a cashier charged in connection with a shortage.

Brown said Tuesday he would seek indictments against August J. Lippi, 61-year-old board chairman of the First National Bank of Exeter, charged with aiding and abetting false bank entries, and George Daileda, 55-year-old cashier charged with understating accounts totaling $397,000. The FBI said the alleged false entries were made to cover checks Lippi allegedly wrote.

Lippi, who also is president of District 1 of the United Mine Workers of America, Tuesday was granted a delay to Feb. 27 in a hearing in Washington on his removal to Pennsylvania to face the charges. He did not testify.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Oscar Altshuler of Washington testified at Lippi's hearing that when he was arrested in a Washington hotel early Tuesday he had with him a check for $30,000, a passport, a travel folder and an itinerary drawn up for South America by a travel agent.

Jurors Will Meet Monday Night, 8

Plans for the May election of officers will be made by members of the Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County at their next meeting Monday night, Feb. 5, at the Court House.

President Thomas J. Murphy, in announcing the meeting, said it will begin at 8 o'clock and requested a full attendance of members.

A nominating committee will be appointed by the president to begin work on a slate of officers to be chosen at the May session.

Another discussion is scheduled on the fire escape subject which has been proposed by the association as an addition to the Grand Jury room. Such an escape, the association feels, would increase the safety of the jurors while in session.

Opinion Is Asked By Assemblyman On Vote Legality

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican assemblyman whose election has been questioned by a Democratic congressman wants the state attorney general to say whether the assemblyman was legally voted into the Legislature.

Assemblyman Stanley Van Rensselaer of Saratoga Springs said Tuesday he had asked Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz for an opinion.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, has charged that Van Rensselaer's election last November was illegal and that the vote he cast for congressional reapportionment was void.

The reapportionment bill was passed by the Assembly with only the constitutional minimum of votes. The legislation eliminates Stratton's district, effective Dec. 31.

Stratton contends that the legislation is null and void because it would have failed without Van Rensselaer's vote.

Van Rensselaer's election, Stratton maintains, violated the State Constitution because he was city judge in Saratoga Springs when elected to the Assembly.

Van Rensselaer said yesterday the prohibition against dual office did not include counties with a population under 120,000. The 1960 census set Saratoga County's population at 89,096.

Bridgroom Has Delay Galore Reaching Church

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Like most bridegrooms, Airman 1. C. Richard A. Councilman was very much up in the air...especially while he was on the ground.

Hurrying home from his U.S. Air Force base in Pakistan to marry his sweetheart, Sue Marie Peet of Gillette, Pa., Councilman encountered enough frustrating setbacks to test the tenacity of a homing pigeon.

Hitchhiking Air Force style, Councilman began the halfway round the world trip Jan. 19 and was scheduled to arrive in Elmira last Wednesday.

The first leg of the journey ended with engine trouble and a 58-hour delay in Madrid, Spain.

He made connections with another states-bound flight, but after 90 minutes over the Atlantic, it too developed engine trouble and returned to Madrid.

He caught another flight for the states, but a storm near the Azores grounded it for eight hours.

He arrived in Charleston, S.C., last Friday and switched to commercial flight. But here he ran into reservation problems.

Three planes and 12 hours later, his plane touched down at the Elmira-Corning Airport.

The couple was married Sunday in Elmira and chose New York for the honeymoon.

Sue Marie selected the mode of travel for the honeymoon. Airplane.

Philip DeGrandis, divisional sales manager for Investors Diversified Services Inc., 68-year-old investment management company, qualified on a divisional basis for membership in the President's Club, an honor group of sales leaders.

He competed with 161 Investors divisional sales managers who supervise a sales force of 3,300 representatives servicing more than 1,170,000 customer accounts throughout the United States.

$25 Million Is Proposed in Pay Raises for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State employes, who received a $33-million annual pay raise last year, would receive another $25 million, under the state budget Gov. Rockefeller submitted today to the Legislature.

The increase would give more than 100,000 state employes a pay boost of 5 per cent.

Administration spokesmen said it was not known whether the raise would extend up to the level of commissioner. Last year, heads of major departments received increases of $5,000 and more, to $27,500 a year.

The governor said in his budget message that another pay raise this year would bring the pay levels of state workers in line with wages offered by private industry for comparable jobs.

The proposed pay raises would take effect Aug. 1.

SS Tax Returns Are Due Before Feb. 12

A tax reminder from local district director of internal revenue James A. O'Hara informs employers who made timely deposits of income withheld and social security taxes due for the fourth quarter that they must file their fourth quarter returns (Form 941) no later than Feb. 12.

Similarly, the tax official said, manufacturers, retailers and others who made timely deposits of all excise taxes due for the fourth quarter must file their fourth quarter returns, using Form 720 no later than Feb. 12.

$2 Million Asked By Rockefeller For Agriculture

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller asked today for more than $2 million to step up development of better agricultural crops and weapons to fight insects and disease preying on them.

The governor's budget included $1.2 for intensive research in plant growth and the effect of atmospheric conditions on plant development. The funds would finance construction of a growth chamber at the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University.

Also earmarked for the college were $885,797 for aricultural rewere $885,797 for agricultural research and extension programs, and $25,000 for soil-conservation work — increases of $80,000 and $9,520, respectively, over amounts for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The proposed appropriation for the State Agriculture Department was $6,497,109, or $337,537 higher than this year. The department also has available about $1.8 million in federal funds.

House Is Ready To Approve Pa. Budget Requests

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House was ready today to give preliminary approval to $1,000,958,666 in budget requests by Gov. Lawrence.

The action would put the administration's spending program in position for final passage next week. House approval would give the Senate a whole month to hammer out an agreement on the plan before the governor's suggested March 1 adjournment.

The House Appropriations Committee sent the program to the floor Tuesday with only minor changes that resulted in a net increase in the budget of $71,209.

The committee also approved an additional $41,690 for the current budget.

A showdown in the House Tuesday on state school subsidies was postponed as Democrats threatened to join the Republican-backed move to increase them by $9.1 million.

In other legislative developments:

Milk Control—Republicans enlivened an otherwise calm Senate session by attacking the State Milk Control Commission.

Sen. Robert Fleming, R-Allegheny, denied that his request for a special legislative investigation of the price-regulating agency was politically inspired.

School Reorganization — Seven Republicans introduced a resolution calling for a moratorium on school merger proceedings under a 1961 law until the 1963 legislature can amend or repeal the statute.

AN UNREASONABLE ATTITUDE

Q: Just recently my sister had quite a run-in with a young woman who was a friend of both of us. I always liked this person and hate to have our friendship end because of this unfortunate incident. However, my sister refuses to have anything further to do with her and says that if I remain friends with her, I will be very disloyal and announce to everyone that I think my sister wrong and my friend right. I am between the devil and the deep blue sea as I don't want to hurt either one. I would appreciate your opinion and any advice you can give me on this matter.

A: I think your sister's point of view unreasonable, but as long as she feels the way she does, you really have no choice but to stop seeing this friend.

Q: When "At Home" cards are enclosed with wedding announcements and the "At Home" date is several weeks after the wedding date, does that mean that people are not expected to pay visits on them until after that date?

A: Yes, the date means that they do not expect to be back from their wedding trip and settled in their new house until then.

Q: My employer left on an extended trip recently and before he went away he came to my desk and said good-bye. There was an awkward moment of not knowing what to do about shaking hands. I thought he should have offered his hand, but he didn't. Will you please tell me if this was an error on my part. Ordinarily I know that a woman extends her hand to a man, but as this man is my business superior I thought it would be presumptuous of me to offer him my hand. May I have your opinion on this matter?

A: It was in best taste not to offer your hand first, but it certainly would not have been improper if you had done so.

Tips to Housewives Who Fritter Away Best Hours

A recent study shows that for most people the most productive hours are those in the first half of the morning.

There's a tip there for housewives. If it is possible to accomplish more in the first half of the morning than at any other period of the day then the early morning hours aren't the time for:

- Sitting and sipping a third cup of coffee and reading the paper to rest up from the ordeal of getting the family off to school and work.
- Calling friends to chat on the telephone about last night's party or to trade the latest gossip.
- Dropping in on a neighbor for a little visit before getting down to work.
- Puttering around with little bits of busy work to put off facing the hard jobs that have to be done.
- Turning on the TV to watch a favorite morning program.
- Deciding to run errands that could be done at any time of the day.

All of those little devices for postponing the inevitable time when the hard work has to be done just eat up the best and most productive hours.

And yet that is how many housewives began their day's work — stalling and killing time instead of pitching in and getting as much of it out of the way as possible while they are still fresh and not yet pushed for time.

If you've ever noticed, that isn't the way the good managers, the best housekeepers you know start their days. They work hard and fast during the morning hours and then are through while the morning-wasters are still complaining, "I've got so much to do I don't know how in the world I am ever going to get it all done."

The 85th annual meeting of the combined Board of Directors and Trustees of the Children's Home took place on January 29 at the Home, 77 East Chester Street. Mrs. Elizabeth Chilson, president of the Board of Directors, presided at the meeting and received committee reports of the year's activities and a report from Gerald Shampo, executive director, which projected the future of the Children's Home. Mrs. Chilson was elected to succeed herself.

Other officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. James Betts, vice president, Mrs. T. R. Smalldon, second vice president, Mrs. Arthur Patterson, treasurer, Mrs. Harry Halverson, assistant treasurer, Mrs. Howard Terwilliger, recording secretary, Miss Mabel Cook, corresponding secretary.

Many volunteers have assisted the Children's Home during the year. Dentists examined each boy every six months. One boy is given piano lessons, a group are taught woodworking, and six women tutor those boys who need extra help in mathematics and reading. Friends in the community have taken the boys on trips and into their homes.

Boys in the Children's Home range from age six through 18 years and all attend Public School. Three boys are active in Scouting. During the past year only two cases of measles and no other contagious diseases were recorded. Two tonsillectomies and one appendectomy were performed.

First Pony Club Meeting Draws Large Group

More than 30 children attended the first official meeting of the newly formed Woodstock Pony Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Chepeleff last Sunday.

There were promises of more members in the future. The first meeting was attended by youngsters from all parts of Ulster County, including Highland, Kingston, Saugerties, Stone Ridge and Woodstock.

About a third of the youngsters indicated they ride Western and the remainder prefer English. Two thirds of the group own their own mounts which include horses, ponies and even a donkey.

Charles Ashley, district commissioner, opened the meeting and introduced the instructors: Mrs. Robert Jacobson, Mrs. Paul Le Paige and Mrs. Daniel Morehouse. The purposes of the Pony Club were outlined and ideas for future activities discussed.

The instructors proposed that the first project should be a stable inspection conducted periodically during the year. The child who maintained the highest standards within his or her financial limitation would receive a plaque. To encourage good stable management, Dr. Le Paige generously offered to donate a plaque.

Both instructors and pupils learned some fascinating things from a test that was given to the children to divide them into working groups. They will meet in these groups on February 11.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Perlman and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. van Rijn have kindly given the pony clubbers the use of their grounds for the forthcoming meeting.

The next general meeting will be held later in February at which new members are invited to enroll. Persons desiring more information are asked to contact Pat Jacobson, secretary.

Asks State Be Tougher on Smut Literature Sale

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The "smut merchant" is damaging the morals of the state's youth more than "all the insidious propaganda of Moscow's Marxist marts," the chairman of a legislative committee to combat obscenity says.

The committee, in a report to the Legislature Tuesday, renewed its plea for more stringent state laws to prohibit distribution and sale of obscene matter.

The group, headed by Assemblyman Luigi R. Marano, R-Brooklyn, said portrayal of lewdness and brutality was becoming rampant in the state.

Marano urged the motion picture, television and publishing industries to adopt an effective system of self-regulation. He also asked that Congress give postal officials increased authority to fight distribution of obscene material through the mails.

Bus Certificate Revoked by PSC, Action Was Asked

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission revoked today the certificate of a bus company that operates between Little Falls and Fonda and granted a temporary permit to another firm for the same route.

The Little Falls-Fonda Bus Corp., which had reported continuing operating losses, had asked that its certificate be revoked. The company will discontinue the Little Falls-Fonda service Saturday.

Central New York Coach Lines Inc. of Utica, which was granted a temporary certificate, was ordered by the PSC to begin service between Little Falls and Fonda no later than next Monday.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie production here is at the lowest ebb since the strikes of 1959, but there appears to be no alarm.

Three major studies have one film apiece — "Jumbo" (Doris Day, Stephen Boyd) at MGM; "Who's Got the Action" (Dean Martin, Lana Turner) at Paramount and "Gypsy" (Rosalind Russell, Natalie Wood) at Warners.

Columbia, 20th-Fox, Disney, Allied Artists and Universal have no films shooting here. Twelve American movies are being made overseas.

Four big independent films are in production locally: "Taras Bulba" (Yul Brynner, Tony Curtis); "A Child Is Waiting" (Burt Lancaster, Judy Garland); "Two for the Seesaw" (Shirley MacLaine, Robert Mitchum); and "The Manchurian Candidate" (Frank Sinatra). Also one offering which may be the height of dirty pictures—"The Slime People."

Eight pictures shooting in a town that once averaged 50!

The outlook for 1962 seems brighter. With box office figures improving, producers seem more willing to take chances. The production picture is bound to get brighter—if only because it can't get worse.

POLLY'S QUIZ

Antiques Blend With Modern To Produce Warming Effect

A good many young couples, now married for six or seven years, have wearied of the very modern furniture they bought when they were first married. At the time, it seemed the thing to do.

Now, they have discovered that they want more warmth and softness so they are making the swing around to Early American wherever the shift proves financially feasible.

If this description fits you, take hope. The clean simplicity of good modern design has a lot in common with Early American antiques.

Begin to scout around for antique accessories. Skillfully introduced into a contemporary room, they will bring with them warmth and personality.

Dear Polly: For the first time in years, I am completely redoing my living room. The sofa will be dark brown or that royal blue and green striped effect. While I like modern, may I mix Early American end tables with a modern sectional? I have a platform rocker and large chair. I am inclined toward brown but fear that it may prove drab. Please brighten me up.—Mrs. P. R.

Dear Mrs. P. R.: The simple lines of modern will be quite compatible with Early American. Do get the green-and-blue sofa. White walls, a deep green rug and draperies to match should provide a handsome background for the sofa. Recover the rocker with white plastic fabric and slip cover the large chair with a quilted chintz in blue, green, white and gold.

Dear Polly: Would it be good taste to use a wing-back couch and chairs with limed oak tables if we stick to plain fabrics rather than Colonial prints? — Mrs. D. M.

Dear Mrs. D. M.: Be brave and go ahead. Even use a print if you like. But avoid the use of too many itsy-bitsy patterns, any time and any place.

Dear Polly: My bedroom walls are white and the draperies are light green. Bedroom suite is gray. What color would be a nice change for walls and woodwork?—Mrs. M. R.

Dear Mrs. M. R.: Try wallpaper for a change. It has never been lovelier. Consider a white ground with sprawling flower design in golden yellow, gray and green. Woodwork could be green for a different effect. Ceiling, too.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Seek Student Loan First At College of Your Choice

BY FAYE HENLE

Q — Please publish the name and addresses of where I might apply for a student loan? — A. M. L.

A — A. M. L.: Your first inquiry for a student loan, including those made under the National Defense Education Act, should be to the college of your choice. Colleges make the cheapest loans and they might be able to direct you toward scholarships or bank loans. Savings bank loans, with funds guaranteed by state government, are generally cheaper than those offered by commercial banks.

Q—If the witness predeceased the maker of a will, must a new witness be substituted?—T. B. M.

A—Dear T. B. M.: The answer is no—no new witness is needed.

Q—I have just been made the trustee of a small fund. Is it true that I can only invest the trust's income in stocks like AT & T and approved legals? — J. J. B.

A—Dear J. J. B.: I can't possibly answer this, and most probably the reason you ask is because you have not read the trust agreement.

A good trust instrument spells out exactly what a trustee may or may not do. If it says you may only invest in legals or "prudent man" issues, then you'll have to find out which are permitted under the law of your state (this varies).

If you are given a free hand, you should determine the purpose of the trust—to provide income or growth of capital— and make your investment plans accordingly.

Q — I've been a widow for 28 years. The Social Security benefit I receive is based on my work, since my husband died before Social Security began. What I do not understand is why widows who receive benefits on their husbands' work receive an increase, while widows, such as myself, who worked under Social Security, receive no increase? — A. W. W.

A — Dear A. W. W.: All laws have certain inequalities, I fear, and this I would spot as one. It is true that recent changes in the Social Security law increased by 10 per cent the amounts widows 62 and over receive on their husband's accounts. The reason given is that the benefit is for one person and surveys have shown that widows are less able than other aged persons to supplement their benefits to any significant degree.

Q — What is a cosigner on a loan? — L. T.

A — Dear L. T.: It is a second signature promising to repay the loan. The cosigner is exactly as liable for payment of the debt as the original borrower.

Could Mean Tensions Are Easing

Salinger's Trip May Pave Way for JFK Moscow Visit

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)— Tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union seem to be easing off a bit. Even the Berlin crisis may be in for a prolonged lull.

This is the main significance seen here in several fresh developments highlighted by the announcement Tuesday that President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, will visit the Soviet Union in late April or May.

Alexei Made Bid

Salinger said the trip will be made in response to an invitation extended by Soviet editor Alexei Adzhubei, Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, at a luncheon with President Kennedy.

The Salinger trip could prove in the long run to be a trail blazer for a visit by Kennedy himself. Informed officials say that is not in the plans now. There is still too much tension between Moscow and Washington, as things now stand.

Adzhubei spent three hours talking with Kennedy and it was generally assumed that the Russian followed the same line which he had taken with newsmen who met him at the Soviet Embassy Monday night. His argument then was that though there are many points of East-West dispute each side should take whatever small steps are possible to improve relations. He said this is not the time for big steps.

See Cooling-Off Period

U.S. officials were reluctant to give deep significance to his remarks. They believe, however, that Khrushchev at least intends to have a cooling off period in East-West conflict.

There was no immediate word as to President Kennedy's own estimate of the situation.

Last Sunday, obviously with Kennedy's blessing, Salinger met in Paris with Mikhail Kharlamov, Soviet Foreign Ministry press chief, and reportedly talked about improving communications between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Their discussion is believed to have covered such things as exchanges of recorded statements and taped television appearances involving Kennedy, Khrushchev, and other high government officials. Adzhubei interviewed Kennedy late last year and published the text in Izvestia, the government newspaper he edits.

Berlin Critical Test

How accurately these straws in the wind point to the future course of East-West relations will be determined, in the view of the State Department, not so much by goodwill visits and friendly statements as by what happens.

U.S. leaders say that Berlin offers a critical test case. If Khrushchev does not stir up new trouble over Berlin the Western powers will let the situation ride as it is indefinitely.

A more critical test of the ability of the powers to do something about peace in the world will come in general disarmament negotiations scheduled to open in mid-March.

Squeeze Play Is Sure-Fire

By OSWALD JACOBY

South's seven-spade bid was distinctly optimistic and apparently he had no play for it because the club finesse was wrong, but he was able to make the contract by means of a very unusual squeeze play.

The interesting feature of this play was that South knew he was using a sure thing play because he counted the opponents' distribution.

He started by marking East with all the high diamonds on the bidding and opening lead.

He ruffed the first diamond, led one trump and noted that East was void of that suit.

Then he played three rounds of hearts, ruffing the third in dummy and noted that East had started with exactly two hearts. A second diamond ruff marked West with at least two diamonds. Therefore West had started with three spades six hearts and at least two diamonds. The squeeze had to operate.

South ran off all but one of his trumps and discarded down to the ace-king of clubs and two diamonds in dummy. East had to let two clubs go in order to hang on to two diamonds.

Now South cashed dummy's two high clubs, ruffed a diamond to get back to his hand and made the last trick with the deuce of clubs.

Rules Are Relaxed So Son, 7, Can See Blind Mother

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Georgia Hathaway, a deaf and blind woman whose fight to keep her child attracted widespread attention six years ago, is recovering from a heart attack in Akron General Hospital.

The hospital relaxed its rules on children's visiting rights to allow Mrs. Hathaway's son, Clarence, who will be 7 on Feb. 17, to visit her. Clarence is the eyes and ears of his mother, who is 43, and father, Harold Hathaway, 60, who also is deaf and blind. The couple in 1955 won a court fight to prevent a welfare agency from placing Clarence in a foster home.

Mrs. Hathaway need no longer stay in an oxygen tent and is able to sit in a chair three times a day and feed herself.

2 Persons Hurt In Car Mishaps On Icy Highways

Two persons were injured Tuesday in traffic accidents investigated by Highland State Police.

Trooper James Kaljian said Russell Huggins, 37, of Circleville, was injured at 8:10 a. m. yesterday when a 1952 car he was driving was involved in a collision with another vehicle on Route 32 near Rock Hill Road, New Paltz.

Troopers said Huggins was driving a car owned by Spaulding Bakery of Middletown and while stopped for a school bus the vehicle was struck in the rear by a car owned by Parsons of Kingston and operated by William Hughens Jr., 28, of 118 Huguenot Street, New Paltz.

Kaljian said the car driven by Hughens skidded on slippery pavement. Huggins complained of a neck injury and said he would see his physician.

At 12:30 p. m. yesterday Helen Sparacio, 22, of Crescent Avenue, Clintondale, suffered a sprained neck when the 1959 car in which she was riding skidded and struck a tree off Milton Turnpike near South Street, in the Town of Plattekill.

Trooper Kaljian said the car was operated by Francis Paul Fino, 22, of Highland. The vehicle was traveling west on Milton Turnpike when it skidded across the highway, struck guard posts and then slid back across the highway and struck a tree.

Women Spectators

First time that women, in large numbers, attended a professional boxing bout in the United States was at the Jess Willard-Frank Moran fight in Madison Square Garden in 1916.

Q. Can you name the textbook that's completely rewritten every day?

A. There is one, you know. It's your daily newspaper. When you stop to think, isn't your newspaper the most up-to-date textbook on a great many school subjects?

It's unsurpassed in coverage of current political, social or economic events. It's filled with reports of latest discoveries in biology, chemistry and all sciences. It also fills in background on foreign lands for foreign-language study. It prints articles on local history . . . food, family, furnishings news of use in homemaking courses . . . texts of great speeches . . . examples of English composition and good grammar.

No wonder more and more teachers are using newspapers in classrooms to enrich basic-course material. In fact, newspapers have become such a widespread teaching tool that an extensive program of teachers' workshops has been created. At these sessions—held at various colleges throughout the country—teachers learn the most effective techniques for using newspapers in class to stimulate student interest. Sponsored jointly by educators and American Newspaper Publishers Association, these workshops help teachers help students become active, well-informed citizens. As a textbook for youth or the main source of information for all Americans, our country's newspapers never stop serving.

NOTE TO TEACHERS: This newspaper will be glad to help you begin a newspaper-in-classroom program at your school. If you have any questions on this subject, please call or write us.

High School Cagers Coast to 73-56 Win Over Monticello

Early Outburst Insures Maroon Of DUSO Victory

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Mike Ferraro scored 11 points in a first period burst and his Kingston High teammates took over from there as they smothered Monticello, 73-56, in a DUSO game last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

The win, achieved before the smallest crowd of the season, was the fifth in seven league starts and makes the record for the year a respectable 7-4.

Once the home side got rolling in the opening session, there wasn't any doubt as to the outcome. Ferraro hit for three quick baskets and John Falvey made two layups and a free throw to get their teammates off to a commanding lead. It had zoomed to 12 points, 35-22, at halftime.

Rally Fizzles

Monticello staged a rally in the third period, coming to within 10 points. After Ronnie Thomas and Paul Natale had tallied quick baskets at the start of the period, Willie Harden hit with two jumpers and Tom D'Ari followed a free throw by Falvey with a layup. After Al Greenfield's charity toss had sliced the lead to 40-30, Ferraro scored two driving layups, taking passes from Natale and Thomas. A jumper by Harden and another by Thomas made the scoreboard read, 46-32, with 3:30 left in the period. For all intents and purposes, the Monties were finished for the evening.

Coach John Gilligan inserted reserves in the final quarter and they all had a hand in the final outcome. It was a team triumph, with all nine performers doing their share.

Ferraro, the league's leading scorer, led the winners with 24 points. Thomas and Falvey were also in double digits while Duffner did yeoman work on the backboards. Harden, a good outside shooter, had 18 for the Monties.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

"Why bring in all these high priced stars, when we have our own Dick Howard," the man asked.

The Sangi Bowlero quipster must have been joking, of course. Or he might still be suffering from the tremendous letdown in watching Tom Hennessey Sunday night.

Then again, he was only half right.

There was no faulting Detroit's flamboyant Billy G. (Golombiewski) last spring. He only clobbered the maples for 1102 in five games, a mere 220-plus average.

But this Howard fellow had the man intrigued.

"The guy is just phenomenal in these exhibitions," he went on. "Against Billy G., he tossed a 636 series and Tom Carlino added 600 for 1236. The only reason they lost is because Billy G knocked off 693 and Mike Rienzo game him 597 for 1290."

"Along comes this guy Hennessey," the man continued., "and Howard rolls 211 and 236. That gives him a cool 1083 for five games against the pros. That's a real nice 216-plus average in front of a big crowd."

"Maybe he likes big crowds," the man went on. "Most guys get nervous and choke up before a big home town crowd. Not Howard . . . he thrives on it. So, no matter what big shot they book, we know Dick will put on a show for the folks, even if the big pro doesn't."

"And, say, didn't that Hennessey have an awful time Sunday night? I never felt so sorry for a big timer in my life. Maybe he was tired after that long grind at Albany in the Empire State Open. Whatever it was, he sure didn't live up to his press clippings, did he?"

"I noticed he did alright up there . . . finished fourth and picked up over a thousand bucks. Can it be that 15 and 16 at Sangis are that much tougher than all those lanes in Albany?"

It was pretty tough shutting this fellow up. He went right on talking:

"Guess Hennessey just couldn't find the line at Sangi's. You know that bugs me. All you hear these days is the line, the line. It must be a lot easier to find the line in Albany."

"But I got a suggestion to make to Red Sangi. He ought to contact Hennessey and have him come back some day soon. Just to prove that all the stuff written about him before he came here wasn't a fake. They can't charge Red anything, you know. This has to be for free."

Chris Gallo on Rampage:

Chris Gallo doesn't have to prove that any "700" he rolls is a fluke. He's had three this season, two of them back-to-back in the Invitational Classic at the Bowlerama. The most recent was a 726 spiced with a 300 game. His 700s to date, include a pair of 711s and the 726.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Phil Versace, the Poughkeepsie hotshot, emerged leader among area shooters at Albany with 4,003 for his 20-game total, a 200-plus average. He missed the head-to-head finals by 28 pins but picked up $140 in prize money. . . . Jack Ferraro was over 200 in 12 of his 16 qualifying games but a pair of 140s, a 150 and 160 was his undoing. . . . Kudos to Jack Brown, a 158 average Tavern Association kegler, who made his career first 600 triple a hefty 637. . . . Gene Mulligan is on a hot streak in the Chalet Mixer which rolls in his establishment at Rosendale. . . . Orchids go to: Dutch Hoffman, for converting the "double pinochle" in the Sport Haven League; Bill Robinson, City Minor, for a 158 triplicate. . . . How about this jewel of consistency: June Holliday, a 127 average bowler in the IBM Feather League, rolled her average three consecutive games for a 127-127-127-381 triplicate! The WIBC's oddities bureau has to know about this one. . . . Bob Hoe of Poughkeepsie has returned his establishments to affiliation with the Hudson Valley Bowling Proprietors Association. This is a sensible move because it eliminates an embarrassing situation and makes all HVBPA events available to Hoe's large clientele. . . . The valley proprietors are looking for a topflight publicity director. If the organization has one glaring weakness, it's in the publicity department . . . its failure to sell its promotions to the bowlers. . . . Nell Glennon, KWBA president, and her staff heading for Watertown next week to establish the final total of teams for the 1962 state women's tournament which opens here March 23. 3,000 we hope.

Blue Devils of Duke, A Powerful Cage Squad

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Duke's Blue Devils, boasting a couple of sophomore sensations to augment junior phenom Art Heyman, has developed into one of the most formidable college basketball clubs in Dixie.

Duke, ranked sixth in the current Associated Press poll, bolstered its season's record to 13-2 with an impressive 89-73 victory over South Carolina at Durham, N.C., Tuesday night. The Blue Devils took over undisputed possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 6-1 mark

Only one other member of the top 10, Cincinnati, saw action Tuesday night. The Bearcats, No. 2 nationally, subdued Drake 73-52 in a Missouri Valley game. The triumph, at home, boosted Cincinnati's record to 15-2 and 5-2 in league play.

31 for Mullins

Jeff Mullins, a 6-4 soph with a deft touch, supplied the scoring impetus for Duke with a 31-point outburst against South Carolina. Jay Buckley, a 6-10 sophomore pivot, turned in his best game with 26 points while the 6-5 Heyman, the ACC scoring leader, collected 20 points—including several key baskets.

Heyman, who entered the game as the fifth leading scorer in the country, is averaging 27.9 points per game. Mullins raised his season's average to 21.1, fourth best in the ACC.

Big Paul Hogue found the range for 29 points in spearheading Cincinnati's imposing conquest of Drake. Two Drake defenders had their hands full guarding the 6-9 center, and both eventually fouled out.

The Bearcats controlled the backboards and assumed a 36-22 halftime bulge. Cincy cleared the bench after the intermission and still posted a convincing success.

Cincinnati's 5-2 league slate tied the Ohioans with Wichita for second place in the MVC. Bradley leads with a 6-1 mark.

In other games, host North Carolina State rolled over Virginia 99-72 in an ACC game as Ken Rohloff led the way with 25 points. Texas Tech moved into sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference with a 69-63 victory over SMU at Dallas behind Dave Siegmund's 20 points. Jerry Carlton accumulated 32 points as Arkansas knocked Rice out of a share of the SWC lead 104-84.

Houston extended its record to 15-3 with a 73-69 verdict over Texas A&M as Don Schverak hit for 25 points. TCU rallied in the second half to top Baylor 69-53 and climb out of the SWC cellar. Texas staved off a second-half spurt by Trinity and prevailed 95-89. And Hunter Beckman amassed 35 points in Memphis State's 86-72 triumph over The Citadel.

Foley Hits 30

Elsewhere, Jack Foley, the nation's third leading scorer with a 31.5 average, flipped in 30 points as Holy Cross won its ninth in a row at the expense of Dartmouth 92-61. Tennessee Tech handed Western Kentucky its first Ohio Valley Conference setback 79-72.

Liberty Cagers Top Port Jervis, 65-60

Liberty rallied in the last period to trip Port Jervis, 65-60, in a DUSO game last night at the Porter's gym. Charles Bruns and Jeff Smith tallied 20 points each for the winners while Don Harding netted 17 for Port Jervis.

In a non-league game yesterday afternoon, Middletown defeated Monroe-Woodbury, 66-48. Bill Kindberg netted 22 and Bill Gray 16 for the Middies.

Ganders Clinch Upset Verdict With Late Rally

With six players giving outstanding performances, Rondout Valley surprised the high flying Saugerties Sawyers, 63-57, in a thriller yesterday at the winners' court in Stone Ridge.

The defending DCSL champions were forced to play without the services of regulars Al Hrdlicka and Keith Mills, both absent from school. However, this didn't take the glitter off the victory by the home side. It was the top effort of the season for the Ganders.

After leading during most of the final period, the winners had a brief lapse and the Sawyers knotted the score, 57-57, with a little more than a minute left. Then Jim Brush and Richie Lewis made key baskets and Lewis added two free throws. This sealed the upset.

Brush and Lewis led the winners with 15 points each while Bob Barnum and Lynn Johnson added 14. Mike Dodig topped Saugerties with 21 markers. Bill Schirmer had 13 and Paul Buytkins 12.

Saugerties won a jayvee thriller, 34-31, as Bob Gilmore made 10 points.

Germans Cop 4-Man Bobsled

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany (AP) — Germany's Franz Schelle, a mustachioed 32-year-old transportation company executive, looked ahead today to an invitational bobsled meet in Lake Placid, N.Y., as the first major event in his new role as world four-man champion.

Schelle, who Tuesday mastered the much-maligned, mile-long Olympic run here in the two championship heats of the fours, plans to make the trek to the United States to compete in the special invitational World Diamond Bobsled Trophy meet Feb. 18-25.

He will be accompanied by his brakeman, diminutive Otto Goebl. He will be joined in the upstate New York winter resort by world two-man champion Rinaldo Ruatti of Italy, and his brakeman Enrico Delorenzo. There is also a possibility that Ruatti's teammate, Segio Zardini, also will make the trip. Zardini finished second in both the two and four man championships here.

The lone United States sled, that finished 14th in the field of 15 Tuesday, will remain in Germany. Driver Lloyd Johnson, from Madison, Wis., is a businessman in Frankfurt, Germany, and his crew is made up of U.S. servicemen stationed in Europe.

Rondout Valley Gun Club Burns Its Mortgage

Members of the Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club, Inc., had a double-barrelled celebration at their annual venison dinner. They burned a 15-year mortgage and received the Ulster County Pistol League championship trophy. About 100 members and wives were present for the ceremonies.

George Schwab, who was introduced by club president, John Dickerson, related the history and development of the club and several of the older members participated in a session of reminiscing.

Judge Herbert Poppel presented the Pistol League trophy to team captain, Anthony Setariano. E. Samuels officiated at the formal burning of the mortgage.

In his historical review, Schwab noted that the Rondout club was established in 1927, making it the oldest rod and gun club in Ulster County. The original by-laws were written by Milliard Davis, former assemblyman and prominent Ulster County citizen.

Members met at Deyo's Garage in Kerhonkson in the early years of the club. The main objectives of the organization were conservation of wild life and to promote better relationship between the sportsmen and the land owners. Trapshooting and field days were held in the area known as "Macinoc." The club enjoyed many activities up to the war years.

In 1947 by incorporating, the present clubhouse and land was purchased. The club remains active in the conservation program and has added to its activities the Hunter Safety course and the 25-man pistol team.

Beacon Scores 47-39 Upset Over Newburgh

The unbeaten string of the Newburgh Goldbacks was snapped at 11 last night as Beacon pulled off a stunning 47-39 upset at the Hilly City court.

Playing without star center John Sileno, home with the flu bug, the home side couldn't get their scoring machine in high gear. After taking a 15-5 first period lead, the Goldies trailed, 23-18 and 33-32 at the other stops.

Sopohomore Henry Brown led the Bulldogs with 21 points while Richie Scott's 20 paced Newburgh. Al Angelone was held to four markers.

YMCA Contest Halted in 4th Quarter as Players Brawl

Players from Trailways Cafeteria and Hayes Lincoln-Mercury became involved in a hot dispute last night during a YMCA Basketball League game and the contest was halted with a minute gone in the fourth period and with the Cafeteria five leading, 49-46.

What transpired is somewhat hazy but it reportedly started when a player from each club began fighting. Both benches emptied on the court and referees Ken Dyson and Whitey Meyers couldn't restore order. Therefore, they halted the game at the point the rumpus started.

Steve Orozco, YMCA athletic director, said there has been no decision made as to whether the game will go into the books as an official win for the Cafeteria. "That will be decided in the near future," he said.

The scheduled second game between Delanoy Fuel and Byrne Chevrolet was postponed. Several players were unable to appear because of sickness.

Highland Decisions Onteora Team, 60 - 50

Highland Central cagers won their second game of the season last night, stopping visiting Onteora, 60-50, in a DCAL engagement.

The home side, which recently broke a 45-game losing streak, took the lead early in the opening period and held it the rest of the way, despite several threats by the Indians.

Tom Gruner gave a good show for Highland, hitting for 18 points. Fred Ellis scored 16. Rolf Medal, the Onteora workhorse, had 15 markers.

Highland made it a clean sweep by winning the jayvee contest, 44-28. Dick Nardone led the home side with 16 points.

Major Colleges Ponder Dropping Frosh Athletics

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) —There's an indication in the future that intercollegiate athletic contests for freshmen at Penn State, Pitt, Syracuse and West Virginia may be halted, it was reported today.

Paul Poorman, a staff writer for the Centre Daily Times, made the observation in a story about Penn State football.

Poorman quoted Ernie McCoy, athletic director at Penn State, as saying in an interview:

"This (no freshmen contests) would allow a boy to spend his first year—with its difficult personal and academic adjustments —without the worry of making the team. We feel it might be a good thing and be of overall benefit to the boys—and to the institution."

Poorman also reported that McCoy and the athletic directors at Syracuse and Pitt are currently exploring the possibility of ending the practice known as "red shirting." This is holding a boy out of competition for a year, solely to better utilize his talents a year later.

"It isn't fair," Poorman quoted McCoy. "And in my opinion it constitutes over-emphasis."

Dick Tiger Earns Award in Boxing

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger's knockout triumph over Cuba's Florentino Fernandez has earned the Nigerian the "fighter of the month" award from Ring magazine and a boost in the middleweight rankings.

The British empire 160-pound champion was elevated over Paul Pender, former middleweight champion from Brookline, Mass., to the No. 2 contender's position. Pender was dropped to third. Ring recognizes England's Terry Downes as world champion. Gene Fullmer, the NBA middleweight king from West Jordan, Utah, is the No. 1 contender in the monthly ratings released today.

Eder Jofre of Brazil settled the dispute over the bantamweight title by knocking out Johnny Caldwell of Ireland. Caldwell was dropped a notch and now ranks as the No. 2 contender behind Mexico's Joe Medel.

Bout With Robinson Looms for Giardello

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joey Giardello, eighth-ranked National Boxing Association middleweight contender, may get Sugar Ray Robinson as his next opponent after defeating Henry Hank of Detroit by a split decision in a 10-round feature bout.

The decision over the ninth-ranked Hank, who had beaten Giardello in Detroit last July, drew boos from many of the 5,867 fans in Convention Hall Tuesday night. Giardello weighed 164, Hank 163½.

Co-promoter Al Lewis has proposed matching the winner with Robinson in a bout at Convention Hall.

Selvy, Larusso Fill the Void Left by Baylor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way Frank Selvy and Rudy Larusso acted Tuesday night, maybe Jerry West will get some major help in keeping the Los Angeles Lakers humming toward the Western Division title in the National Basketball Association.

West, who has been carrying much of the load in those games when Elgin Baylor can't get away from the Army, scored 36 points —about par for him. But Selvy chipped in with 22 and Larusso with 23 and the Lakers had a mostly easy time of it in whipping the Chicago Packers, 107-92.

The victory, the Lakers' 20th in 23 home games, pushed their over-all record to 40-15 and enabled them to maintain their 8½-game lead over runner-up Cincinnati. The Royals also used balanced scoring in downing the St. Louis Hawks 131-121.

In the only other game played, Richie Guerin's 46 points triggered New York to a 116-110 conquest of Philadelphia, which had won seven in a row.

Sharman Coach Of Cleveland Club

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Sharman, who made a big jump from Boston player to Los Angeles coach, is now in Cleveland as coach of the Pipers of the American Basketball League.

The 31-year-old Sharman, a backcourt ace of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association for 10 years, was hired by the Pipers late Tuesday after John McLendon walked out in a feud with owner George Steinbrenner.

Sharman had been coach of the Los Angeles Jets until that team folded operations a few weeks ago.

Under McLendon the Pipers had won the first half championship in the Eastern Division, but now are in last place after dropping seven of nine games.

Tapers Have Hex Over Pittsburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Tapers probably would like to play the Pittsburgh Rens all the time in the American Basketball League.

The Tapers have won three of nine games in the second half race and all three have been against the Rens.

No. 3 came Tuesday night at Commack, N.Y., as the Tapers ended a 4-game Piftsburgh winning streak 114-93. The defeat cut the first place Rens' lead in the Eastern Division to one game over Chicago and 1½ over New York.

Kansas City, the first half champions, snapped a two-game losing streak by edging Hawaii 84-81 at Honolulu in the other league game scheduled.

Carry Back Launches 4-Year-Old Carer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The $25,000-added Palm Beach Handicap today tests Carry Back, last year's 3-year-old champion, and 13 other horses over seven furlongs at Hialeah Park.

Tartan Stable's Intentionally, ridden by Bob Ussery, was top weighted at 126 pounds. Mrs. Katherine Price's Carry Back, with Johnny Sellers up, will lug 124 pounds.

If all started the race would be worth $21,000 to the winner. Carry Back earned $851,648 last season.

Advice Is Given Area Taxpayers

Taxpayers who complete the Form 1040 were reminded today by local district director James A. O'Hara to fasten Forms W-2 (Copy B) securely to the face of the return.

The tax official said the completed Form 1040, with W-2's attached, should be sent to the taxpayer's local district director of internal revenue. If there is a balance of tax due, a check or money order payable to the "Internal Revenue Service" should be attached to the top of page 1, Form 1040.

The director emphasized that where a supporting document to the Form 1040, such as Schedule B, is required, it should be affixed to the reverse side of the return.

Taxpayers who use Form 1040A should make sure that Forms W-2 (Copy B) and check or money order for balance of tax due, if any, are enclosed with the Form 1040A prior to mailing to their local district director of internal revenue.

Tittle proved instrumental in New York's winning the National Football League Eastern Division championship last season.

"I don't know if I'm going to play next season," said the veteran quarterback who operates an insurance business here, "but if I do, I'm really going to hang 'em up after it's over."

Taboos of Sponsor Related by NBC, Practice Ending

WASHINGTON (AP)—A television network official says advertisers have been allowed to control the content of entertainment programs because they pay for them. But the practice is on the decline, he added.

The testimony came Tuesday from Mort Werner, National Broadcasting Co. vice president in charge of network television programming, as the Federal Communications Commission continued its study of network program policies.

The hearings were recessed today while the FCC held its regular monthly meeting, but will resume Thursday with further questioning of NBC executives.

Werner said that sponsor taboos have been accepted by the networks on the theory "that the man who pays the bills has a right to some voice in shaping the product."

Werner said most sponsors reserve "a measure of control in terms of 'corporate policy' or 'business policy.' For the most part changes suggested or insisted upon because of this reservation are not significant insofar as basic program content is concerned.

"A cigarette sponsor bans cigar smoking; an automobile manufacturer doesn't want an auto accident in the story. These requirements do not really interfere with the entertainment objective of the programs or with their creative integrity."

Lane to Lead Off

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assemblyman Mark Lane, who launched the conflict-of-interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino, will be one of the lead-off witnesses at a public hearing Thursday.

The hearing into the charge has been called by the Assembly Committee on Ethics, which has been holding a series of private hearings on the issue.

Lane, a Manhattan Democrat, has charged that Carlino, a Republican, was guilty of a conflict of interest because he was a director of a firm that manufactured fallout shelters at the same time the Legislature approved a program of state aid for construction of shelters in schools.

Poughquag Man Injured in Fall

Injured in a fall from a moving tractor on Monday, Grant H. Kendall, 50, of Poughquag, remained in grave condition today at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie. His name is on the hospital's critical list.

Town of Poughkeepsie Police Chief Vincent Smith said Kendall, chairman of the Town of Beekman Board of Assessors, apparently fell from the tractor when it lurched forward.

The injured farmer was taken to the hospital in a private automobile escorted by town police.

GE Board Names 2 New Directors

NEW YORK (AP) — The General Electric Co. has announced the election of two members of the board of directors—Walter B. Wriston and Dr. Edwin D. Harrison.

Wriston is executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York. Harrison is president of the Georgia Institute of Technology.

GE President Ralph D. Cordiner, who made the announcement Tuesday, said the election of the two men "was in keeping with GE's policy of maintaining a board with broad experience in many fields, . .and with wide geographical representation."

A GE spokesman said only three members of the 17-member board were drawn from within the company.

Cubs Protected

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pennsylvania was the first state to give protection to cub bears. In 1925, a legislative act declared that a bear to be legally taken in the Commonwealth must be "not less than one year old." As a rule a cub bear born in January or February weighs 50 to 80 pounds by autumn. By the time the second hunting season rolls around, a young bear weighs 120-150 pounds.

Folklore, Tradition Theme Of Paltz Seminar Saturday

The Ulster County Senior Seminar students will participate Saturday in what is planned as a very different and unique seminar at the State University College, New Paltz, starting at 10 a. m.

The topic theme will be "Folklore and Tradition in Your Backyard — A Record of Our Heritage." Dr. Herbert Halpert, professor of education at New Paltz, has been invited to meet with the group of approximately 50 selected students.

Dr. Halpert is a noted authority in the field of folklore and folk songs. During 1939, he was appointed by the Library of Congress to collect, documentate and record some of the traditional folk stories and songs which were in some of the southern and northern regions of our country. He has collected and recorded data from Alaska to Newfoundland, as well as in Florida and Southern California.

One of his major efforts of recording and collection has been in the lumbering areas of New York state. These have been in the counties of Ulster, Sullivan and Delaware.

During the seminar session, Dr. Halpert will describe some of the original legends and traditions of New York State, and personally sing choice folk songs which he has gathered. Records of folk songs will be played.

Dr. Halpert is presently visiting professor at New Paltz. He is married and has one child. In 1942 he received his doctoral degree from the University of Indiana in English. He has also majored in anthropology.

He has been president of the American Folklore Society, as well as president of the Kentucky Folklore Society. Dr. Halpert served as first lieutenant in the U. S. Air Corps from 1943 to 1946. From 1956 to 1961 he was dean of Blackburn College at Carlinville, Ill.

Students participating in the Senior Seminar come from the seven central schools of Ulster County. The seminar is under the direction of the Secondary Principal's Council, and is sponsored by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services through the cooperation of the State University College at New Paltz.

Florida Migrant, Family of 10 to Get State Help

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Florida migrant, his wife and nine children will continue to receive public assistance, pending an appeal of a county order cutting them off from further public funds.

Justice Charles Lambaise of State Supreme Court said that Joseph D. Slater was entitled to relief "on a temporary basis," until his appeal to the State Social Welfare Department was decided.

Slater appealed to the state after William B. Woods, Monroe County welfare commissioner, stopped further aid to Slater's family and provided Slater with bus tickets to Florida.

Slater has been unable to find work here after the harvest seasons.

Woods said, when he stopped the aid, that Florida had acknowledged Slater's eligibility for relief there.

Dutchess County's highway death toll in 1961 was 35.

Little Room for Juggling

Rocky Sets $40 Million Budget Top for Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's budget set a $40-million ceiling today for the start of a widely heralded new program of state aid to public schools.

The money would be part of an increase of $96.5 million in the next school year, an amount recommended by the staff of the Deifendorf Committee on Public School Financing.

Unusually Light Budget

To implement the $96.5-million program, the state would require only $40 million in the next fiscal year, beginning April 1, because the school year does not begin until September.

The unusually tight budget appeared to leave the lawmakers little room for juggling funds to provide more for the schools. Such juggling has been done in previous years.

The Legislature and the governor are awaiting the final report of the dull Diefendorf committee before deciding how the additional education funds are to be apportioned among school districts.

The $40 million and $22 million for the State University were the only new spending programs the governor recommended for education.

This spending, plus the increased costs of programs authorized in previous years, would raise the state's outlay for education to a record $1.1 billion, 43 per cent of the state budget and $139 million more than last fiscal year.

Items to Be Financed

This money would finance:

State aid to public elementary and high schools (up $87 million); scholar incentive grants, Regents' scholarships and student loans for college students (up $30 million); and operation and new construction at the State University (up $22 million).

The preliminary Diefendorf report, upon which the governor's figure is based, would revise the state-aid formulas so that a school district's need of state money would be determined by the district's property value per pupil, compared with a state average of $26,600 in property for each public school pupil.

Rockefeller's other education proposals included:

State University

He said 245 additional teachers were required to carry forth the university's expansion program, which includes addition of liberal arts curricula at the teachers' colleges.

In addition, the university faculty would share in the 5 per cent salary increase the governor recommended for all state employes.

The major capital construction authorization would be $19.5 million for a new campus for the Albany college.

Other new projects asked:

Additional library facilities at Geneseo, $1.4 million; construction of service buildings, New Paltz, $530,000; construction of a class-room and administration building, service buildings, and repairs, Oneonta, $3.2 million; construction of an infirmary building, Oswego, $460,000; construction of a science building, a classroom and faculty office building, Harpur, $6.2 million; construction of a growth chamber laboratory and repairs to Wing Hall, Agriculture College at Cornell, $1.8 million.

Rehabilitation of Sturtevant Hall and conversion of heating plant to oil, Experiment Station at Geneva, $333,000; improvement of grounds, Ranger School Syracuse, $71,000.

Construction of a student activities building, new heating plant, Institute at Alfred, $2 million; construction of a student activities building, Institute at Cobleskill, $1.3 million.

Community Colleges

Three new community colleges are expected to open this year in Monroe, Onohdaga and Sullivan counties. This will bring to 22 the total number of such colleges. Rockefeller recommended a $1.4 million increase in state aid and a $5 million increase for capital construction.
